Council Adopts Report Backing Connelly Opinion

Laws, Rules Committee Agrees Petition Lacks Required Plan to Raise Cash to Give Police-Firemen Increases; Can Still Seek Voters' Approval

A Laws and Rules Committee majority report supporting Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly's opinion that the local police-firemen pay boost petition lacked a required plan for raising the money was adopted by a nine-three party vote at last night's recessed council meeting.

The committee report held that the main issue involved in the bid for council sanction of a petition for a referendum "is whether the proposed local law contains a plan to raise the necessary moneys," but it touched on background of the problem" because of "some of the things that have occurred."

A group of firemen and policemen attended the session.

Last night's action, according to Attorney Frank Martocci, counsel for the policemen and firemen, does not preclude further effort to place the bid for salary increase before the voters in November.

Must Have Plan

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly said today, however, that unless a second petition is accompanied by a plan for raising the money as required under a new section of the home rule law, that the city clerk, as on the previous petition is prohibited from accepting it for referendum.

Signatures of five percent of the qualified voters are required on the second petition.

Martocci took today the attitude that the city clerk has accepted the first petition which was brought before the Common Council last night for filing, and he said that when a second is filed it will be "purely a ministerial act on the part of the city clerk to accept it." There is nothing in the home rule law, he said, to prevent him from accepting it.

Asked whether he would take the question to the high courts if necessary, he said, "That problem will be met when we are faced with it."

Signatures Are Cited

A minority report last night said that 4,000 signatures have been obtained on the petition "asking this body" to place the referendum on the ballot "so as to raise their salaries to conform with those of other cities of like size and to give them a living wage." It also said it believed "the taxpayers and voters of this city should be given every opportunity to decide the policies of the city government."

Attorney Martocci said Kingston probably ranked second or third lowest in the state in wages for its patrolmen and firemen and he asked that the referendum be sanctioned regardless of current opinion on the question of raising the money. He felt the petition was legally safe in its mention of a plan.

Attorney's Figures

Another "ultimate issue" stressed in the majority report is "not whether there should be some salary adjustment, but whether the very specific and very definite increase of $1,000 per man over existing local laws should be adopted. Martocci's figures places the raise at $750, in some cases more and others less.

Figures in the majority report fixed the cost of the proposed increases, plus the pension cost, at $100,000. Martocci said after his talk before the council that he would question figures cited in the report.

A referendum in 1947 established police salaries and another in 1948 established fire salaries in minimum amounts. New minimums would be established by the referendum and part of the in-

New Law Is Given First Reading at Council Session

Aldermen Accept Report of Committee — Is Aimed to Tighten Provisions

A first reading was given before the Common Council last night of a local law that will tighten restrictions against claimants seeking to recover from the city for sidewalk falls.

Democratic aldermen wanted to delay acceptance of a laws and rules committee report on the proposal, but it was passed by a nine-three vote after Republican members contended that it had been with the council for sufficient time.

The law makes more stringent provisions dealing particularly with falls during conditions of snow and ice.

A section of the law currently dealing with other falls where no conditions of snow and ice exist, provides that a prior written notice must have been given to the city to provide opportunity for correcting the condition before a claim can be filed. Under the new proposed law a similar written notice will be required for claims arising of mishaps during conditions of snow and ice.

Alderman James J. Carroll, 10th Ward, asked that the council defer action on the proposal pending further study, and that a check be made with nearby cities on similar laws.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel said he was of the same opinion as Carroll. He felt the law was "a little too stringent." Alderman Carroll, is a new member of the committee he said and did not have the opportunity to study the proposal. He suggested that it be delayed until next month.

Body of Man, 41, Found in Lake

New Yorker Was Writing Book on Loneliness; Missing 5 Days

The body of a 41-year-old New York man was found floating in Lake Chadokee in the town of Lloyd Monday afternoon, five days after he had disappeared from a hotel leaving a note saying he had grown too nervous and irritable to continue working there.

In his effects was found an unfinished biography he had been writing: "Many Lonely Years," by John Morrison, also known as Joseph Ward.

The name, John Morrison, was also found on employment agency papers carried in the drowned man's clothing, Coroner Arthur C. Chipp reported. His address was stated on the papers as 61 West 83rd street, New York.

The body was found by Richard T. Lozier, 23, of 319 Fairview avenue, Poughkeepsie, while Lozier was canoeing on Lake Chadokee near the northern boundary of the town of Lloyd.

Lozier notified state police at the Highland barracks at 4 p. m., and with Trooper Henry Breem returned to the lake and made the body fast to a log until assistance could be found in removing it from the nearly inaccessible part of the lake.

Coroner Is Called

Coroner Chipp was summoned at 5:10 p. m. The assistance of three youths from Camp Stuts, Highland, was enlisted and with the use of a camp truck and canoe the body was removed shortly before midnight.

Linsig Boy Gets First Water via Lips; It Tickles

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A 16-year-old boy, his life despaired of when he was born without an esophagus—the tube that carries food to the stomach—had his first sip of water yesterday.

"It felt kind of ticklish," said Robert Earl Linsig of Marlborough.

The drink was made possible by an operation five years ago.

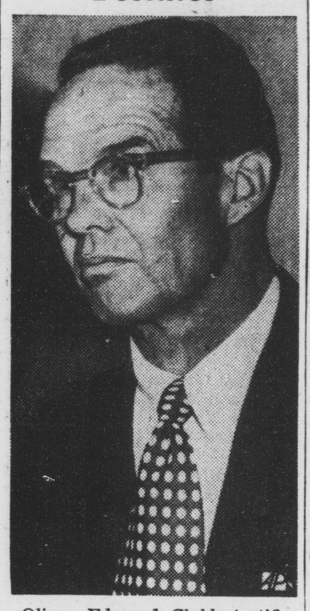

Doctors then joined his stomach and mouth with a section of his small intestine. It didn't take at the time, but the makeshift esophagus was left in place.

Now, after another operation on the same tube, doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center are cautiously hopeful.

The success is uncertain, they say, but indications are that before long Robert may be eating regular food in the regular way.

Robert has "eaten" and "drunk" through a tube in his stomach since birth.

New Paltz to Hold Open House on Huguenot Street

Reformed Church Plans Tour of Colonial Structures Built by Huguenots

Stone houses more than 200 years old, built by French Huguenots who fled the persecution of Louis XIV will be opened to the public Tuesday, Aug. 28 during "Stone House Day" on old Huguenot street, New Paltz.

Ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church of New Paltz, dressed in colorful period costumes will conduct guided tours through the historic buildings from 3 p. m. until 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served by the Kerk League and a picnic supper will be provided by the Dutch Guild.

Clustered on a grassy ridge overlooking the winding Wallkill river, the sturdy stone houses are among the earliest French colonial buildings in America. New Paltz was founded in 1677 by French Huguenots who first escaped to Germany and settled at Pfalz-on-the-Rhine. Lured by the freedom of America they crossed the Atlantic and sailed up the Hudson river to what is today Kingston. Later, moving south, they traversed the river which empties into the Hudson and established a permanent colony in the fertile valley of the Wallkill river.

Gradually Replaced

Their log cabins, built 100 years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence, were gradually replaced by more enduring houses of stone. One of these, the home of Abraham Hasbrouck, was built in 1712 by the grandfather of Col. Jonathan

Senate Will Check Upon Spy Story

Never Gave Names

Sorge Retained Identity of Some Involved as Suspects

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senate investigators promised today to explore fully a story that a Communist spy ring with some Americans in its ranks assured Moscow before Pearl Harbor that Japan would attack the United States.

Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for the Japanese attorney general, told the story in sworn testimony before the Senate subcommittee on internal security yesterday.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich), a member, and Robert Morris, counsel to the group, said the entire matter will be gone into deeply at further hearings.

The case of the fabulous spy ring was first made public back in February, 1949, when the army released a 32,000-word report on the operation. Parts of that report were deleted for security reasons. It was written under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's direction. Almost immediately after making the report public the army withdrew it.

Yoshikawa said Richard Sorge, whom he sent to the gallows as head of the spy ring, named the late writer Agnes Smedley as a U. S. member of the ring. But Sorge never gave the names of a "young officer connected with the American consulate at Shanghai" and an American newspaper correspondent who also, were members, Yoshikawa said.

Says He Confessed

The witness said Sorge confessed that his mission was (1) to spy on Japanese and German war plans, and (2) to induce Japan to strike at the U. S., Britain, France and the Netherlands, but not at Russia, if she struck at all.

He said the ring thus not only had advance information of Japanese plans, but had helped to shape them through the exercise of influence on "brain trusters" in the Japanese government.

The lean, spectacled witness, speaking in Japanese through an interpreter, described the capture of Sorge in November, 1941, a few weeks before Pearl Harbor.

He said Sorge "felt relieved that he had just about completed all the work he had set out to do" before his arrest.

Had Used Trust

Sorge and Hozumi Osaki, the witness said, said they had used positions of trust to sell to the Japanese the idea that Soviet Russia was too powerful to be attacked successfully.

Yoshikawa said they argued an attack "to the south" would be more likely to yield the oil and rubber Japan needed for her war machine.

Yoshikawa said he saw a message relayed to Moscow in 1941 by Sorge advising that a Japanese mobilization then under full steam

Princess Margaret Marks 21st Birthday; Gets Gifts

Ballater, Scotland, Aug. 21—Princess Margaret, vivacious sweetheart of the British Empire, came of age today. Her 21st birthday was greeted by Britons everywhere but the celebration at nearby Balmoral Castle was a quiet family affair.

Tourists and local folk in this neighboring Scottish town made it a festive occasion as friends of the royal family—including some who may be eligible for Margaret's hand—came to take part in the birthday party.

There will be no booming of guns throughout the empire, since Margaret is only fourth in line to the British throne. But local postal officials are bracing themselves for the expected flood of congratulatory letters, telegrams and presents.

Court circles have not disclosed what most of the presents are. It is known that she is getting a convertible coupe, and the traditional pearl to add to the matched string started when she was born.

Grey old Balmoral Castle will be the scene of a royal birthday ball over which King George, her father, will preside.

But outside the walls of the famed old royal hunting lodge, there will be toasting and flinging of Highland kilts.

Scotmen feel they have a special claim on Margaret Rose—the princess' full name—because she was born in this northland's gloomy Glamis Castle.

The royal birthday sparks new speculation as to when the younger daughter of King George VI will announce her betrothal. Legends has it that girls born at Glamis Castle marry, or at least become engaged, by the time they are 20.

Two young men considered as the most likely claimants to Margaret's hand are present for the birthday celebration. They are William (Billy) Wallace, 24-year-old polo-playing stepson of American writer Herbert Agar, and the 27-year-old Earl of Dalkeith.

Coming of age for this blithe-spirited princess means acceptance of new royal responsibilities. She gets the right to vote—a privilege she probably never will use, since the royal family traditionally does not take sides in politics. Instead of an allowance out of her father's pocket, Margaret gets her own income of 6,000 pounds ($16,000) a year. And she becomes qualified to be a member of a Council of State which would take over sovereign duties, if her father became incapacitated or left the country.

Yonkers Girl Drowns

Holderness, N. H., Aug. 21 (AP)—A Yonkers, N. Y., girl drowned at Little Squam Lake last night when her canoe was cut in two by a speedboat. State police identified the girl as Winnifred Douglas, about 17, of 4 Phillips Place. Three companions escaped injury. All were from Camp Winnetaska.

Hurricane Regains Its Fury, Roars Toward East Mexico

Wind Speed Estimated at 130 Miles; May Hit Central Oil Region

Mexico City, Aug. 21 (AP)—A refortified tropical hurricane with a 130-mile-an-hour wind wallop stormed through the southwest Gulf of Mexico today toward the central Mexican coast and its oil fields.

Overnight it had regained most of the force with which it raked Jamaica last Friday and took 155 lives.

Along Mexico's tropical eastern shore on the gulf, Tampico and Veracruz, the country's two biggest ports, took precautions.

But the hurricane—if it kept its present course during the day—was due to hit the mainland about halfway between the ports between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. (EST). Both expected to be on the outer fringes of the storm.

The Weather Bureau said the full force was headed for the Tuxpan-Nautla area.

Oil Port of 13,000

Tuxpan is an oil port of about 13,000 population about 135 miles up the coast from Veracruz. Nautla is a small town on the coast between Tuxpan and Veracruz.

The big blow swept across Jamaica Friday, then hit the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico yesterday. It lost force over the sparsely-settled land and headed across Campeche Bay in the southwest gulf. The Mexican Weather Bureau said it picked up new force last night.

In an advisory issued at 5 a. m. (EST), the weather bureau said the center of the raging storm was about 240 miles east of Tuxpan and was swirling westward at about 14 miles an hour.

The hurricane already has cost 155 lives and caused damage of $56,000,000 as it belabored the British island of Jamaica before it left the Caribbean.

Nautla is a small town of less than 2,000 population.

Hurricane winds are expected to be felt as far north as Tampico,

McCloy Declares Propaganda Fails

Says Red Drive Results in Added Help for West

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP) — Communism's big propaganda drive has flopped in West Germany, U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy said today.

The Reds opened their full-scale assault last spring, McCloy said in his quarterly report to the State Department. They tried to scare West Germans away from joining western defense and into a sell-out compromise with the east.

Instead, McCloy reported, German support for western defense has increased, and the Communists' chief propaganda agencies have been thoroughly discredited, rejected and even outlawed by an aroused West Germany.

"It has become increasingly difficult to peddle recognizable Communist wares in western Germany," McCloy concluded.

"West German determination to uncover and resist Communist subversion has matured appreciably. Even the basic play on fear of Soviet attack has worn thin with the excessive use and growing allied strength."

In spite of all the Communist propaganda, McCloy concluded, West German sentiment for defense has grown until the question now is "not primarily whether or not West Germany should actively participate in its own defense. Rather, much of the debate centers on the manner and conditions for such participation."

Meanwhile, the Communist party has lost ground steadily in every succeeding election.

McCloy conceded that the recent election success of the Nazi-like Socialist Empire party discloses a "certain potential danger from the extreme right." But he discounted the likelihood of "any general advance of the ultra-nationalist cause in the foreseeable future."

On the whole, he said, West Germany is making "steady progress in most fields."

Suffolk Control Is Center Of Primary Day Attention

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Control of the Republican organization in Suffolk county and the Democratic Tammany Hall regime in Manhattan were the chief stakes today as New York state held its primary elections.

The two intra-party battles highlighted an otherwise dull summer campaign with only minor contests in upstate areas.

W. Kingsland Macy, bitter foe of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, is fighting to retain the GOP leadership he has possessed for 25 years in Suffolk county, Long Island.

In Manhattan (New York county), Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri is backing Robert B. Blaikie's attempt to wrest control of Tammany Hall from Carmine G. DeSapio.

Tammany, the county's regular Democratic organization, opposed the mayor in last year's election. Impellitteri won as an independent candidate.

Macy was defeated for reelection to Congress last November by 138 votes. Democrat Ernest Greenwood's victory was a surprising upset in normally strong Republican Suffolk county.

County Clerk F. Ford Hughes, who challenged Macy's chairmanship after the Congressional defeat, has the backing of the state GOP organization and Dewey.

Both Macy and Hughes predicted victory.

The Suffolk fight involves the election of committeemen in the county's 210 districts.

In Manhattan, there are Democratic district leader fights in 12 of the 16 New York county Assembly districts. DeSapio expects to retain a majority, but some Blaikie backers believe they can oust him.

Polls will be open from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, New York city and suburban Westchester county. In the rest of the state, voting will be between 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., E.S.T.

Cause of Crash Of Plane Sought; 13 Dead, 21 Hurt

Training Plane Plows Into Soldiers at Dix; Unable to Gain Altitude

Fort Dix, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—Army and air force investigators today picked through charred debris to determine the cause of a jet plane crash which brought flaming death to 13 men and injured 21 soldiers.

The 12 men killed yesterday afternoon as the air force trainer plane plowed into a group of soldiers in a wooded area included twin brothers and the jet's two-man crew.

Unable to gain altitude after its takeoff from nearby McGuire Air Force Base, the plane plunged "like a ball of fire" on a group of army trainees preparing to return to camp for supper.

Among the dead soldiers were Pvts. George W. and Robert W. Poole, 22-year-old twins from Camden, N. J., who were inducted into the army about four months ago. George was killed instantly.

Their widowed mother, Mrs. Hazel Poole, was preparing to leave for the post hospital late yesterday when word was received that the critically injured Robert also had died.

Rutgers Graduate Is Slaying Victim

Gas Station Attendant Found by Youths; Are Questioned

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—A recent Rutgers University graduate was shot to death early today in a gas station at which he was an attendant on the busy New York-Philadelphia highway.

The body of Richard Sugarman, 25, of University Heights, Piscataway, was found about 3 a. m. by two Baltimore, Md., youths who had stopped for gas.

Some small change was clutched in Sugarman's hand and more was scattered about the floor.

Middlesex County Coroner Robert H. Jamison said a bullet wound in the head indicated Sugarman had been shot from behind.

Prosecutor Alex Eber said the Baltimore youths, Gene Darby, 18, and Clarence Russell, 19, told him they found the body when they entered the station after no one answered the bell.

Eber said Sidney Miller, 43, a wholesale grocer of 22 Allen road, Rockville Centre, N. Y., told police he was asleep in his car at the station and had heard no shot. Eber said Miller had told him he had talked to Sugarman from 2:12 a. m. to 2:50 a. m. after arranging to spend the night in his car on the gas station grounds at the Gorges road and Route 1 and 25 traffic circle.

Miller, Darby and Russell are being questioned by Eber and state police at New Brunswick.

Division Is Suggested In Orders

Anxious to Quit

Chinese Are More Eager to Stop Than North Koreans

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Korean war armistice subcommittee met in its fifth round table discussion today as a United Nations spokesman hinted the Chinese and North Koreans do not see eye to eye.

The four subcommittee members—two allied; two Communist—devoted more than half their two-hour and four-minute session at Kaesong to map reading in an effort to draw a military dividing line for a cease-fire.

There was no report on results. They scheduled another meeting for 11 a. m. Wednesday (8 p. m., Tuesday, EST).

Meanwhile, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior UN delegate, rejected Communist charges that UN forces ambushed a Chinese patrol in the neutrality zone, killing one Red soldier and wounding another.

Joy informed North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, his Communist counterpart:

"Your message of August 19 is hereby acknowledged. Will reply fully to you when I have received a complete report of the investigation of the alleged violation of the neutral zone on August 19. A preliminary report does not substantiate the charges you have made."

The official UN stand is that "partisans from either side"—North Korean or South Korean—may have carried out the attack in an effort to disrupt peace talks.

Divergence of Views

The possibility of a growing divergence of views between Chinese and North Korean truce negotiators was raised by Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN command spokesman.

Nuckols said he believed the Chinese were receiving instructions from Peiping, capital of Red China, while some directives to the North Koreans were handed down from "the Communist hierarchy."

His use of "Communist hierarchy" was intrepreted to mean Communists in Moscow.

Nuckols made this statement only 24 hours after he reported the UN authorities in Korea felt the ambush of the Chinese patrol was the mark of North Koreans trying to sabotage armistice talks and make the Chinese fight the war for them.

In Garb of Farmers

Coincidental with Nuckols' comments, members of the UN motor convoy to Kaesong Tuesday noted for the first time several score men of military age wearing the white garments of farmers. Heretofore peasants seen working in the fields along the way were mostly old men and women.

Associated Press Correspondent Robert B. Tuckman reported those seen Tuesday were healthy young men wearing leather military belts and blue sneakers, such as those worn by soldiers in the North Korean army.

Chinese placed a patrol of a

Marlborough Man Is Reported Killed

Benjamin Munger of Western avenue, Marlborough, was killed about noon today while at work at the J. J. Van Vliet & Son concrete block plant on North road, Marlborough, state police at Highland reported. Munger was about 70 and had been employed by Van Vliet more than 10 years.

Sgt. Lynn Baker and Coroner Arthur C. Chipp are conducting an investigation.

Details of the accident were not known up to press time today. At the Van Vliet and Son office, it was reported that Munger was working at a switch some distance from the plant when he was killed. One unconfirmed report indicated he was hit by a power shovel or crane.

The body was removed to the Tuthill Funeral Home in Marlborough. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Lured by the freedom of America they crossed the Atlantic and sailed up the Hudson river to what is today Kingston. Later, moving south, they traversed the river which empties into the Hudson and established a permanent colony in the fertile valley of the Wallkill river.

Gradually Replaced

Their log cabins, built 100 years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence, were gradually replaced by more enduring houses of stone. One of these, the home of Abraham Hasbrouck, was built in 1712 by the grandfather of Col. Jonathan

Senate Will Check Upon Spy Story

Never Gave Names

Sorge Retained Identity of Some Involved as Suspects

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senate investigators promised today to explore fully a story that a Communist spy ring with some Americans in its ranks assured Moscow before Pearl Harbor that Japan would attack the United States.

Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for the Japanese attorney general, told the story in sworn testimony before the Senate subcommittee on internal security yesterday.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich), a member, and Robert Morris, counsel to the group, said the entire matter will be gone into deeply at further hearings.

The case of the fabulous spy ring was first made public back in February, 1949, when the army released a 32,000-word report on the operation. Parts of that report were deleted for security reasons. It was written under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's direction. Almost immediately after making the report public the army withdrew it.

Yoshikawa said Richard Sorge, whom he sent to the gallows as head of the spy ring, named the late writer Agnes Smedley as a U. S. member of the ring. But Sorge never gave the names of a "young officer connected with the American consulate at Shanghai" and an American newspaper correspondent who also, were members, Yoshikawa said.

Says He Confessed

The witness said Sorge confessed that his mission was (1) to spy on Japanese and German war plans, and (2) to induce Japan to strike at the U. S., Britain, France and the Netherlands, but not at Russia, if she struck at all.

He said the ring thus not only had advance information of Japanese plans, but had helped to shape them through the exercise of influence on "brain trusters" in the Japanese government.

The lean, spectacled witness, speaking in Japanese through an interpreter, described the capture of Sorge in November, 1941, a few weeks before Pearl Harbor.

He said Sorge "felt relieved that he had just about completed all the work he had set out to do" before his arrest.

Had Used Trust

Sorge and Hozumi Osaki, the witness said, said they had used positions of trust to sell to the Japanese the idea that Soviet Russia was too powerful to be attacked successfully.

Yoshikawa said they argued an attack "to the south" would be more likely to yield the oil and rubber Japan needed for her war machine.

Yoshikawa said he saw a message relayed to Moscow in 1941 by Sorge advising that a Japanese mobilization then under full steam

Division Is Suggested In Orders

Anxious to Quit

Chinese Are More Eager to Stop Than North Koreans

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Korean war armistice subcommittee met in its fifth round table discussion today as a United Nations spokesman hinted the Chinese and North Koreans do not see eye to eye.

The four subcommittee members—two allied; two Communist—devoted more than half their two-hour and four-minute session at Kaesong to map reading in an effort to draw a military dividing line for a cease-fire.

There was no report on results. They scheduled another meeting for 11 a. m. Wednesday (8 p. m., Tuesday, EST).

Meanwhile, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior UN delegate, rejected Communist charges that UN forces ambushed a Chinese patrol in the neutrality zone, killing one Red soldier and wounding another.

Joy informed North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, his Communist counterpart:

"Your message of August 19 is hereby acknowledged. Will reply fully to you when I have received a complete report of the investigation of the alleged violation of the neutral zone on August 19. A preliminary report does not substantiate the charges you have made."

The official UN stand is that "partisans from either side"—North Korean or South Korean—may have carried out the attack in an effort to disrupt peace talks.

Divergence of Views

The possibility of a growing divergence of views between Chinese and North Korean truce negotiators was raised by Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN command spokesman.

Nuckols said he believed the Chinese were receiving instructions from Peiping, capital of Red China, while some directives to the North Koreans were handed down from "the Communist hierarchy."

His use of "Communist hierarchy" was intrepreted to mean Communists in Moscow.

Nuckols made this statement only 24 hours after he reported the UN authorities in Korea felt the ambush of the Chinese patrol was the mark of North Koreans trying to sabotage armistice talks and make the Chinese fight the war for them.

In Garb of Farmers

Coincidental with Nuckols' comments, members of the UN motor convoy to Kaesong Tuesday noted for the first time several score men of military age wearing the white garments of farmers. Heretofore peasants seen working in the fields along the way were mostly old men and women.

Associated Press Correspondent Robert B. Tuckman reported those seen Tuesday were healthy young men wearing leather military belts and blue sneakers, such as those worn by soldiers in the North Korean army.

McCloy Declares Propaganda Fails

Says Red Drive Results in Added Help for West

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP) — Communism's big propaganda drive has flopped in West Germany, U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy said today.

The Reds opened their full-scale assault last spring, McCloy said in his quarterly report to the State Department. They tried to scare West Germans away from joining western defense and into a sell-out compromise with the east.

Instead, McCloy reported, German support for western defense has increased, and the Communists' chief propaganda agencies have been thoroughly discredited, rejected and even outlawed by an aroused West Germany.

"It has become increasingly difficult to peddle recognizable Communist wares in western Germany," McCloy concluded.

"West German determination to uncover and resist Communist subversion has matured appreciably. Even the basic play on fear of Soviet attack has worn thin with the excessive use and growing allied strength."

In spite of all the Communist propaganda, McCloy concluded, West German sentiment for defense has grown until the question now is "not primarily whether or not West Germany should actively participate in its own defense. Rather, much of the debate centers on the manner and conditions for such participation."

Meanwhile, the Communist party has lost ground steadily in every succeeding election.

McCloy conceded that the recent election success of the Nazi-like Socialist Empire party discloses a "certain potential danger from the extreme right." But he discounted the likelihood of "any general advance of the ultra-nationalist cause in the foreseeable future."

On the whole, he said, West Germany is making "steady progress in most fields."

Wind Speed Estimated at 130 Miles; May Hit Central Oil Region

Mexico City, Aug. 21 (AP)—A refortified tropical hurricane with a 130-mile-an-hour wind wallop stormed through the southwest Gulf of Mexico today toward the central Mexican coast and its oil fields.

Overnight it had regained most of the force with which it raked Jamaica last Friday and took 155 lives.

Along Mexico's tropical eastern shore on the gulf, Tampico and Veracruz, the country's two biggest ports, took precautions.

But the hurricane—if it kept its present course during the day—was due to hit the mainland about halfway between the ports between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. (EST). Both expected to be on the outer fringes of the storm.

The Weather Bureau said the full force was headed for the Tuxpan-Nautla area.

Oil Port of 13,000

Tuxpan is an oil port of about 13,000 population about 135 miles up the coast from Veracruz. Nautla is a small town on the coast between Tuxpan and Veracruz.

The big blow swept across Jamaica Friday, then hit the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico yesterday. It lost force over the sparsely-settled land and headed across Campeche Bay in the southwest gulf. The Mexican Weather Bureau said it picked up new force last night.

In an advisory issued at 5 a. m. (EST), the weather bureau said the center of the raging storm was about 240 miles east of Tuxpan and was swirling westward at about 14 miles an hour.

The hurricane already has cost 155 lives and caused damage of $56,000,000 as it belabored the British island of Jamaica before it left the Caribbean.

Nautla is a small town of less than 2,000 population.

Hurricane winds are expected to be felt as far north as Tampico,

Training Plane Plows Into Soldiers at Dix; Unable to Gain Altitude

Fort Dix, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—Army and air force investigators today picked through charred debris to determine the cause of a jet plane crash which brought flaming death to 13 men and injured 21 soldiers.

The 12 men killed yesterday afternoon as the air force trainer plane plowed into a group of soldiers in a wooded area included twin brothers and the jet's two-man crew.

Unable to gain altitude after its takeoff from nearby McGuire Air Force Base, the plane plunged "like a ball of fire" on a group of army trainees preparing to return to camp for supper.

Among the dead soldiers were Pvts. George W. and Robert W. Poole, 22-year-old twins from Camden, N. J., who were inducted into the army about four months ago. George was killed instantly.

Their widowed mother, Mrs. Hazel Poole, was preparing to leave for the post hospital late yesterday when word was received that the critically injured Robert also had died.

Rutgers Graduate Is Slaying Victim

Gas Station Attendant Found by Youths; Are Questioned

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—A recent Rutgers University graduate was shot to death early today in a gas station at which he was an attendant on the busy New York-Philadelphia highway.

The body of Richard Sugarman, 25, of University Heights, Piscataway, was found about 3 a. m. by two Baltimore, Md., youths who had stopped for gas.

Some small change was clutched in Sugarman's hand and more was scattered about the floor.

Middlesex County Coroner Robert H. Jamison said a bullet wound in the head indicated Sugarman had been shot from behind.

Prosecutor Alex Eber said the Baltimore youths, Gene Darby, 18, and Clarence Russell, 19, told him they found the body when they entered the station after no one answered the bell.

Eber said Sidney Miller, 43, a wholesale grocer of 22 Allen road, Rockville Centre, N. Y., told police he was asleep in his car at the station and had heard no shot. Eber said Miller had told him he had talked to Sugarman from 2:12 a. m. to 2:50 a. m. after arranging to spend the night in his car on the gas station grounds at the Gorges road and Route 1 and 25 traffic circle.

Miller, Darby and Russell are being questioned by Eber and state police at New Brunswick.

Princess Margaret Marks 21st Birthday; Gets Gifts

Ballater, Scotland, Aug. 21—Princess Margaret, vivacious sweetheart of the British Empire, came of age today. Her 21st birthday was greeted by Britons everywhere but the celebration at nearby Balmoral Castle was a quiet family affair.

Tourists and local folk in this neighboring Scottish town made it a festive occasion as friends of the royal family—including some who may be eligible for Margaret's hand—came to take part in the birthday party.

There will be no booming of guns throughout the empire, since Margaret is only fourth in line to the British throne. But local postal officials are bracing themselves for the expected flood of congratulatory letters, telegrams and presents.

Court circles have not disclosed what most of the presents are. It is known that she is getting a convertible coupe, and the traditional pearl to add to the matched string started when she was born.

Grey old Balmoral Castle will be the scene of a royal birthday ball over which King George, her father, will preside.

But outside the walls of the famed old royal hunting lodge, there will be toasting and flinging of Highland kilts.

Scotmen feel they have a special claim on Margaret Rose—the princess' full name—because she was born in this northland's gloomy Glamis Castle.

The royal birthday sparks new speculation as to when the younger daughter of King George VI will announce her betrothal. Legends has it that girls born at Glamis Castle marry, or at least become engaged, by the time they are 20.

Two young men considered as the most likely claimants to Margaret's hand are present for the birthday celebration. They are William (Billy) Wallace, 24-year-old polo-playing stepson of American writer Herbert Agar, and the 27-year-old Earl of Dalkeith.

Coming of age for this blithe-spirited princess means acceptance of new royal responsibilities. She gets the right to vote—a privilege she probably never will use, since the royal family traditionally does not take sides in politics. Instead of an allowance out of her father's pocket, Margaret gets her own income of 6,000 pounds ($16,000) a year. And she becomes qualified to be a member of a Council of State which would take over sovereign duties, if her father became incapacitated or left the country.

Suffolk Control Is Center Of Primary Day Attention

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Control of the Republican organization in Suffolk county and the Democratic Tammany Hall regime in Manhattan were the chief stakes today as New York state held its primary elections.

The two intra-party battles highlighted an otherwise dull summer campaign with only minor contests in upstate areas.

W. Kingsland Macy, bitter foe of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, is fighting to retain the GOP leadership he has possessed for 25 years in Suffolk county, Long Island.

In Manhattan (New York county), Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri is backing Robert B. Blaikie's attempt to wrest control of Tammany Hall from Carmine G. DeSapio.

Tammany, the county's regular Democratic organization, opposed the mayor in last year's election. Impellitteri won as an independent candidate.

Macy was defeated for reelection to Congress last November by 138 votes. Democrat Ernest Greenwood's victory was a surprising upset in normally strong Republican Suffolk county.

County Clerk F. Ford Hughes, who challenged Macy's chairmanship after the Congressional defeat, has the backing of the state GOP organization and Dewey.

Both Macy and Hughes predicted victory.

The Suffolk fight involves the election of committeemen in the county's 210 districts.

In Manhattan, there are Democratic district leader fights in 12 of the 16 New York county Assembly districts. DeSapio expects to retain a majority, but some Blaikie backers believe they can oust him.

Polls will be open from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, New York city and suburban Westchester county. In the rest of the state, voting will be between 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., E.S.T.

Marlborough Man Is Reported Killed

Benjamin Munger of Western avenue, Marlborough, was killed about noon today while at work at the J. J. Van Vliet & Son concrete block plant on North road, Marlborough, state police at Highland reported. Munger was about 70 and had been employed by Van Vliet more than 10 years.

Sgt. Lynn Baker and Coroner Arthur C. Chipp are conducting an investigation.

Details of the accident were not known up to press time today. At the Van Vliet and Son office, it was reported that Munger was working at a switch some distance from the plant when he was killed. One unconfirmed report indicated he was hit by a power shovel or crane.

The body was removed to the Tuthill Funeral Home in Marlborough. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Would Have Same Policy as in 1950 Of Paying Players

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Organized baseball today asked a special government wage panel that it be permitted to follow last year's practices in paying players.

Louis F. Carroll, counsel for the National League, appeared before the three-man panel and submitted a memorandium in which he was joined by representatives of the American League and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Three alternate proposals were submitted. One would exempt all baseball players from salary ceilings. The second would permit each club to follow the same practices this year as in 1950, using overall league practices as a yardstick. The third would set up government machinery for approving players' raises and bonuses.

Without Regulation

Carroll said that the second provision was the one thought of most highly by the baseball industry. He explained to reporters that it would allow baseball men to run their business without government regulation, and to pay players what they were worth in the eyes of the baseball clubs themselves.

The special three-man panel, appointed by the salary stabilization board to make a study of sports salaries, opened two days of hearings here.

Spokesmen for racing, golf, tennis and soccer were scheduled to appear along with baseball officials today. Tomorrow's session will take up football, basketball and ice hockey.

The panel has said that individual cases will not be considered, but some may be discussed during the hearings. One outstanding case is that of Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder, unable to receive a $35,000 annual raise under the present wage law.

Musial was granted the increase in this year's contract, bringing his salary to $85,000. But the salary stabilization board said no club can pay a player more than the maximum salary given in 1950. Musial's $50,000 was the Cardinals' top wage last year.

Paid for Ability

Asked how Musial would be affected under the second proposal, Carroll said the overall league practice would be the measure, and that Musial could be paid on the basis of his talent and ability.

Carroll's memorandum to the panel said these are six players, five in the National League and one in the American, who have been prevented from getting salary increases because of the government ruling. He said individual applications for these players, whom he did not name, are pending in Washington.

Says Poles Turning Against Russia

Berlin, Aug. 21 (AP)—A young Polish refugee said here yesterday that the Russian forces trying to keep Poland in line are being harried by a growing band of armed anti-Red partisans.

Josef Kowalski, 19-year-old refugee from Polish Secret Police told a news conference of army installations and Soviet supply trains crossing Poland to East Germany.

Despite Russian efforts to stamp out the rebel movement, he said, it has managed to double its strength over the past six years.

Kowalski said the partisans are concentrating their attacks along the Baltic coast and in the Masurian Lakes region of southern East Prussia, which now belongs to Poland.

The anti-Communist press of West Berlin has been running reports of such attacks, but there has been no way of checking them.

Man Pleads Innocent

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A manufacturer, Jules Levenstein, pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of selling steel in illegal channels. Federal authorities said his case was the first prosecution of its kind under the U. S. Defense Production Act. Levenstein, president of the Ender Manufacturing Corp., was accused of obtaining steel under a priority from the Atomic Energy Commission and selling 62 tons of it to unauthorized buyers. Levenstein, 48, was released in $5,000 bail and his trail was set for Sept. 10 in federal court if convicted, he could be sentenced up to a year in jail and a fine of $10,000.

Body of Man, 41

drowned man contained no money but did contain papers from a New York employment agency, recommending John Morrison to a job as pantryman at the Grandee Hotel near Highland, Coroner Chipp reported.

Morrison was wearing the bathing suit under white herringbone trousers and a white Chinese sport shirt.

Reported for Work

Investigation by the coroner, Sgt. Lynn Baker and Trooper Breen at the Grandee Hotel disclosed that Morrison had reported for work as a pantryman on July 19.

The proprietors, Murray Levy and Jack Levin, and others at the hotel told troopers that Morrison had been a morose person, accustomed to taking long walks by himself in the evening. He would often walk as far as Highland or Poughkeepsie, it was learned.

Morrison was last seen at the hotel on August 15, authorities learned. A note found a short time later in a typewriter and signed by Morrison stated that the proprietors should "get someone to replace me" because "I've gotten so nervous and irritable . . . I'm afraid I'll blow my top."

Death Due to Drowning

Death was due to drowning, Coroner Chipp said. Because of the note and other evidence uncovered by investigation, a coroner's verdict has been given listing the death as "apparent suicide."

The body has been turned over to the Plass Funeral Service of Highland. Attempts are being made to determine whether there are any relatives.

During the investigation, Coroner Chipp reported his automobile struck and damaged while it was parked at the state police barracks at Highland. He said the driver of the other vehicle, Raymond Joseph Hynes of 773 10th avenue, New York, had stopped at the barracks to ask directions, and in leaving backed into the right rear fender and guard of the coroner's sedan.

Chinese Seem Anxious

Since truce talks started July 10, Chinese delegates have appeared somewhat anxious to end the shooting and less interested than the North Koreans in where a buffer zone is created.

Location of the buffer zone is the current stumbling block. The subcommittee is trying to find an acceptable solution. The Reds want it on the 38th Parallel; the UN on present battle lines.

General Nuckols, talking to newsmen Tuesday, pictured General Nam Il as the spokesman for the "Communist hierarchy" at Kaesong negotiations. He said he believed Nam Il was a Soviet citizen.

On the other hand, Nuckols said, the two Chinese generals on the full five-man Red delegation "show traces of national patriotism to China."

"China," he added, "has greater powers of resisting the pressures of the Communist hierarchy than the North Koreans."

Nuckols noted that instructions through the "two channels (Peiping and the Communist hierarchy) coincided on major issues." However, he added:

"I believe the Chinese have a slightly greater desire for a military armistice based on military realities than the North Koreans."

There was no hint that any of this possible division of views was reflected in subcommittee negotiations at Kaesong.

Five Vehicles Involved In Separate Crashes

One of two cars in an accident at West O'Reilly street and Wilbur avenue early this afternoon went over a wall and into a lot and three other vehicles were involved in a collision on the Rondout Creek bridge at about the same time.

Details on the West O'Reilly street mishap were not immediately available at Freeman press time, but the police reported on the other, that a car operated by Samuel Sigel, Newark, N. J., struck a car driven by Charlotte Sirota, of Paterson, N. J., and forced it into one operated by Edward M. Solotar, 39, of Silver Springs, Md. All vehicles were damaged and the Sirota car was towed from the scene, police said. The Sirota car had stopped for a traffic light.

17-Year-Old Is Shot In Gang War Flare

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A 17-year-old boy was shot in the leg last night in what police described as an apparent flare-up of teenage "gang" warfare.

Police quoted the victim, Robert Delgado, as saying a car with five members of the youthful "Turban gang" sped past while he was talking to a girl on a doorstep and that one of the youths fired a shot.

The police said Delgado belonged to the "Dragons" and that the shooting might have been in retaliation for a recent beating of a "Turban" by some "Dragons."

Police arrested three youths and sought two others. Delgado's condition was described as not serious.

Accuses Truman Of Lobbying for More Radio Funds

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.) accused President Truman today of joining a "lobby" McCarran said is trying to restore funds slashed from the "Voice of America's" budget.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday the State Department radio had helped open "at least a crack" in the Iron Curtain by forcing Russia to publish and broadcast a congressional resolution of friendship for the Soviet people.

The President asked for restoration of the $115,000,000 fund he asked for the "voice," trimmed to $85,000,000 by the House and cut further by McCarran's Senate Appropriations subcommittee to $56,000,000.

The full Appropriations Committee takes up the 'voice" fund today as a part of the State-Commerce-Justice money bill before it for action.

Saying that the outcome of efforts to increase the fund is in doubt, McCarran told a reporter he would fight against any boosts.

"In his message to Congress, the President has became a part of the lobby that is working to get these funds increased," McCarran said. "The 'Voice of America' got every dollar it could justify spending when the subcommittee cut the appropriation to $56,000,000."

On the other hand, Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.) said if the appropriations group doesn't jack up the "voice" fund, he will ask the Senate to provide more money for propaganda efforts to penetrate the Iron Curtain.

Austria Has Two Meatless Days

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Austrian government today introduced two meatless days a week to combat a critical meat shortage.

No meat or meat products will be sold in stores or served in restaurants on Tuesdays and Fridays after Aug. 24.

Housewives face fines if they prepare and serve meat they have on hand on those days.

The measure, first of its kind in Austria since the end of the war, was caused by the shortage prevailing here since the conclusion of the last price and wage agreement proclaimed by the government.

Discharged From Hospital

A 17-year-old girl who was severely beaten by an unknown motorist in Ellenville on August 8 has been discharged from Memorial Hospital in that village, according to state police of Wurtsboro, who are continuing an investigation in an attempt to learn the identity of the assailant. The girl, an employe of a Briggs Highway resort, was beaten about the head by a man she said had given her and an elderly couple a ride after they left the theatre in Ellenville too late for the last bus. The man was described as about 25 years old, six feet, one inch tall, and weighing about 190 pounds. He was driving an old car, she said.

Bedford, executive vice president of Kaiser-Frazer Corp., was sworn in by Wilson as chairman of the Production Executive Committee of the Defense Production Administration and deputy chief of DPA. Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Quiet trading and narrow price changes went hand in hand today in the stock market.

Considerable strength was displayed in the air lines group with an advance that carried as high as a dollar a share. Trading was active early in the session.

Elsewhere strength was scattered and fairly well tied in with corporate developments.

Losses, too, were scattered and seldom went to as much as a dollar a share.

American Telephone lost ground, falling back from its high of the year. The decline brought out a moderate amount of selling, but Telephone never was under pressure.

Benguet, yesterday's most active issue, was popular again today and moved up to a new high for the year.

Square D Co. was active and higher and at one traded in a block of 4,700 shares up 1¾ at 27½ before faling back a little.

Goodyear shot ahead as much as $3 a share at times, apparently reflecting its record high sales and earnings in the first half of this year.

Policy Critic Sure Deal Is Made to End Korean War

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Alfred Kohlberg, long time critic of State Department policy in China, gave what he called "my informed guess" that "a deal has been made" for settlement of the Korean War and that the present truce conferences "are shadowboxing."

Kohlberg told a news conference he guesses that "the deal was made in Paris with Gromyko (Soviet Russia's representative at the Big Four conferences) and it calls for Communist China's entry into the United Nations."

"That," he added, "would make Nationalist China an outlaw."

He said he believes the deal was made by Philip C. Jessup, U. S. ambassador at large, but that "I don't consider it a charge or accusation. I make no charge of any evil." The State Department has denied that Jessup made any deal at Paris.

Mentions Treason

Kohlberg told a group of about 15 newsmen whom he had invited to his hotel room that he could produce witnesses who could convict several persons of treason in connection with Communist activities.

He said he had offered his information to Federal officials in New York who successfully prosecuted top Communist leaders on charges on conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government. These officials have made no reply to him, Kohlberg added.

Kohlberg is head of a New York export-import firm. His name came into Senate hearings last year on charges by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

Report 'Seems Phoney'

London, Aug. 21 (AP)—Government officials said today published reports that Russia has moved hundreds of jet aircraft into east Germany "seems phoney." The reports, quoting British intelligence sources, claimed the Russians are preparing airfields within bombing range of this country. Foreign office spokesmen would not comment formally on the reports. But officials said privately they have had no information to suggest there is any undue air activity in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Says Warship Sunk

Tokyo, Aug. 21 (AP)—The North Korean Red radio said tonight an allied warship was sunk and two others damaged off the East Korean port of Wonsan yesterday. The broadcast from Pyongyang, monitored here, said also that Communist gunners shot down six allied warplanes yesterday. Allied and naval communiques yesterday made no mention of any United Nations ship or plane losses.

Automobile Fire

Oil in an air-cleaning unit around a carburetor on the car of Emil May, 257 East Chester street, caught fire today near 102 East Chester street. Firemen were called at 11:11 a. m. but the blaze was quenched before they arrived. There was no damage.

South Koreans Are Stifled in Attack on Ridges

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP)—South Korean troops attacked strongly held ridges north of Yanggu behind a curtain of artillery fire today, but made little headway.

Front line dispatches and official announcements reported the South Koreans seized the ridge of one hill but were swept off two others by Red counterattacks.

Associated Press Correspondent George A. MacArthur reported from the east-central front that battles raged throughout the day northeast and northwest of Yanggu.

On the Far Eastern flank, MacArthur said, attacking South Korean troops secured north-south ridgelines near Kansong except for one hill recaptured by a Communist counter-attack Tuesday.

Large number of Communist troops were reported massing a few miles north of the battleline above Yanggu. MacArthur said there were reports the Reds have committed some of their reserve strength to defend the craggy ridges.

Replacements poured steadily into Red lines during the four-day battle. Allied artillery hammered them incessantly. Fog hampered air support.

The only significant action was above Yanggu, eight miles north of the 38th Parellel.

Hawaii Island, southeast of here, is the largest of the Hawaiian Island group.

Would Have Same Policy as in 1950 Of Paying Players

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Organized baseball today asked a special government wage panel that it be permitted to follow last year's practices in paying players.

Louis F. Carroll, counsel for the National League, appeared before the three-man panel and submitted a memorandium in which he was joined by representatives of the American League and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Three alternate proposals were submitted. One would exempt all baseball players from salary ceilings. The second would permit each club to follow the same practices this year as in 1950, using overall league practices as a yardstick. The third would set up government machinery for approving players' raises and bonuses.

Without Regulation

Carroll said that the second provision was the one thought of most highly by the baseball industry. He explained to reporters that it would allow baseball men to run their business without government regulation, and to pay players what they were worth in the eyes of the baseball clubs themselves.

The special three-man panel, appointed by the salary stabilization board to make a study of sports salaries, opened two days of hearings here.

Spokesmen for racing, golf, tennis and soccer were scheduled to appear along with baseball officials today. Tomorrow's session will take up football, basketball and ice hockey.

The panel has said that individual cases will not be considered, but some may be discussed during the hearings. One outstanding case is that of Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder, unable to receive a $35,000 annual raise under the present wage law.

Musial was granted the increase in this year's contract, bringing his salary to $85,000. But the salary stabilization board said no club can pay a player more than the maximum salary given in 1950. Musial's $50,000 was the Cardinals' top wage last year.

Paid for Ability

Asked how Musial would be affected under the second proposal, Carroll said the overall league practice would be the measure, and that Musial could be paid on the basis of his talent and ability.

Carroll's memorandum to the panel said these are six players, five in the National League and one in the American, who have been prevented from getting salary increases because of the government ruling. He said individual applications for these players, whom he did not name, are pending in Washington.

Says Poles Turning Against Russia

Berlin, Aug. 21 (AP)—A young Polish refugee said here yesterday that the Russian forces trying to keep Poland in line are being harried by a growing band of armed anti-Red partisans.

Josef Kowalski, 19-year-old refugee from Polish Secret Police told a news conference of army installations and Soviet supply trains crossing Poland to East Germany.

Despite Russian efforts to stamp out the rebel movement, he said, it has managed to double its strength over the past six years.

Kowalski said the partisans are concentrating their attacks along the Baltic coast and in the Masurian Lakes region of southern East Prussia, which now belongs to Poland.

The anti-Communist press of West Berlin has been running reports of such attacks, but there has been no way of checking them.

Man Pleads Innocent

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A manufacturer, Jules Levenstein, pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of selling steel in illegal channels. Federal authorities said his case was the first prosecution of its kind under the U. S. Defense Production Act. Levenstein, president of the Ender Manufacturing Corp., was accused of obtaining steel under a priority from the Atomic Energy Commission and selling 62 tons of it to unauthorized buyers. Levenstein, 48, was released in $5,000 bail and his trail was set for Sept. 10 in federal court if convicted, he could be sentenced up to a year in jail and a fine of $10,000.

Body of Man, 41

drowned man contained no money but did contain papers from a New York employment agency, recommending John Morrison to a job as pantryman at the Grandee Hotel near Highland, Coroner Chipp reported.

Morrison was wearing the bathing suit under white herringbone trousers and a white Chinese sport shirt.

Reported for Work

Investigation by the coroner, Sgt. Lynn Baker and Trooper Breen at the Grandee Hotel disclosed that Morrison had reported for work as a pantryman on July 19.

The proprietors, Murray Levy and Jack Levin, and others at the hotel told troopers that Morrison had been a morose person, accustomed to taking long walks by himself in the evening. He would often walk as far as Highland or Poughkeepsie, it was learned.

Morrison was last seen at the hotel on August 15, authorities learned. A note found a short time later in a typewriter and signed by Morrison stated that the proprietors should "get someone to replace me" because "I've gotten so nervous and irritable . . . I'm afraid I'll blow my top."

Death Due to Drowning

Death was due to drowning, Coroner Chipp said. Because of the note and other evidence uncovered by investigation, a coroner's verdict has been given listing the death as "apparent suicide."

The body has been turned over to the Plass Funeral Service of Highland. Attempts are being made to determine whether there are any relatives.

During the investigation, Coroner Chipp reported his automobile struck and damaged while it was parked at the state police barracks at Highland. He said the driver of the other vehicle, Raymond Joseph Hynes of 773 10th avenue, New York, had stopped at the barracks to ask directions, and in leaving backed into the right rear fender and guard of the coroner's sedan.

Rift Among Reds

dozen or more soldiers north of the Red outpost at Panmunjom along the road. They patrolled at intervals of a few hundred yards along this outskirt of the neutrality zone. None was armed.

Chinese Seem Anxious

Since truce talks started July 10, Chinese delegates have appeared somewhat anxious to end the shooting and less interested than the North Koreans in where a buffer zone is created.

Location of the buffer zone is the current stumbling block. The subcommittee is trying to find an acceptable solution. The Reds want it on the 38th Parallel; the UN on present battle lines.

General Nuckols, talking to newsmen Tuesday, pictured General Nam Il as the spokesman for the "Communist hierarchy" at Kaesong negotiations. He said he believed Nam Il was a Soviet citizen.

On the other hand, Nuckols said, the two Chinese generals on the full five-man Red delegation "show traces of national patriotism to China."

"China," he added, "has greater powers of resisting the pressures of the Communist hierarchy than the North Koreans."

Nuckols noted that instructions through the "two channels (Peiping and the Communist hierarchy) coincided on major issues." However, he added:

"I believe the Chinese have a slightly greater desire for a military armistice based on military realities than the North Koreans."

There was no hint that any of this possible division of views was reflected in subcommittee negotiations at Kaesong.

Five Vehicles Involved In Separate Crashes

One of two cars in an accident at West O'Reilly street and Wilbur avenue early this afternoon went over a wall and into a lot and three other vehicles were involved in a collision on the Rondout Creek bridge at about the same time.

Details on the West O'Reilly street mishap were not immediately available at Freeman press time, but the police reported on the other, that a car operated by Samuel Sigel, Newark, N. J., struck a car driven by Charlotte Sirota, of Paterson, N. J., and forced it into one operated by Edward M. Solotar, 39, of Silver Springs, Md. All vehicles were damaged and the Sirota car was towed from the scene, police said. The Sirota car had stopped for a traffic light.

17-Year-Old Is Shot In Gang War Flare

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A 17-year-old boy was shot in the leg last night in what police described as an apparent flare-up of teenage "gang" warfare.

Police quoted the victim, Robert Delgado, as saying a car with five members of the youthful "Turban gang" sped past while he was talking to a girl on a doorstep and that one of the youths fired a shot.

The police said Delgado belonged to the "Dragons" and that the shooting might have been in retaliation for a recent beating of a "Turban" by some "Dragons."

Police arrested three youths and sought two others. Delgado's condition was described as not serious.

Accuses Truman Of Lobbying for More Radio Funds

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.) accused President Truman today of joining a "lobby" McCarran said is trying to restore funds slashed from the "Voice of America's" budget.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday the State Department radio had helped open "at least a crack" in the Iron Curtain by forcing Russia to publish and broadcast a congressional resolution of friendship for the Soviet people.

The President asked for restoration of the $115,000,000 fund he asked for the "voice," trimmed to $85,000,000 by the House and cut further by McCarran's Senate Appropriations subcommittee to $56,000,000.

The full Appropriations Committee takes up the 'voice" fund today as a part of the State-Commerce-Justice money bill before it for action.

Saying that the outcome of efforts to increase the fund is in doubt, McCarran told a reporter he would fight against any boosts.

"In his message to Congress, the President has became a part of the lobby that is working to get these funds increased," McCarran said. "The 'Voice of America' got every dollar it could justify spending when the subcommittee cut the appropriation to $56,000,000."

On the other hand, Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.) said if the appropriations group doesn't jack up the "voice" fund, he will ask the Senate to provide more money for propaganda efforts to penetrate the Iron Curtain.

Austria Has Two Meatless Days

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Austrian government today introduced two meatless days a week to combat a critical meat shortage.

No meat or meat products will be sold in stores or served in restaurants on Tuesdays and Fridays after Aug. 24.

Housewives face fines if they prepare and serve meat they have on hand on those days.

The measure, first of its kind in Austria since the end of the war, was caused by the shortage prevailing here since the conclusion of the last price and wage agreement proclaimed by the government.

Discharged From Hospital

A 17-year-old girl who was severely beaten by an unknown motorist in Ellenville on August 8 has been discharged from Memorial Hospital in that village, according to state police of Wurtsboro, who are continuing an investigation in an attempt to learn the identity of the assailant. The girl, an employe of a Briggs Highway resort, was beaten about the head by a man she said had given her and an elderly couple a ride after they left the theatre in Ellenville too late for the last bus. The man was described as about 25 years old, six feet, one inch tall, and weighing about 190 pounds. He was driving an old car, she said.

Bedford Takes Post

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson today installed a new bottleneck buster—Clay P. Bedford—to speed lagging output of tanks, jet engines and nearly 100 other military items. Bedford, executive vice president of Kaiser-Frazer Corp., was sworn in by Wilson as chairman of the Production Executive Committee of the Defense Production Administration and deputy chief of DPA. Bedford, who has been Wilson's assistant, said the committee plans a weapon-by-weapon approach to the production problem, but emphasized that rearmament progress generally is good.

11 Persons Killed

Bombay, India, Aug. 21 (AP)—All 11 occupants of an Indian Air Force plane were killed last night when the craft crashed near Poona Airpora, 125 miles from here. Cause of the crash was not determined.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Quiet trading and narrow price changes went hand in hand today in the stock market.

Considerable strength was displayed in the air lines group with an advance that carried as high as a dollar a share. Trading was active early in the session.

Elsewhere strength was scattered and fairly well tied in with corporate developments.

Losses, too, were scattered and seldom went to as much as a dollar a share.

American Telephone lost ground, falling back from its high of the year. The decline brought out a moderate amount of selling, but Telephone never was under pressure.

Benguet, yesterday's most active issue, was popular again today and moved up to a new high for the year.

Square D Co. was active and higher and at one traded in a block of 4,700 shares up 1¾ at 27½ before faling back a little.

Goodyear shot ahead as much as $3 a share at times, apparently reflecting its record high sales and earnings in the first half of this year.

Policy Critic Sure Deal Is Made to End Korean War

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Alfred Kohlberg, long time critic of State Department policy in China, gave what he called "my informed guess" that "a deal has been made" for settlement of the Korean War and that the present truce conferences "are shadowboxing."

Kohlberg told a news conference he guesses that "the deal was made in Paris with Gromyko (Soviet Russia's representative at the Big Four conferences) and it calls for Communist China's entry into the United Nations."

"That," he added, "would make Nationalist China an outlaw."

He said he believes the deal was made by Philip C. Jessup, U. S. ambassador at large, but that "I don't consider it a charge or accusation. I make no charge of any evil." The State Department has denied that Jessup made any deal at Paris.

Mentions Treason

Kohlberg told a group of about 15 newsmen whom he had invited to his hotel room that he could produce witnesses who could convict several persons of treason in connection with Communist activities.

He said he had offered his information to Federal officials in New York who successfully prosecuted top Communist leaders on charges on conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government. These officials have made no reply to him, Kohlberg added.

Kohlberg is head of a New York export-import firm. His name came into Senate hearings last year on charges by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

Report 'Seems Phoney'

London, Aug. 21 (AP)—Government officials said today published reports that Russia has moved hundreds of jet aircraft into east Germany "seems phoney." The reports, quoting British intelligence sources, claimed the Russians are preparing airfields within bombing range of this country. Foreign office spokesmen would not comment formally on the reports. But officials said privately they have had no information to suggest there is any undue air activity in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Says Warship Sunk

Tokyo, Aug. 21 (AP)—The North Korean Red radio said tonight an allied warship was sunk and two others damaged off the East Korean port of Wonsan yesterday. The broadcast from Pyongyang, monitored here, said also that Communist gunners shot down six allied warplanes yesterday. Allied and naval communiques yesterday made no mention of any United Nations ship or plane losses.

Automobile Fire

Oil in an air-cleaning unit around a carburetor on the car of Emil May, 257 East Chester street, caught fire today near 102 East Chester street. Firemen were called at 11:11 a. m. but the blaze was quenched before they arrived. There was no damage.

South Koreans Are Stifled in Attack on Ridges

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP)—South Korean troops attacked strongly held ridges north of Yanggu behind a curtain of artillery fire today, but made little headway.

Front line dispatches and official announcements reported the South Koreans seized the ridge of one hill but were swept off two others by Red counterattacks.

Associated Press Correspondent George A. MacArthur reported from the east-central front that battles raged throughout the day northeast and northwest of Yanggu.

On the Far Eastern flank, MacArthur said, attacking South Korean troops secured north-south ridgelines near Kansong except for one hill recaptured by a Communist counter-attack Tuesday.

Large number of Communist troops were reported massing a few miles north of the battleline above Yanggu. MacArthur said there were reports the Reds have committed some of their reserve strength to defend the craggy ridges.

Replacements poured steadily into Red lines during the four-day battle. Allied artillery hammered them incessantly. Fog hampered air support.

Only light contacts were reported along the rest of the Korean front. South of the Kaesong neutral zone on the western front, Reds hurled 100 rounds of mortar fire at a UN patrol.

The only significant action was above Yanggu, eight miles north of the 38th Parellel.

Hawaii Island, southeast of here, is the largest of the Hawaiian Island group.

AFL Leader Blames Alliance for Situation

New York, Aug 21 (AP)—An "unholy alliance of Dixiecrats and reactionary Republicans" has "cut the heart out of the defense production act," a New York city AFL labor leader said yesterday.

Labor should register its protest in the 1952 election, said Martin J. Lacey, president of the AFL Central Trades and Labor Council, in an address to the 50th annual convention of the International Photo-engravers Union of North America (AFL).

"Let us not forget this sell-out to big business," he said.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri welcomed the representatives of the 16,000-member union at the convention's opening.

Chairman Merlyn S. Pitzele, of the state board of mediation, praised Matthew Woll, a vice president of the union, for his long fight against communism even "when it was considered bad taste."

Edward J. Volz, president of the union, said photo-engravers now average $3.34 an hour in wages, and some have work weeks as short as 30 hours.

The convention continues today. AFL President William Green addresses the delegates tomorrow.

LT. ALF M. BERG

Sergeant First Class Alf M. Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Berg, of Shokan, has been appointed a second lieutenant of infantry in the Army Organized Reserve Corps, Col. William H. Craig, chief of the Oklahoma Military District, announced today.

Lt. Berg was born in Haugesund, Norway, April 5, 1924, and came to this country at the age of two in 1926. After attending school in Kingston, he worked at the Fuller Shirt Co., this city.

He took his basic training at Camp Hale, Colo., then the Army Mountain Training Center, after being inducted into the army in February, 1943. He later was assigned to Headquarters Company, 99th Infantry Battalion and left with that unit in September, 1943, for Europe.

The 99th was composed mostly of Norweigian-Americans and organized for the purpose of service in Norway. Due to the exigencies of the service, however, the battalion saw combat from 1944 to 1945 in five campaigns in northern and central Europe before setting foot on Norwegian soil.

Following VE Day, Lt. Berg sailed from Le Havre, France, with his outfit for Norway, landing at Oslo in April, 1945, where they accepted the surrender of more than 100,000 German occupational soldiers.

Returning to this country in November, 1945, Lt. Berg was separated from the service but reenlisted in March, 1946, and was sent to Fort Benning, Ga., where he was assigned to duty with school troops at the Infantry School. He left in January, 1949, for his present assignment at Headquarters, Oklahoma Military District, at Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma City.

May Avoid Extra Assessments by Paying Taxes Now

Taxpayers in the various towns of Ulster county who have not yet paid their taxes for the current year were advised today by John T. Groves, county treasurer, that the town tax collectors will turn in their taxrolls immediately after Labor Day.

By paying their taxes before Labor Day, Groves said taxpayers will avoid paying an extra one per cent collection fee. Taxes paid before Labor Day are assessed four per cent but if taxes are returned unpaid to the county treasurer the collection fee will be five per cent plus an additional penalty at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from February 1 to date of payment.

"Taxpayers may save themselves at least seven per cent if they pay the town tax collector before he turns his tax roll to the county treasurer," Groves added.

Farmers Leave East Texas

Winnsboro, Tex. (AP)—The farmers are moving out of this part of East Texas. O. J. Gipe says the number of active farmers in the Winnsboro area has dropped from 3,800 in 1940 to between 1,100 and 1,200. Gipe is head of the Hopkins-Rains-Wood and Sulphur-Cypress Soil Conservation Districts. He blames economic pressure and the temptations of the big cities for the exodus. "The day is gone," Gipe says, "when just anybody can make a living on a farm. Hit and miss farming won't provide enough to feed and clothe a family, and keep them warm throughout the winter."

Bronx Bean Party

New York (AP) — Long Island farmers recently staged their own version of a land-locked Boston Tea Party by dumping enough string beans to feed 112,000 people rather than sell at 25 cents a bushel. Arriving at the Bronx Terminal Market with 14 tons of freshly picked beans, the farmers contended that they needed $2 a bushel to make a reasonable profit. Bidders blamed hot weather, saying the beans spoiled so quickly they were a bad risk, although they sell at retail for 15 to 19 cents a pound. The farmers said the baskets alone were worth 25 cents, that pickers got from 50 to 60 cents a bushel, so they heaved as many as possible into a seven-ton street cleaning truck and drove the rest out of the city for dumping. They kept the 25-cent baskets.

May Avoid Extra Assessments by Paying Taxes Now

Taxpayers in the various towns of Ulster county who have not yet paid their taxes for the current year were advised today by John T. Groves, county treasurer, that the town tax collectors will turn in their taxrolls immediately after Labor Day.

By paying their taxes before Labor Day, Groves said taxpayers will avoid paying an extra one per cent collection fee. Taxes paid before Labor Day are assessed four per cent but if taxes are returned unpaid to the county treasurer the collection fee will be five per cent plus an additional penalty at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from February 1 to date of payment.

"Taxpayers may save themselves at least seven per cent if they pay the town tax collector before he turns his tax roll to the county treasurer," Groves added.

Farmers Leave East Texas

Winnsboro, Tex. (AP)—The farmers are moving out of this part of East Texas. O. J. Gipe says the number of active farmers in the Winnsboro area has dropped from 3,800 in 1940 to between 1,100 and 1,200. Gipe is head of the Hopkins-Rains-Wood and Sulphur-Cypress Soil Conservation Districts. He blames economic pressure and the temptations of the big cities for the exodus. "The day is gone," Gipe says, "when just anybody can make a living on a farm. Hit and miss farming won't provide enough to feed and clothe a family, and keep them warm throughout the winter."

Bronx Bean Party

New York (AP) — Long Island farmers recently staged their own version of a land-locked Boston Tea Party by dumping enough string beans to feed 112,000 people rather than sell at 25 cents a bushel. Arriving at the Bronx Terminal Market with 14 tons of freshly picked beans, the farmers contended that they needed $2 a bushel to make a reasonable profit. Bidders blamed hot weather, saying the beans spoiled so quickly they were a bad risk, although they sell at retail for 15 to 19 cents a pound. The farmers said the baskets alone were worth 25 cents, that pickers got from 50 to 60 cents a bushel, so they heaved as many as possible into a seven-ton street cleaning truck and drove the rest out of the city for dumping. They kept the 25-cent baskets.

PLEASURE DRIVING

When the automobile came to popularity it brought with it a new concept of pleasure driving. Ever since man has had vehicles to ride he has used them to obtain the sheer pleasure of riding in them as well as for more practical purposes of transportation. The automobile brought a new scope and new ease, and hence greater possibilities for pleasure, to the Sunday ride.

It also brought new complications. Many highways have become choked with traffic, and somehow it seems that the heaviest traffic is always found on the roads which lead to the most desirable places. That no doubt is natural. Threading a path through this traffic has brought danger to the ride, and a degree of nervous strain for the driver which makes it pertinent to ask whether he still finds pleasure in it. But perhaps the most insidious thing the automobile has done to the pleasure ride is to impart to it a sense of urgency, a feeling that one has to hurry so as to get somewhere.

This notion that one must hurry accounts for most of the unpleasantness and nervous strain of driving in traffic, and also for most of the danger. If we could just get back to the old-fashioned idea that a ride can be taken purely for the pleasure of riding, and that it need not really matter how far we get from home in a given time, the pleasure ride might yet survive the age of the automobile.

FEAR OF LIGHTNING

Lightning must have terrified primitive man. It is likely that as he lay back on his bed of pine needles and saw the jagged bolts speed across the sky he quickly pulled the animal skins with which he covered himself over his head to shut out the terror.

Today much of the mystery about lightning has been dispelled. Statistics have demonstrated just how little chance there is that a person will be struck by it. Insurance company tables show that the man who lives in the city is somewhat safer than his country cousin in an electrical storm. Women also seem to be safer than men in a storm, for at least four times as many men as women have been killed by lightning. In one state, Rhode Island, there has not been a single fatality due to lightning since 1936.

Man can now manufacture lightning in the laboratory. This may puzzle the layman who will wonder why anyone would want to conjur up artificially something which is naturally terrifying.

But it is good to note the scientific progress made since the days of our cave-dwelling ancestors. The animal skins they pulled over their heads in their terror of lightning were probably most unsanitary. The sheets which most of us use today are a big improvement.

RISING TO NEW HEIGHTS

There was a time when the breaking of almost any sort of a record would serve to excite the American people. A man who kept an airplane in the air for a longer time than had been done previously or who established a new record for perching on a flagpole was once the object of a good deal of attention. But all that seems to have changed.

Progress has been so rapid in recent years that people no longer pay much attention to records unless they are personally and immediately effected by them. The news that a new American rocket reached a record altitude of 135 miles caused hardly any comment at all by the man on the street, despite the fact that the feat was indeed remarkable. People seem to be getting used to stupendous accomplishments. The average person who read the story of the 135-mile height reached by the rocket might have shrugged his shoulders and commented, "And what about the rising cost of living?" That seems to be the only altitude record to which people cannot be indifferent.

Some people are known well enough to talk to, others only to talk about.

'These Days'

TRUMAN AND McCARTHY

There can be no question that Senator Joe McCarthy has finally got under the skin of President Harry Truman. This has very little to do with McCarthyism, which is a smear-word that may be defined as indiscriminate disclosure of names of alleged Communists and homosexuals on the Senate floor. It has everything to do with careful, scientific investigation by the McCarran Committee, which is establishing beyond doubt a pattern of Communist infiltration into our government.

The McCarran investigation has been inadequately reported because it is not dramatizing anything. No attempt is being made to pillory anyone. Witnesses are treated with courtesy and fairness. There is little noise.

But an astonishing record is being built document by document, word by word. And it is not premature to say that there are indications that the evidence will show, in the end, that the Tydings Committee did perform a white-wash.

Whatever anyone may say about Joe McCarthy and the methods that he employs, the McCarran Committee record stands. For instance, I am now reading the transcript of the testimony of Dr. Karl Wittfogel, a former German Communist, a scholar of outstanding stature, now professor at the University of Washington and in charge of a Chinese history project at Columbia University.

It has already been established by the committee that the Institute of Pacific Relations had developed a tremendous influence in the determination of our Far Eastern policy through the placement of persons associated with it in key positions. It has not been established or even asserted that the Institute ever was or is now a Communist organization. Thus far, it has been shown that the principal personalities, during the development period of the Institute, were Edward C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore.

Dr. Wittfogel's testimony is very important as showing the direction of this Institute in developing the American China policy:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . The prestige that you received by the listing in connection with the IPR was of value to you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. It was wonderful. At the time when people knew nothing about me. . . . Anyhow, I had a lovely time. It was introduced to people and was received by the president of Stanford University. Wherever I went, I was referred to as a man who had written a wonderful book. I knew my friends didn't read this book because they didn't read German.

"Anyhow, I had a wonderful time. I must say, later on when I did something which contributed to the scholarship of this country, I was no longer connected, by umbilical cord or otherwise, I was deemphasized and I wasn't even introduced to the janitors of universities.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, while they thought you were a Communist, you received a listing; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is right.

"Senator Ferguson. In that listing, then, you had entree to certain people and certain society; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is correct.

"Senator Ferguson. But when you were definitely known to be not Communist, then this all disappeared?

"Dr. Wittfogel. The thing faded away.

"Senator Ferguson. Did you find they did not want you in the Institute of Pacific Relations as a non-Communist?

"Dr. Wittfogel. I didn't go near it, but I was not invited. . . .

"I was invited to one more conference. I made myself disagreeable. After that time, whatever my scholarship was, objective sources seemed to think it had not decreased but increased. I didn't compensate for the wrong development of my political position.

"Senator Ferguson. You think by being a non-Communist in connection with the Institute of Pacific Relations, they had no use for you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is the way it looked.

"Senator Ferguson. You are satisfied as to that?

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

The reader might ask, "What does this prove?" He might even ask, "Why trust an ex-Communist?" Yet, as I read the pages of this testimony and note the disclosure of evidence in correspondence among these persons, intended for their eyes alone, I can realize how a politically-minded individual like Harry Truman can lose his temper at what Joe McCarthy started. The record that is being built can, in a campaign, be unpleasant.

For it was McCarthy's hurling of names that forced this question of Communist infiltration to the fore. True, many of these men were not Communists; they were perhaps dupes or dopes. But the country is paying a ghastly bill for their activities, and we need to protect ourselves against more of the same.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TREATMENT OF ARTHRITIS

When it was learned that it required the extract of about 100 pituitary glands of cattle to supply enough ACTH (now called Acthar) to supply the daily needs of one arthritic patient, physicians and arthritics became more patient. In the meantime, however, the manufacturers, Armour and Company, were able to reduce the price.

Instead of using the juice or extract of the pituitary gland, some Swedish physicians have been implanting the whole gland or front lobe under the skin in arthritic patients in the Rheumatic Hospital in Lund.

Drs. Gunnar Edstrom and Stig Thune recently gave an account of their method before the Swedish Society of Internal Medicine. The heads of recently killed calves and pigs were rushed to the hospital and the front or anterior lobes of the pituitary gland were made ready for implanting into the patient within half an hour after the animal's death. Two or three of the lobes were implanted in the gluteal muscles (the huge muscles on which we sit) by means of small opens 2/5" to 4/5" long made in the skin under a local anaesthetic, the openings being closed by suture of the skin.

The response to this implantation was prompt when there was a response, the patient's range of movement of joints and muscles being improved and pain and tenderness relieved in a few hours. "The reaction was remarkably like that which follows injections of ACTH but while it was less marked, it was also more prolonged than the reaction of ACTH.

Analysis of 51 cases in which implantations of the pituitary was done between September, 1949, and March, 1950, shows that in November, 1950, there were 22 patients free of all symptoms and nine who were improved. In 27 cases the effects of this treatment could still be found nine months later and during these months 20 of these patients were completely free of symptoms.

In comparing this method of implanting the pituitary gland under the skin, with injections of the extract of pituitary gland (ACTH), Drs. Edstrom and Thune state that while ACTH is absorbed more quickly, the effects of implantation of the front part of the pituitary gland last longer.

In order to preserve the effectiveness of the pituitary gland, Dr. Fellinger, Vienna, has introduced a system of deep freezing of the gland between the time it is removed from the animal and implanted under skin of the patient.

Is This Trip Necessary?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. note: Drew Pearson is again on a tour of Europe, studying conditions there. His column today takes the form of a letter written from Germany to his wife about her son.)

Munich, Germany

Dear L. W.:

Driving up toward the Czech border the other night, about dusk, I noticed a big van lumbering along with a little car behind it. The van looked like it was lost from our convoy and we stopped it to inquire.

In the little car behind was your son. He was pushing the driver of that big van like a terrier biting the heels of a recalcitrant bull because that van contained the most important part of our "Winds of Freedom" operation —namely, the messages we were sending that night to the people of Czechoslovakia.

I left the car full of VIP's where I was riding and joined your son, not only because I enjoy his company but to see what it was all about. What happened was that the friendship messages to the Czech people had been late arriving in Munich from Cincinnati and we had to get new messages printed in Germany. The latter also were too late to join the main truck convoy which had left Munich at noon so Tyler was commissioned to remain behind to see that the most important part of our operation got to the border on time.

I am writing you because I know he hasn't fulfilled his promise to write you every day but I think, when you read this, you'll understand why.

The Winds of Freedom, incidentally, shift back and forth along the border and neither he nor I knew exactly where to join the other trucks. But he had instructions to meet a lookout in front of the post office in Weiden, a little town 10 miles from the border. The lookout directed us 10 miles in another direction, where we sighted our convoy and where your son finally delivered the 2,000,000 messages to the Czech people on time.

The trucks were parked on a narrow road on the Bavarian hillside almost on a straight line toward Pilsen and Prague, the two largest cities of Czechoslovakia.

Arranging a convoy is a complicated opeartion, somewhat like loading a circus train and it reminded me of my old tent-wrecking days. Electric generators are at one end of the convoy, though far enough away so that no sparks can reach the hydrogen tanks used to fill the balloons, these are filled inside the truck and launched from its rear end. Next come four side-gate trucks for rubber balloons. The latter are so big they can't be filled inside the trucks, so the hyrogen tanks are laid sideways with a hose extending to the balloon-launching tables on the side of the road.

Tyler operated the valve on the hydrogen tank, supervising a crew of three Germans. The balloon is inflated with hydrogen until it touches two inverted table legs about four feet apart. When it reaches this diameter, it is tied at the bottom and sent on its way across the Iron Curtain. I autographed one of these balloons for Gottwald and Stalin.

The long line of trucks parked alongside a Bavarian wheat stubblefield made a fascinating, eerie spectacle in the night—the gutteral German voices, the swish-swish of the flowing hydrogen, and the steady silent launching of the big bags as they slipped off into the darkness.

The boys were getting off their missives to Prague pretty regularly—about 1,300, all told—when it started to drizzle. We kept going for a while, since rain doesn't impede the balloons. They rise above the clouds in no time, but it does get the men wet. So, at 2 a. m. we finally laid off; everyone was pretty well soaked.

I sat in the car for a while, waiting for the rain to stop but when it didn't I used the excuse that I had to get to the cable office, and at 3 a. m. headed back for Munich. I'm getting old, I guess, and can't take it.

Before I left, however, I went down the line of murky trucks, trying to find your son. I finally located him sitting inside a truck, listening to German veterans and ex-prisoners swapping war experiences with American G. I. students—men who had once been fighting each other but who now worked together launching friendship messages to another people whom they hoped they wouldn't have to fight.

Germans, incidentally, supposed to be the military master race, seem to me completely pacifist. German youngsters are just as unenthusiastic about raising an army as your son and other American youngsters are about the draft. Sometimes I think it's chiefly the old dodoes who are complacent about the prospects of war. However, I'm convinced that Moscow wants to wait a considerable time before it plunges the world into war. Its satellite peoples are too restless and would turn against the Kremlin in case of war. That's why I think this balloon deal, coming at this particular time, may help. It's only a drop in the bucket, of course, and lots of people will pooh-pooh it but you have to make a start some way or other in attempts at penetrating the Iron Curtain, so we've taken the first step.

Anyway, I drove back to Munich at 3 a. m., leaving your son up on the border. They resumed launching the balloons at 4 a. m. and continued until 6 but he didn't get back to Munich with the trucks until noon, making a 28-hour day—from 8 a. m. till 12 noon the next day.

The winds weren't quite right the day following, however, and he got 12 hours sleep though last night. When I arrived at the border at 2 a. m. they were at it again, continuing until 6 a. m. they planned to lay over until noon, let men sleep on the roadside, and then unloose another barrage which would hit Prague about 4 p. m., just as the people were starting home from work.

Well, that's why your son hasn't written and why I am trying to report for him.

I am very lonesome and anxious to get home. It's rained a lot here and I hope you've had some of it at home. When I left the pastures were just about burned up. See you soon.

DREW.

Baited a Crocodile With His Own Leg

Rasul Narshi of Punjab, India, was a most determined avenger of his kin. After his wife and daughter were killed by a crocodile, Rasul decided to capture the killer and execute it. He lay in wait near the banks of the river, using his own leg as bait. A crocodile attacked him, but assistants hired for the occasion succeeded in pulling him and the reptile ashore. It was identified as the killer by the remains of clothing in its stomach. Later it was stuffed as a trophy.

'U. S. Air Navy' New Name Suggested for Famed Branch of Service

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 21—Someone might well offer a prize for a new name for the U. S. Navy.

Maybe the name should be the "U. S. Air Navy." For the latest announcement from the Navy Department reveals that hereafter even submarines will engage in aerial warfare.

Unfortunately, the navy has been laboring under a handicap in postwar years. Members of Congress and some commentators still think of the navy as primarily a ferry service or a patrol to guard the transportation of troops across the seas or just as a means of hunting down enemy submarines.

Actually the navy today is set up to conduct offensive as well as defensive warfare by the use of the latest type of bombers and fighter planes. The navy has just revealed, for example, that three more aircraft carriers will be modernized so as to handle bombing planes capable of delivering the atomic bomb.

For several months now it has been the policy of the joint chiefs of staff to allow every one of the three armed services to use atomic energy for its weapons—each service adapting these to its own special purposes.

The aircraft carrier, however, with its floating base is not the only ship that will engage in aerial warfare. Guided missiles will be fired from the decks of cruisers and battleships. The time is near when even a submarine will run close to an enemy shore and, coming to the surface, will discharge guided missiles which will do damage several hundred miles inland.

The so-called "carrier task force" is built around aerial warfare. The aircraft carrier of today gets a ring of protection from battleships, cruisers and destroyers, and all are equipped with rapid-fire anti-aircraft guns. The whole concept of a modern navy turns primarily on aerial combat.

Before the Korean war broke out, the navy had a hard time convincing its critics in other services that lots of aircraft carriers should remain in commission and not be put in "mothballs." In fact, money for modernizing aircraft carriers was withheld because of the belief that there wouldn't be much use for the navy's air arm as long as intercontinental strategic bombers could do the same job.

During the first weeks of the Korean war, fortunately, the aircraft carriers of the navy transported some of the U. S. Air Force's fighter planes across the Pacific. This is because a fighter plane, as distinguished from a long-range bomber, cannot fly across long stretches of water.

Thus, not only was the aircraft carrier's use as a ferry in an emergency confirmed but an awakening took place at the same time as to the true power of naval aviation as an offensive force. The navy's fighters and bombers ranged up and down both coasts of Korea and its planes regularly gave close air support to ground troops, especially when fields in Korea were not available.

More and more, therefore, the U. S. Navy has become an air navy. There are very few officers today who think of the battleship and the cruiser as the backbone of the fleet any more. As the late Admiral Sherman used to say, the modern aircraft carrier is the new "ship of the line."

Incidentally, the navy is happy about the evolution of its new large-sized carrier known as the "James V. Forrestal." A sister ship is likely to be planned soon. Louis Johnson, who was secretary of defense in 1950, revealed recently at Senate armed services hearings that he had promised Admiral Sherman there would be two new large-sized carriers. While this hasn't been brought before the joint chiefs as yet, it probably will be in due course. It is believed the new carrier will be named the "Forrest P. Sherman." Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee approves of the idea.

But, speaking of names, Congress has specifically recognized "Naval aviation" in its statutes. Yet the "naval air arm" is no longer an adjunct by itself. With guided missiles and atomic bombs fired from all manner of naval vessels, the name "U. S. Air Navy" would now, as a term of identification, embrace the entire naval establishment.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Aug. 20—President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights, after mysterious proceedings, including consideration of "hundreds of communications from private organizations" which were not identified by name, recommended that Congress enact a law against lynching. The bills offered in congress in accordance with this political coup all exempted murders, bodily injuries and other atrocities against innocent citizens inflicted by union mobs.

Union mobs usually operate by the flagrant apathetic tolerance of faithless policemen and their political superiors who have been in most cases members and agents of the Democratic party. The committee's recommendations on this point said the new law should provide punishment of all public officers who should fail to use proper measures to protect against mob violence "a person accused of a crime."

This is a disgraceful trick of language planted in an official report of the United States government which was immediately adopted as a great public document by the Communist party and given a grand display in its official book-shop in New York.

Here is a sly attempt to protect from mob violence persons accused of crimes but to deny the same protection to persons not accused of any crime. The victime of a lynching mob who is charged with rape may be guilty of rape. Many victims of lynching have been guilty of violent acts which arouse local anger. That they should not be lynched goes without saying and the southern states which are the special objects of the typical hateful Communist propaganda put forth in this document have almost extinguished lynching according to this definition. But the dramatic plight of the law-abiding American worker who is placed outside the protection of the law by this vicious document is far worse than that of the victim who is not "accused of a crime." It is no crime to go to one's job through a picket line of thugs deliberately arrayed along the approaches to premises which criminal unioneers have undertaken to blockade. But the individual who is put to death by the goons is beyond the intent of this evil proposal bearing the signatures of eminent clergy simply because he or she is not "accused of a crime."

It is futile to argue that these cats'-paws of the Communist program were not aware of this sly distinction. They are all educated persons and it would be a reflection on their intelligence to say that they were too stupid to realize that their proposal shows more solicitude for a person lynched under accusation of a crime than for a person whose innocence was not questioned at all. They knew what they were signing.

The most violent union lynchings have been confined to the northern, eastern and western states until recently. Nowadays, however, professional goons are invading the southern states and there is no possible doubt that the Committee on Civil Rights had this development in mind when it wrote into its report accounts of selected lynchings in southern states but did not mention a single killing or beating of a law-abiding citizen by any union mob in other sections.

There is not a shred of evidence in the book comparable to this excerpt from a report by Congressman Clare Hoffman, of Michigan, to the House of Representatives describing typical events in a wild insurrection against the authority of lawful government in 1948:

"One Granville North, a union attorney, seemed to be a prime moving force in the organization of picket line rowdyism" in Omaha. "When the packers were in a private meeting with the city council to discuss means of improving law enforcement to prevent violence, Mr. North arrived with approximately 400 union members and walked into this private meeting. PLEASURE DRIVING

When the automobile came to popularity it brought with it a new concept of pleasure driving. Ever since man has had vehicles to ride he has used them to obtain the sheer pleasure of riding in them as well as for more practical purposes of transportation. The automobile brought a new scope and new ease, and hence greater possibilities for pleasure, to the Sunday ride.

It also brought new complications. Many highways have become choked with traffic, and somehow it seems that the heaviest traffic is always found on the roads which lead to the most desirable places. That no doubt is natural. Threading a path through this traffic has brought danger to the ride, and a degree of nervous strain for the driver which makes it pertinent to ask whether he still finds pleasure in it. But perhaps the most insidious thing the automobile has done to the pleasure ride is to impart to it a sense of urgency, a feeling that one has to hurry so as to get somewhere.

This notion that one must hurry accounts for most of the unpleasantness and nervous strain of driving in traffic, and also for most of the danger. If we could just get back to the old-fashioned idea that a ride can be taken purely for the pleasure of riding, and that it need not really matter how far we get from home in a given time, the pleasure ride might yet survive the age of the automobile.

FEAR OF LIGHTNING

Lightning must have terrified primitive man. It is likely that as he lay back on his bed of pine needles and saw the jagged bolts speed across the sky he quickly pulled the animal skins with which he covered himself over his head to shut out the terror.

Today much of the mystery about lightning has been dispelled. Statistics have demonstrated just how little chance there is that a person will be struck by it. Insurance company tables show that the man who lives in the city is somewhat safer than his country cousin in an electrical storm. Women also seem to be safer than men in a storm, for at least four times as many men as women have been killed by lightning. In one state, Rhode Island, there has not been a single fatality due to lightning since 1936.

Man can now manufacture lightning in the laboratory. This may puzzle the layman who will wonder why anyone would want to conjur up artificially something which is naturally terrifying.

But it is good to note the scientific progress made since the days of our cave-dwelling ancestors. The animal skins they pulled over their heads in their terror of lightning were probably most unsanitary. The sheets which most of us use today are a big improvement.

RISING TO NEW HEIGHTS

There was a time when the breaking of almost any sort of a record would serve to excite the American people. A man who kept an airplane in the air for a longer time than had been done previously or who established a new record for perching on a flagpole was once the object of a good deal of attention. But all that seems to have changed.

Progress has been so rapid in recent years that people no longer pay much attention to records unless they are personally and immediately effected by them. The news that a new American rocket reached a record altitude of 135 miles caused hardly any comment at all by the man on the street, despite the fact that the feat was indeed remarkable. People seem to be getting used to stupendous accomplishments. The average person who read the story of the 135-mile height reached by the rocket might have shrugged his shoulders and commented, "And what about the rising cost of living?" That seems to be the only altitude record to which people cannot be indifferent.

A statesman works and prays for good government; a politician merely promises it.

Some people are known well enough to talk to, others only to talk about.

'These Days'

TRUMAN AND McCARTHY

There can be no question that Senator Joe McCarthy has finally got under the skin of President Harry Truman. This has very little to do with McCarthyism, which is a smear-word that may be defined as indiscriminate disclosure of names of alleged Communists and homosexuals on the Senate floor. It has everything to do with careful, scientific investigation by the McCarran Committee, which is establishing beyond doubt a pattern of Communist infiltration into our government.

The McCarran investigation has been inadequately reported because it is not dramatizing anything. No attempt is being made to pillory anyone. Witnesses are treated with courtesy and fairness. There is little noise.

But an astonishing record is being built document by document, word by word. And it is not premature to say that there are indications that the evidence will show, in the end, that the Tydings Committee did perform a white-wash.

Whatever anyone may say about Joe McCarthy and the methods that he employs, the McCarran Committee record stands. For instance, I am now reading the transcript of the testimony of Dr. Karl Wittfogel, a former German Communist, a scholar of outstanding stature, now professor at the University of Washington and in charge of a Chinese history project at Columbia University.

It has already been established by the committee that the Institute of Pacific Relations had developed a tremendous influence in the determination of our Far Eastern policy through the placement of persons associated with it in key positions. It has not been established or even asserted that the Institute ever was or is now a Communist organization. Thus far, it has been shown that the principal personalities, during the development period of the Institute, were Edward C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Owen Lattimore.

Dr. Wittfogel's testimony is very important as showing the direction of this Institute in developing the American China policy:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . The prestige that you received by the listing in connection with the IPR was of value to you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. It was wonderful. At the time when people knew nothing about me. . . . Anyhow, I had a lovely time. It was introduced to people and was received by the president of Stanford University. Wherever I went, I was referred to as a man who had written a wonderful book. I knew my friends didn't read this book because they didn't read German.

"Anyhow, I had a wonderful time. I must say, later on when I did something which contributed to the scholarship of this country, I was no longer connected, by umbilical cord or otherwise, I was deemphasized and I wasn't even introduced to the janitors of universities.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, while they thought you were a Communist, you received a listing; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is right.

"Senator Ferguson. In that listing, then, you had entree to certain people and certain society; is that right?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is correct.

"Senator Ferguson. But when you were definitely known to be not Communist, then this all disappeared?

"Dr. Wittfogel. The thing faded away.

"Senator Ferguson. Did you find they did not want you in the Institute of Pacific Relations as a non-Communist?

"Dr. Wittfogel. I didn't go near it, but I was not invited. . . .

"I was invited to one more conference. I made myself disagreeable. After that time, whatever my scholarship was, objective sources seemed to think it had not decreased but increased. I didn't compensate for the wrong development of my political position.

"Senator Ferguson. You think by being a non-Communist in connection with the Institute of Pacific Relations, they had no use for you?

"Dr. Wittfogel. That is the way it looked.

"Senator Ferguson. You are satisfied as to that?

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

The reader might ask, "What does this prove?" He might even ask, "Why trust an ex-Communist?" Yet, as I read the pages of this testimony and note the disclosure of evidence in correspondence among these persons, intended for their eyes alone, I can realize how a politically-minded individual like Harry Truman can lose his temper at what Joe McCarthy started. The record that is being built can, in a campaign, be unpleasant.

For it was McCarthy's hurling of names that forced this question of Communist infiltration to the fore. True, many of these men were not Communists; they were perhaps dupes or dopes. But the country is paying a ghastly bill for their activities, and we need to protect ourselves against more of the same.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF ARTHRITIS

When it was learned that it required the extract of about 100 pituitary glands of cattle to supply enough ACTH (now called Acthar) to supply the daily needs of one arthritic patient, physicians and arthritics became more patient. In the meantime, however, the manufacturers, Armour and Company, were able to reduce the price.

Instead of using the juice or extract of the pituitary gland, some Swedish physicians have been implanting the whole gland or front lobe under the skin in arthritic patients in the Rheumatic Hospital in Lund.

Drs. Gunnar Edstrom and Stig Thune recently gave an account of their method before the Swedish Society of Internal Medicine. The heads of recently killed calves and pigs were rushed to the hospital and the front or anterior lobes of the pituitary gland were made ready for implanting into the patient within half an hour after the animal's death. Two or three of the lobes were implanted in the gluteal muscles (the huge muscles on which we sit) by means of small opens 2/5" to 4/5" long made in the skin under a local anaesthetic, the openings being closed by suture of the skin.

The response to this implantation was prompt when there was a response, the patient's range of movement of joints and muscles being improved and pain and tenderness relieved in a few hours. "The reaction was remarkably like that which follows injections of ACTH but while it was less marked, it was also more prolonged than the reaction of ACTH.

Analysis of 51 cases in which implantations of the pituitary was done between September, 1949, and March, 1950, shows that in November, 1950, there were 22 patients free of all symptoms and nine who were improved. In 27 cases the effects of this treatment could still be found nine months later and during these months 20 of these patients were completely free of symptoms.

In comparing this method of implanting the pituitary gland under the skin, with injections of the extract of pituitary gland (ACTH), Drs. Edstrom and Thune state that while ACTH is absorbed more quickly, the effects of implantation of the front part of the pituitary gland last longer.

In order to preserve the effectiveness of the pituitary gland, Dr. Fellinger, Vienna, has introduced a system of deep freezing of the gland between the time it is removed from the animal and implanted under skin of the patient.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. note: Drew Pearson is again on a tour of Europe, studying conditions there. His column today takes the form of a letter written from Germany to his wife about her son.)

Munich, Germany

Dear L. W.:

Driving up toward the Czech border the other night, about dusk, I noticed a big van lumbering along with a little car behind it. The van looked like it was lost from our convoy and we stopped it to inquire.

In the little car behind was your son. He was pushing the driver of that big van like a terrier biting the heels of a recalcitrant bull because that van contained the most important part of our "Winds of Freedom" operation—namely, the messages we were sending that night to the people of Czechoslovakia.

I left the car full of VIP's where I was riding and joined your son, not only because I enjoy his company but to see what it was all about. What happened was that the friendship messages to the Czech people had been late arriving in Munich from Cincinnati and we had to get new messages printed in Germany. The latter also were too late to join the main truck convoy which had left Munich at noon so Tyler was commissioned to remain behind to see that the most important part of our operation got to the border on time.

I am writing you because I know he hasn't fulfilled his promise to write you every day but I think, when you read this, you'll understand why.

The Winds of Freedom, incidentally, shift back and forth along the border and neither he nor I knew exactly where to join the other trucks. But he had instructions to meet a lookout in front of the post office in Weiden, a little town 10 miles from the border. The lookout directed us 10 miles in another direction, where we sighted our convoy and where your son finally delivered the 2,000,000 messages to the Czech people on time.

The trucks were parked on a narrow road on the Bavarian hillside almost on a straight line toward Pilsen and Prague, the two largest cities of Czechoslovakia.

Arranging a convoy is a complicated opeartion, somewhat like loading a circus train and it reminded me of my old tent-wrecking days. Electric generators are at one end of the convoy, though far enough away so that no sparks can reach the hydrogen tanks used to fill the balloons, these are filled inside the truck and launched from its rear end. Next come four side-gate trucks for rubber balloons. The latter are so big they can't be filled inside the trucks, so the hyrogen tanks are laid sideways with a hose extending to the balloon-launching tables on the side of the road.

Tyler operated the valve on the hydrogen tank, supervising a crew of three Germans. The balloon is inflated with hydrogen until it touches two inverted table legs about four feet apart. When it reaches this diameter, it is tied at the bottom and sent on its way across the Iron Curtain. I autographed one of these balloons for Gottwald and Stalin.

The long line of trucks parked alongside a Bavarian wheat stubblefield made a fascinating, eerie spectacle in the night—the gutteral German voices, the swish-swish of the flowing hydrogen, and the steady silent launching of the big bags as they slipped off into the darkness.

The boys were getting off their missives to Prague pretty regularly—about 1,300, all told—when it started to drizzle. We kept going for a while, since rain doesn't impede the balloons. They rise above the clouds in no time, but it does get the men wet. So, at 2 a. m. we finally laid off; everyone was pretty well soaked.

I sat in the car for a while, waiting for the rain to stop but when it didn't I used the excuse that I had to get to the cable office, and at 3 a. m. headed back for Munich. I'm getting old, I guess, and can't take it.

Before I left, however, I went down the line of murky trucks, trying to find your son. I finally located him sitting inside a truck, listening to German veterans and ex-prisoners swapping war experiences with American G. I. students—men who had once been fighting each other but who now worked together launching friendship messages to another people whom they hoped they wouldn't have to fight.

Germans, incidentally, supposed to be the military master race, seem to me completely pacifist. German youngsters are just as unenthusiastic about raising an army as your son and other American youngsters are about the draft. Sometimes I think it's chiefly the old dodoes who are complacent about the prospects of war. However, I'm convinced that Moscow wants to wait a considerable time before it plunges the world into war. Its satellite peoples are too restless and would turn against the Kremlin in case of war. That's why I think this balloon deal, coming at this particular time, may help. It's only a drop in the bucket, of course, and lots of people will pooh-pooh it but you have to make a start some way or other in attempts at penetrating the Iron Curtain, so we've taken the first step.

Anyway, I drove back to Munich at 3 a. m., leaving your son up on the border. They resumed launching the balloons at 4 a. m. and continued until 6 but he didn't get back to Munich with the trucks until noon, making a 28-hour day—from 8 a. m. till 12 noon the next day.

The winds weren't quite right the day following, however, and he got 12 hours sleep though last night. When I arrived at the border at 2 a. m. they were at it again, continuing until 6 a. m. they planned to lay over until noon, let men sleep on the roadside, and then unloose another barrage which would hit Prague about 4 p. m., just as the people were starting home from work.

Well, that's why your son hasn't written and why I am trying to report for him.

I am very lonesome and anxious to get home. It's rained a lot here and I hope you've had some of it at home. When I left the pastures were just about burned up. See you soon.

DREW.

Baited a Crocodile With His Own Leg

Rasul Narshi of Punjab, India, was a most determined avenger of his kin. After his wife and daughter were killed by a crocodile, Rasul decided to capture the killer and execute it. He lay in wait near the banks of the river, using his own leg as bait. A crocodile attacked him, but assistants hired for the occasion succeeded in pulling him and the reptile ashore. It was identified as the killer by the remains of clothing in its stomach. Later it was stuffed as a trophy.

'U. S. Air Navy' Now Name Suggested for Famed Branch of Service

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 21—Someone might well offer a prize for a new name for the U. S. Navy.

Maybe the name should be the "U. S. Air Navy." For the latest announcement from the Navy Department reveals that hereafter even submarines will engage in aerial warfare.

Unfortunately, the navy has been laboring under a handicap in postwar years. Members of Congress and some commentators still think of the navy as primarily a ferry service or a patrol to guard the transportation of troops across the seas or just as a means of hunting down enemy submarines.

Actually the navy today is set up to conduct offensive as well as defensive warfare by the use of the latest type of bombers and fighter planes. The navy has just revealed, for example, that three more aircraft carriers will be modernized so as to handle bombing planes capable of delivering the atomic bomb.

For several months now it has been the policy of the joint chiefs of staff to allow every one of the three armed services to use atomic energy for its weapons—each service adapting these to its own special purposes.

The aircraft carrier, however, with its floating base is not the only ship that will engage in aerial warfare. Guided missiles will be fired from the decks of cruisers and battleships. The time is near when even a submarine will run close to an enemy shore and, coming to the surface, will discharge guided missiles which will do damage several hundred miles inland.

The so-called "carrier task force" is built around aerial warfare. The aircraft carrier of today gets a ring of protection from battleships, cruisers and destroyers, and all are equipped with rapid-fire anti-aircraft guns. The whole concept of a modern navy turns primarily on aerial combat.

Before the Korean war broke out, the navy had a hard time convincing its critics in other services that lots of aircraft carriers should remain in commission and not be put in "mothballs." In fact, money for modernizing aircraft carriers was withheld because of the belief that there wouldn't be much use for the navy's air arm as long as intercontinental strategic bombers could do the same job.

During the first weeks of the Korean war, fortunately, the aircraft carriers of the navy transported some of the U. S. Air Force's fighter planes across the Pacific. This is because a fighter plane, as distinguished from a long-range bomber, cannot fly across long stretches of water.

Thus, not only was the aircraft carrier's use as a ferry in an emergency confirmed but an awakening took place at the same time as to the true power of naval aviation as an offensive force. The navy's fighters and bombers ranged up and down both coasts of Korea and its planes regularly gave close air support to ground troops, especially when fields in Korea were not available.

More and more, therefore, the U. S. Navy has become an air navy. There are very few officers today who think of the battleship and the cruiser as the backbone of the fleet any more. As the late Admiral Sherman used to say, the modern aircraft carrier is the new "ship of the line."

Incidentally, the navy is happy about the evolution of its new large-sized carrier known as the "James V. Forrestal." A sister ship is likely to be planned soon. Louis Johnson, who was secretary of defense in 1950, revealed recently at Senate armed services hearings that he had promised Admiral Sherman there would be two new large-sized carriers. While this hasn't been brought before the joint chiefs as yet, it probably will be in due course. It is believed the new carrier will be named the "Forrest P. Sherman." Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee approves of the idea.

But, speaking of names, Congress has specifically recognized "Naval aviation" in its statutes. Yet the "naval air arm" is no longer an adjunct by itself. With guided missiles and atomic bombs fired from all manner of naval vessels, the name "U. S. Air Navy" would now, as a term of identification, embrace the entire naval establishment.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Aug. 20—President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights, after mysterious proceedings, including consideration of "hundreds of communications from private organizations" which were not identified by name, recommended that Congress enact a law against lynching. The bills offered in congress in accordance with this political coup all exempted murders, bodily injuries and other atrocities against innocent citizens inflicted by union mobs.

Union mobs usually operate by the flagrant apathetic tolerance of faithless policemen and their political superiors who have been in most cases members and agents of the Democratic party. The committee's recommendations on this point said the new law should provide punishment of all public officers who should fail to use proper measures to protect against mob violence "a person accused of a crime."

This is a disgraceful trick of language planted in an official report of the United States government which was immediately adopted as a great public document by the Communist party and given a grand display in its official book-shop in New York.

Here is a sly attempt to protect from mob violence persons accused of crimes but to deny the same protection to persons not accused of any crime. The victime of a lynching mob who is charged with rape may be guilty of rape. Many victims of lynching have been guilty of violent acts which arouse local anger. That they should not be lynched goes without saying and the southern states which are the special objects of the typical hateful Communist propaganda put forth in this document have almost extinguished lynching according to this definition. But the dramatic plight of the law-abiding American worker who is placed outside the protection of the law by this vicious document is far worse than that of the victim who is not "accused of a crime." It is no crime to go to one's job through a picket line of thugs deliberately arrayed along the approaches to premises which criminal unioneers have undertaken to blockade. But the individual who is put to death by the goons is beyond the intent of this evil proposal bearing the signatures of eminent clergy simply because he or she is not "accused of a crime."

It is futile to argue that these cats'-paws of the Communist program were not aware of this sly distinction. They are all educated persons and it would be a reflection on their intelligence to say that they were too stupid to realize that their proposal shows more solicitude for a person lynched under accusation of a crime than for a person whose innocence was not questioned at all. They knew what they were signing.

The most violent union lynchings have been confined to the northern, eastern and western states until recently. Nowadays, however, professional goons are invading the southern states and there is no possible doubt that the Committee on Civil Rights had this development in mind when it wrote into its report accounts of selected lynchings in southern states but did not mention a single killing or beating of a law-abiding citizen by any union mob in other sections.

There is not a shred of evidence in the book comparable to this excerpt from a report by Congressman Clare Hoffman, of Michigan, to the House of Representatives describing typical events in a wild insurrection against the authority of lawful government in 1948:

"One Granville North, a union attorney, seemed to be a prime moving force in the organization of picket line rowdyism" in Omaha. "When the packers were in a private meeting with the city council to discuss means of improving law enforcement to prevent violence, Mr. North arrived with approximately 400 union members and walked into this private meeting. According to one witness, the group created a mob scene and said that this union was taking over and would

Welcomes Help Of Volunteers, if New York Raided

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Joseph T. Sharkey, acting president of the city council, today welcomed the help New York city would get from firemen outside the city in the event of atomic attack here.

In a speech prepared for the 79th annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of New York, Sharkey said:

"If New York city should be attacked from the air by the Communist we of this city would rely on your able and fearless assistance * * *.

"It is a great consolation to the administration of the city * * * to know that every fire-fighting unit in the state stands ready and pledged to come to the aid of this great metropolis in the event of atomic attack.

"And when the brave firemen outside of this city come to our aid—if the occasion should ever arise—it will be you volunteer fire-fighters who will furnish the overwhelming majority of the mighty force that will protect the metropolis and its people from the fiery aftermath of an atomic attack."

Sharkey noted that nearly 90 per cent of the 127,000 active firemen in New York state are volunteers. He said there are about 16,000 paid firemen in the state, with almost 11,000 of them in New York city. The city still has a few volunteers in Queens and on Staten Island.

Sharkey, who represtend Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri as a speaker, also noted the state's larger force of exempt firemen, in addition to the active volunteers.

He said the volunteer units are equipped with modern apparatus.

Police to Get Charter in Secret

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers Union is scheduled to present a charter formally to a police local at a secret meeting place tonight.

TWU President Michael J. Quill refused yesterday to reveal the meeting place, the time of the presentation or the identities of the 23 persons who signed the charter.

A union aid said the meeting place might well be a Hoboken, N. J., beer cellar or the deck of a chartered boat. The charter was issued by the TWU on August 7 as Quill's drive to unionize the city's 19,000-member police force reached a peak.

The union secrecy grows from Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan's threat of disciplinary action against members of the force who join the TWU or who fail to resign from it. Quill claims that 10,000 city policemen have applied for membership.

The union and city officials are awaiting a decision by State Supreme Court Justice Charles D. Breitel on the union's application for a court order restraining Monaghan from taking disciplinary action for TWU membership.

TWU counsel John F. O'Donnell predicted the new police local would remain clothed in secrecy for no more than two weeks.

After that, he said, "city representatives will have to sit across the conference table to negotiate grievances with members of the police department.

The tree is the Metasequoia Glyptostrobioides, a relative of California's giant Sequoia. Dr. Earl L. Core, head of the University's Department of Biology, said three specimens were planted this past spring after they were presented by the Brooklyn Botanical Garden in connection with a national study of climatic requirements. Two have since disappeared and are believed to have been stolen from the Arboretum, but the third has taken hold in a manner indicating that West Virginia is the proper habitat for the tree. Welcomes Help Of Volunteers, if New York Raided

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Joseph T. Sharkey, acting president of the city council, today welcomed the help New York city would get from firemen outside the city in the event of atomic attack here.

In a speech prepared for the 79th annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of New York, Sharkey said:

"If New York city should be attacked from the air by the Communist we of this city would rely on your able and fearless assistance * * *.

"It is a great consolation to the administration of the city * * * to know that every fire-fighting unit in the state stands ready and pledged to come to the aid of this great metropolis in the event of atomic attack.

"And when the brave firemen outside of this city come to our aid—if the occasion should ever arise—it will be you volunteer fire-fighters who will furnish the overwhelming majority of the mighty force that will protect the metropolis and its people from the fiery aftermath of an atomic attack."

Sharkey noted that nearly 90 per cent of the 127,000 active firemen in New York state are volunteers. He said there are about 16,000 paid firemen in the state, with almost 11,000 of them in New York city. The city still has a few volunteers in Queens and on Staten Island.

Sharkey, who represtend Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri as a speaker, also noted the state's larger force of exempt firemen, in addition to the active volunteers.

He said the volunteer units are equipped with modern apparatus.

The United States has about three-fifths of the world's telephones.

On another occasion, in the court-room of Judge Chase, Mr. North made the following statement: 'You have seen what they did to them in Minnesota yesterday; 200 of them went in there and took 30 scabs out of that Cudahy plant and beat Hell out of them. They haven't even found ten of them yet and that isn't half of it. They busted up all the machinery. This is going to be the pattern from now on.' "

Luther Youngdahl, the mock-Republican governor of Minnesota, flinched and paltered in the presence of violence and, for his reward, recently has been appointed to the United States Court in Washington, D. C. By nomination of Senator Hubert Humphrey, a nominal Democrat but the principal promoter of the Marxian program of the pre-Communist wing of the Truman party. During this insurrection two law-abiding Negro citizens did the sensible thing, when they were set upon by union lynching mobs. In each case the Negro citizen drew a bead on a goon and blew his head off. Both colored men were tried and acquitted with honor and there is no doubt that any southern man or woman who does the same will be acquitted, too. When the cops flinch or can't be found, the citizen in peril has a right to carry a gun and to kill anyone who threatens his or her life.

The woman who recently was killed by a mob which upset an automobile as she tried to go to her job at a textile plant in Berryton, Ga., might have saved her life if she had blown the belly out of the nearest goon with a 12-gauge gun. There can be no doubt that a jury would have set her loose.

The only notice taken of union lynching occurs in a glancing reference to "illegal police activity" against "union organizers" many of whom have prison records. Such criminals are bracketed with "unpopular, weak or defenseless groups."

Ties Up Main Line

Port Jervis, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Derailment of a big diesel locomotive, which tore up 300 feet of track, tied up the main line of the Erie Railroad for a short time yesterday. No one was injured in the accident, at Lackawaxen, Pa., about 12 miles west of here. There were no serious delays and service was quickly restored to normal, the Erie's chief dispatcher's office in New York city reported.

Mt. Vernon, Ill. (AP)—Economy cuts in Mt. Vernon city payrolls resulted recently in: (1) elimination of tin can and rubbish collections, and (2) an offer to citizens to use the city dump free. BY SOPHIE MILLER

Keats Young from Milton dropped in the other day. He is well versed in old stamps and looks through by father's collection from time to time. So we got talking about a potential stamp that Kingston hopes to have for its coming 300th Anniversary. The one symbol that belongs to us Kingstonians is, of course, the Senate House, oldest official public building in the United States. And we both thought it would be wonderful if that was reproduced on the stamp. So that perhaps collectors of stamps for all parts of the country could see it, and perhaps some day visit Kingston. Mr. Young gave me a stamp put out in 1933, showing Washington's Headquarters in Newburgh, N. Y., of the 1783-1933 celebration down there. It shows the hills and the Hudson, and reminds one somewhat of Kingston. We both felt that Peter Stuyvesant, although he had so much to do with Kingston, and perhaps spent some three or four weeks here, belongs to the whole state of New York. While the Senate House has stood here some 300 years and is entirely Kingstonian, and still stands as a Museum for all travelers to visit.

In my father's collection we found a stamp for the Kansas City, Missouri, Centennial of 1850-1950, very interesting stamp showing the old city of 1850 and the new horizon of 1950. The old part looks somewhat like our old Stone's dock in Rondout, when the excursion boats used to steam along there. Roger Williams got a stamp all to himself, 1836 to 1936. So did William Penn in 1932 (1682-1932). The state of Connecticut had a tercentenary, 1635-1935. The Charter Oak takes up the whole stamp. There is a "Century of Friendship" stamp, United States and Canada, put out in 1948, covering 1848-1948, showing a suspension bridge which looks very much like our Rondout Creek Bridge, only there's a train running across it.

Boulder Dam had a stamp in 1935. There was a Pony Express 80th Anniversary stamp in 1940. Samuel F. B. Morse had a two-cent stamp all to himself. They show him with a chest full of medals. Of course he was known as an inventor, but he also was a portrait painter, and first president of the National Academy. Another artist whose stamp is in my father's collection is of James A. McNeil Whistler, who is of course known by us all as the painter of the Mother picture. Gilbert Charles Stuart has a stamp, another famous artist, who taught our own John Vanderlyn of Kingston. Besides their portraits on the stamps, they have a palette and brushes in one corner, although Morse has just lightning and a mechanical wheel. Alfred E. Smith got a stamp in 1944. Vermont had her stamp on her 150th Anniversary of her Statehood. Roosevelt had his stamp with his portrait and "Little White House, Warm Springs." on a red two cent stamp. Also another on a purple 3-cent stamp showing the White House, in Washington, D. C.

To those who have time, it must be lots of fun collecting and assorting these stamps. They cover the arts, literature, history, biography etc. To me under each stamp I would like a little description as given in encyclopedias all about the event or the man shown in the stamp. The stamp alone would never be enough.

Turnpike Extension Bill Goes to Governor

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)—A bill authorizing a northeastern extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike went to Gov. John S. Fine today after passing the General Assembly.

The proposed new extension would run from a point on the superhighway east of the Susquehanna river northeast to the New York border somewhere between the Susquehanna and the Delaware river.

The Senate also passed last night and sent to the House another bill which would authorize a southern turnpike extension to the Maryland border.

The southern link would run some 40 miles from a point on the present toll road below Harrisburg to connect with any toll road that Maryland might build.

First Aid Training In Field Is Plan For Civil Defense

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Intensive first aid training "under actual field conditions" is prescribed for New York's civil defense forces.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, suggested today that C-D volunteers undergo "actual experience by working in any local disaster, such as fires, floods and train wrecks."

The Civil Defense first aid workers, he said, need not be medical personnel alone "but must be sturdy characters who are not afraid of bloodshed and mutilating injuries and cries of pain."

Dr. Hilleboe's recommendations came in a 20-page report covering his recent survey of casualty services and medical combat problems in Korea and Japan.

Dr. Hilleboe, stressing a need for swift handling of casualties in event of an atomic attack on New York, said he was impressed with the "remarkable efficiency" of the medical services in Korea.

One Half of Estimate

He said the actual death rate among wounded men reaching military hospitals in Korea was about one half of the 4.5 per cent estimate based on World War 2 experiences.

Out of every thousand wounded men admitted to the hospitals, 975 have lived, he said.

In calling for trained first aid personnel to cope with home-front attacks or disasters, Dr. Hilleboe said:

"We must use some of the emergency rooms of our large general hospitals in the training of these workers on live and injured subjects."

The commissioner also proposed that Mobile Army Surgical Hospital units be acquired for use in training C-D workers in target city areas.

Official's Son Is In Jail Again

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—For the second time in two months, the son of the Malverne police chief was in jail today on charges of molesting a woman.

The defendant, James Ackley, Jr., faced arraignment today in District Court here on charges of assault and burglary.

He was placed in a cell at Nassau county police headquarters here after being arrested by county police last night at his father's Malverne home.

The son was accused of entering the home of Dorothy Magliato, 19, in West Hempstead and pulling off her bed clothes late last Friday night.

He was free at that time in $10,000 bail on charges of rape, assault and burglary.

Roused Her Father

Miss Magliato told police she screamed when the intruder woke her. She said the screams roused her father, Emilio, and the intruder fled through the front door.

Ackley was accused on June 22 of raping Mrs. Leroy Salverson, 26, in her home at Franklin Square, Nassau county, while her baby slept nearby. Her husband, a merchant seaman, was away at sea.

At the time of the June arrest, Ackley was operating three taxicabs. His taxicab license was suspended later.

Ackley, who had a temporary job as a mail truck driver recently, was picked up Saturday in the Magliato case and released after four hours' questioning. Further investigation of the case led to his arrest and booking on the charges last night.

National Worry Extends to Youth; Has No Parallel

By RELMAN MORIN

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—Three times within the past few months a startled nation suddenly has been confronted with some painful facts of life.

The facts were doubly painful because they all involved young people.

First, a series of reports showed that teen-agers and young adults in increasing numbers are regular users of dope. Many of them are now confirmed addicts, possibly beyond cure. To get the money for it, they resort to shop-lifting, burglary, robbery and prostitution. Narcotics officers say the practice exists in small towns as well as big cities, and that it is spreading.

At about the same time, detectives began unravelling a skein of crooked operations on college basketball. Athletes were charged with accepting bribes to control the scores of the games. Starting in New York city, the trail soon led to other basketball centers.

And finally, the story of a broken code of honor at West Point shocked America as nothing comparable has ever done.

In fact, no true parallels exist in American life for any of these phenomena.

Would Hoot at Idea

A narcotics officer would hoot at the suggestion that the gin-and-jazz age of the 'twenties was the equivalent of dope addiction by young people in 1951."

"You didn't find a high school kid pulling stickups to get the money for a bottle of gin" the officer says. "He didn't crave it that much."

A long generation ago, the "Black Sox" scandal saddened the baseball fans of that day. But the participants were older men and professional athletes in the official sense of the word.

Every generation worries about its children.

But today the professionals are worried, too. Those men and women who deal with youngsters in the mass—teachers, clergymen, law enforcement officers, etc.—usually remain fairly detached and serene about recurring crisis in manners and morals. They are deeply concerned now.

Four Danger Sources

Their concern focuses on the conditions in which young people have to live today. They cite four main sources of danger:

1. The parents themselves, and lack of discipline.

2. The fear of another great war, which will mean sudden death for many young people, and a totally uncertain future for all of them.

3. The examples of conduct set forth by persons of prestige in the eyes of youngsters.

4. The impact of more powerful channels of information, driving home these aspects of life more vividly and in greater volume than ever before.

Whether any of these conditions is subject to any remedy or control is a matter of debate. One of them, the possibility of war, apparently cannot be removed, and will haunt young people everywhere for years to come.

An expert probation officer, Miss Doris Clarke of the Magistrate's Court of New York, says:

"I am less disturbed about youngsters than I am about their parents. Too often, the origin of the trouble is right at home."

The experience and opinions of persons who are in daily contact with young people all adds up to the same conclusion:

Youth, as always, is reacting to conditions, and conditions now are not so good.

Mis-Bid Hand Often Has a Purpose

In a rubber bridge game, today's hand would be played at five clubs. North would make that contract easily enough, and the hand would be forgotten a moment later.

The hand was actually dealt, however, in a tournament. North knew that five clubs would not provide as good a tournament score as four spades. Therefore he never even mentioned the clubs but raised the spades at once. Perhaps this was a poor idea, but it certainly turned out well and I hate to quarrel with success.

East's double would be unthinkable in a rubber bridge game. In tournament play, however, cream-puff doubles are often made. At any rate, that the way the bidding went, and all four players were very well-known tournament stars, so it couldn't have been too outlandish.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit on being encouraged by his partner's jack. South ruffed, led a trump to dummy's ace, and returned a low diamond from dummy.

East put up the jack of diamonds, but West overtook with the king in order to lead the eight of clubs. This was a good idea, since East might have the queen of clubs, but as the cards lay it made no difference. South won with the queen of clubs and drew one more round of trumps with the king.

Declarer then abandoned the trumps. Outside of the trumps, East could have nothing better than two red queens and two red jacks. This would not be enough even for a cream-puff double unless East also had four trumps to the queen-ten.

South therefore played for a trump coup. He led to the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond, setting up the rest of dummy's long suit. This left declarer with jack-eight of spades behind East's queen-ten.

South then led a club to dummy's king and proceeded to lead diamonds from dummy. If East ruffed low, South could over-ruff and lead clubs until East was ready to take the queen of trumps. If East ruffed high, South could discard, win any return, and draw the last trump.

East actually chose to discard. South thereupon discarded clubs and was able to lead from the dummy at the 1t2h trick. East could make only his queen of trumps, and South was bound to make his contract.

Lehman Predicts Lost Power Cost To Be 100 Million

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP) — Delay in developing the Niagara river's electric power potential may cost this nation $100,000,000 a year in lost power, Senator Lehman (D.-Lib.-N. Y.) said today.

He presented a statement as the Senate Public Works Committee began consideration of a series of bills to authorize the development.

A treaty last year divided the river's available water supply for power between the United States and Canada. Congress reserves the right to say how this nation's share should be developed.

While the United States delays, Lehman, told the committee, Canada is going ahead with her development. Under the treaty Canada is authorized to use whatever portion of the American share not being used.

When construction is completed on the Canadian side of the river, he continued, Canada will have capacity to use 90,000 cubic feet of water flow per second, compared with her treaty share of 65,000.

"We will be losing power whose value is roughly estimated at almost $100,000,000 per year," Lehman declared.

He asked support of a bill he introduced to provide for development of the project by U. S. Army engineers. The completed project would later be turned over to New York state under an agreement to be negotiated to protect public rights and those of citizens. New York would repay the construction cost.

Also pending before the committee are a measure by Senator Ives (R.-N. Y.) to give the New York State Power Authority permission to proceed directly with construction of the project; and one introduced yesterday by Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) to permit private development. Federal Power Commission approval would be required in either case.

The Fat Policemen

By FRANK TRIPP

Faded away like old soldiers have gone the fat policemen of yesteryear. Along with other familiar curbside objects of the cobblestone pavement days: the wooden Indians in front of cigar stores, the bicycle racks, the hitching posts and horse blocks. The fat policeman was almost as stationary as the rest of these museum items.

Gone are the full-size dapple gray horses that stood outside the old harness shops, so lifelike that nocturnal drunks used to straddle them and yell "giddap." Gone are the lamp posts that supported oil lamps at street corners, useless for illumination; just a string of landlubbers' buoys, barely visible a block away; still a spot in the darkness to plot the night owl's homeward course.

As a boy, out my bedroom window, could be seen tipsy puddlers arguing as to which flicker they should next stagger toward. Oft they'd retrace their steps to the corner from which they just came, or like as not squat on the crosswalk and wait for dawn. One time two of them spent the night on our front porch.

No autos would be coming along, no thumbing rides those days. No prowl cars would appear, for there were no cars. The nearest thing to a prowl car was the wheelbarrow that the cops kept back of the lock-up, in which to wheel prostrate imbibers to their temporary bunks. These lockups, about the size of a tourists' cabin, were all over town. In Winter one of the cop's jobs was to keep a fire in the little gaol of his precinct.

THERE HE LEFT his umbrella—yes sir, cops carried them—his trinkets and his lunch box. There he went to eat and, when he knew the roundsman's whereabouts, to enjoy a restful nap.

The barred door and windows made them objects of awe to the kids of the neighborhood, but to some of the elders they were a welcomed place to sleep off a jag. Often the overnight guests were escorted home by the kindly bluecoat in the morning, rather than taken before the magistrate.

The outskirt policeman's beat was pretty much his own domain. The residents were known to him and he to them. All they had to do was remain reasonably peaceable and they would be entitled to minor strays from the straight and narrow.

Crime wasn't organized then. Before the automobile, criminals couldn't get from place to place so quickly. Police work was mostly local and offenses usually could be pinned on miscreants whose technique and antics were known to the force.

The task was more to pin it on them than to catch them. When strange crooks came to town they were quickly spotted. Today the small city police department must be a miniature replica of those in metropolitan centers. Small town major crime is seldom local any more.

A LINEUP of old-time helmeted cops, with double-breasted coats, almost down to their ankles, resembled Billy Watson's Beef Trust. Gee, I'll have to explain that too. I keep forgetting that we've had a couple of generations since I was on earth the first time.

Billy's Beef Trust was a burlesque troupe of 300-pound, and up, chorus girls; as jolly as they were fat. So were the old cops jolly, friendly and understanding. They had to be; they couldn't run 30 yards, but they were efficient and wise.

All were not fat. An exception was one of the best policemen I ever knew, Captain Patrick Hartigan. Around one midnight he marched six tough hobos into headquarters. He'd caught them single-handed in the railroad yards. "How did you do it?" asked one of his men. "Like I've always told you," said Pat. "I surrounded 'em."

He broke up a poker game that I was in one night. One of the boys insisted we were playing euchre. The captain picked up the deck and said: "Down at the Ancient Order of Hibernians they don't play euchre with 52 cards and two jokers. Now you boys go on home."

The old-time policeman is gone but left a tradition that the best of his successors have perpetuated. It still is easy to find a friendly cop. But you just try to find a lockup, a cigar store Indian or a full-sized image of a horse along a city curb.

WHERE MANPOWER SHORTAGES THREATEN—The Newsmap above shows six critical defense areas where actual or expected manpower shortages threaten to "impede essential activities," according to a survey by the Bureau of Employment Security. Booming aircraft production contributed to the shortage in four cities (indicated by aircraft symbols). Shortage in the Aiken-Augusta area is caused by "tremendous demand" for labor at the new Savannah River atomic plant, while workers are needed in the Davenport-Rock Island-Moline area for the machine industry and government arsenal. The bureau's survey showed a tighter labor supply in two-thirds of the nation's major production centers, resulting from bigger defense hiring and seasonal spurts in construction and agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lawson of Midland, Mich. Miss Ennist attended school in Highland and New Paltz and graduated from New Paltz High School. Pfc. Schautz attended schools in Midland, Mich., and served in the army overseas for a year and a half. He is now stationed at West Point. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Petersen announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to Pfc. Albert Ganzer, U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mrs. Marie Ganzer of Woodside.

Invitations have been issued to the wedding of Miss Elfrieda Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erick A. Olson of Gardiner to Frank S. Milich, son of Mrs. Josephine Milich of Cornwall-on-Hudson, on September 8 in St. Charles' Church, Gardiner.

Wild West Jungle Life

Rocky Mountain House, Alta. (AP)—James McRae's family has plenty of animal life. A lynx scared the children and Mrs. MacRae thinks it may have been looking for her chickens, her two Pomeranian dogs, or perhaps was chasing the monkeys living in the grove since they escaped from a carnival.

Insurance for Horsemen

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Old Dobbin may be a vanishing species in some of the country, but he's responsible for a brand new type of insurance in this western metropolis. There are more horsemen here now than there ever were in the old days of the rootin', tootin', shootin' West, and, consequently, there are more riding mishaps. This community's leading, and most vocal, exponent of horsemanship, Gordon Hale, publisher of a paper for horsemen called "Hoof Prints," decided that what his readers needed was insurance against accidents caused by horses. Old line insurance companies hesitated to write insurance giving medical expense coverage for accidents involving horses. But a local company decided to take the risk. It is now providing $500 coverage at a $4 annual premium.

Hugh Kegler's Bride

Miss Jeanette Marie Ster who became the bride of Hugh Burnham Kegler Saturday morning in Lenox, Mass. (Kanter Photo)

Kegler-Ster Nuptials Are Solemnized In St. Anne's Church, Lenox, Mass.

The marriage of Miss Jeannette Marie Ster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ster, Lenox, Mass., and Hugh Burnham Kegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kegler, 50 Linderman avenue, was solemnized Saturday during an 11 a. m. double ring ceremony in St. Anne's Church, Lenox, Mass. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Gerald McGourty of St. Anne's.

Mrs. William Gregory was organist. She played selections from Bach, Bizet, and Wagner in addition to the traditional marches. Mrs. Alan Page McCorkle of Hurley sang Gound's Ave Maria, and On This Day. The church was decorated with white gladioli, ferns, and candelabra.

Mr. Ster gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a period gown of candellight satin, cut with long sleeves, and a fitted bodice with a Bertha of heirloom rosepoint lace which was worn by three generations of the bride's family. Her full skirt fell to a short train. A coronet of braided satin held her imported illusion veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The bride's honor attendant was Miss Beth DuPrey of Lenox. She was dressed in a gown of embroidered organdy over pale green taffeta, and a matching stole. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemum daisies, and wore a matching coronet of flowers in her hair.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Marion Daniels and Miss Denise Keervan, both of New York. Their gowns were identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemum daisies and ivy, and matching flower coronets in their hair.

Alan Page McCorkle of Hurley was best man. Ushering were Matthew Fitch Hasbrouck, Jr. of Stone Ridge, Charles I. Chapman of Lenox, and Stanley London of Ware, Mass.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for relatives and the bridal party was held at the Eastover Country Club.

On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Kegler will visit Cape Cod. The bride wore a gray-blue tweed suit for traveling, with brown alligator accessories, and a brown orchid corsage. They will make their home on Kill road, Albany.

Mrs. Kegler was graduated from Heite School, Union University School of Nursing, Albany. Mr. Kegler is an alumnus of Kingston High School and St. Lawrence University, Canton, where he was fraternally associated with Phi Sigma Kappa. During World War 2 he served for three years in the U. S. Army Air Force in the Pacific Theatre. He is now in his senior year at Albany Law School.

SLIDE, BABY, SLIDE — If you've ever had to take a baby carriage up and down stairs to give baby a daily stroll, you'll know what prompted the invention of this novel stroller in Stockholm, Sweden. In addition to four regular wheels, the carriage has sled-like runners that take over when the going gets rough. The runners turn a bumpy stairs into one long, smooth glide.

CANCELED WEDDING

Letter this morning says: "What am I to do? As far as I'm concerned my wedding plans are all off. (a) What am I to do with my engagement ring? (b) Ought I pay for the four bridesmaid dresses which have already been made? (c) What is to be done about the wedding gifts so far received, and coming. And (d) the shower gifts which were nice but of unimportant value?"

(A) You return the ring. (b) If they are dresses which can serve no other purpose, then you should certainly pay for them if you can, or at least as much as you can toward them. (c) They all should be returned. (d) They should also be returned.

Daughter's 'Coming Out'

Dear Mrs. Post: We've received an invitation to an "at home" being given to introduce the daughter of the family to "society." We feel quite certain this invitation requires no answer (none is requested) but we wondered what guests are expected to do about sending flowers to the daughter. Do friends ever send her gifts instead?

Answer: Ordinary guests are not expected to send anything, but those who are very intimate friends or relatives send a gift or flowers—not both.

Six Months—Too Late

Dear Mrs. Post: I always thought that a bride was supposed to send out thank-you notes for her wedding gifts as soon as possible. Naturally the late-arriving gifts might have to be thanked for after the wedding trip but that was the limit of leeway. My cousin insists that it is now perfectly acceptable for her to send these notes any time within six months. I'd appreciate your views.

Answer: You send them as soon as you possibly can. Six months would be an unthinkably long time.

Showers of various kinds need not be expensive, and they are a friendly custom. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Beaver for Elizabeth

Winnipeg (AP)—The ancient and lawful tribute paid to reigning monarchs and heirs to the British throne by the Hudson's Bay Co. will likely be claimed by Princess Elizabeth when she passes through Winnepeg on her Canadian tour. Under the terms of the Hudson's Bay charter, granted by King Charles II in 1670, it was ordered that the company pay as tribute to his heirs and successors two black beaver skins and two elk heads. The tribute was to be rendered, according to the charter, "whensoever the reigning sovereign should enter into his territory of Rupert's land of which - - (the) company was created true and absolute lords and proprietors, subject to the paramount seigniory of his majesty."

crease would "result from giving each man five annual increments instead of three as now," the report said.

Martocci said he had occasion to learn recently that salaries in other comparable cities in the state ranged between $3,700 and $3,800 for young patrolmen and up to $4,200 for others "with increases guaranteed in 1952. He also said that one local law granted a salary increase of "over 50 per cent to the local mayor and 80 per cent to the corporation counsel," as well as other raises to various city officials and to the councilmen.

The majority report which was read first was signed by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee, Alderman Paul J. Schatzel, and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly. The minority report was signed by Alderman James J. Carroll.

Requests Vote

Alderman Carroll, the first to speak after Deputy City Clerk Harry Seitz read the majority report said, "I understand that both the mayor and the corporation counsel have signed this petition." He asked that the council vote to put the question before the people.

Alderman Joseph N. Bruck, countered on the point that the committee report was more concerned with the question of a plan for raising the money than with signatures, and Carroll contended that they apparently must have thought it legal when they signed it.

Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly then advised that Attorney Martocci be allowed the privilege of the floor before the minority report was read and the council proceeded on the vote.

Alderman Robert C. Cullum, was the only other alderman to speak before voting. He said, "I am interested in a raise in salary for every employe of the city, but as everyone knows, the corporation counsel is the city's only legal advisor. I feel that I must concur with his opinion and with that of the Laws and Rules Committee. I vote yes."

Some signatures on the second petition have already been obtained in anticipation of last night's Common Council action.

The majority report:

Report of Committee

The Honorable Common Council
City Hall,
Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Petitions have been filed with the Common Council for a referendum with respect to police and fire salaries on Election Day this year. We are asked to take affirmative steps to insure submission of a vote on the referendum on Election Day.

While the only issue at the present time is whether the proposed local law contains a plan to raise the necessary moneys, it is because of some of the things that have occurred we wish to point out some of the back-ground of the problem. Press releases of the representatives of the police and fire groups have stated that they were forced to take action because the fire and police boards would "do nothing." They did come before these boards in recent months even though January is the time of budget making and establishing salaries for a year and demanded a $1,000 increase per man over the amounts established in previous local laws. We are informed that it was a take it or leave it and suffer the consequences attitude and that nothing less than a mandatory $1,000 increase per man would be acceptable. The ultimate issue then is not whether there should be some salary adjustment but whether the very specific and very definite increase of $1,000 per man over existing local laws should be adopted.

A previous referendum in 1947 established police salaries and another referendum in 1948 established fire salaries in minimum amounts. The proposed referendum would establish new minimums which are $1,000 more than the minimum under existing local law. Part of the increase will result from giving each man five annual increments instead of three as now.

There are 49 members of the Fire Department and 39 members of the Police Department so that the mandatory increase would result in an expenditure of $88,000 more than required by existing local law. The vast majority of employees of these departments are firemen and policemen who now are guaranteed $2,950 after three years service and who will receive $3,950 after five years service. This represents a 33 1/3% pay raise.

In addition, the 1951 Budget of the City of Kingston contains an item of $77,814 which the city must pay the state pension system for its share of the pension cost of city employees. $40,000 of this sum is for the police and fire departments. This total will be greatly increased by the referendum and will also necessitate the raising of additional funds.

By adding the pension cost to the mandatory $1,000 per man raises, we find that the cost of the proposed increases would be more than $100,000.

We wish to point out, however, that on January 1, 1951, the mayor of the City of Kingston proposed to the Common Council that all City employes receive a $240 cost of living bonus in 1951. The Common Council adopted that recommendation in its 1951 Budget and appropriated $56,625.05 so that every city employee, including police and firemen, are receiving a $240 cost of living bonus this year. No one should complain that all city employes received the same equal treatment. The cost of the bonus for police and firemen is $21,120. If the cost of living bonus be deducted from the new salaries sought to be established, the increase would be $66,880 for salaries. This is quite a distinction, however, between the flexible cost of living bonus and a mandatory freeze to apply in good times and poor times and forever.

The proposed local law becomes effective November 7, 1951, the day after election. It provides that moneys needed for the balance of 1951 be borrowed and included in the 1952 budget. It further provides that the money needed for the increases in the future "shall be raised by the Common Council from those sources and through the manner by which the Common Council is authorized by law and the Charter of the City of Kingston to raise money for salaries, governmental functions and purposes."

The legislature of the State of New York this year adopted a new law effective April 11, 1951, which provided:

"No such local law requiring the expenditure of money shall be accepted by the City Clerk or adopted or become effective unless there shall be submitted as a part of such proposed local law, a plan to provide moneys and revenues to meet such proposed expenditures."

The Corporation Counsel of the City of Kingston has submitted an opinion in which he concludes that the proposed law does not contain a plan to provide the moneys and revenues to meet such proposed expenditures. The attorney for the firemen and policemen says that a plan is set forth and anything more definite would usurp the powers of the Common Council.

In our opinion, the proposed local law does not contain a plan to raise the necessary moneys but dumps that problem into the lap of the Common Council. If the proposed local law contains a plan, the new statute saying that a plan is a necessary part of the proposed law is meaningless. Only the courts can finally determine whether the proposed local law contains a plan.

We are asked to disregard the opinion of the Corporation Counsel and one of the reasons advanced is because some of the Aldermen and the Corporation Counsel signed the petition. The signing of the petition was an act starting the machinery of a referendum. By signing it members of the Common Council did not forfeit their right to act one way or the other on a question of illegality. And merely because the Corporation Counsel signed it before he studied the question in the light of the new amendment to the law does not render his opinion null and void.

The new statute says no proposed local law shall become effective unless it contains a plan. Any taxpayer could bring an action to annul the new local law on the grounds no plan is included. We should not facilitate the enactment of legislation of questionable legality.

We therefore recommend that the Common Council take no steps to facilitate a vote on a local law that does not seem to comply with the law.

The Minority Report

There has been presented to the Common Council a petition signed by approximately 4,000 persons of the City of Kingston asking this body to place on the ballot a referendum with respect to an increase in salaries for the police and firemen of this city so as to raise their salaries to conform with those of other cities of like size and to give them a living wage; and

It appearing that the said police and firemen are underpaid when their salaries are considered in connection with those public servants in other cities; and

It being my belief that the taxpayers and voters of this city should be given every opportunity to decide the policies of the city government.

It is recommended that the following resolution be adopted:

"Be it resolved that the City Clerk transmit the proposed local law, as set forth in the petition by the police and firemen with the City Clerk, to the Board of Elections in the form required by law for submission to the voters on Election Day, November 6, 1951."

JAMES J. CARROLL.

Martocci Speaks

Martocci said he spoke to "dispel some of the confusion" resulting of efforts "to throw a cloud in the minds of you aldermen this evening, and I want to give the background of what the firemen and policemen have been up against since the beginning of the year."

"First of all, this referendum has not been undertaken without the serious consideration by the policemen and firemen. They went to the mayor and took up the seriousness of their financial problem. They believed at the time that the mayor sincerely felt that they should have some salary increases, and it was suggested that the matter be taken before the finance committee of the Common Council.

"They did take it up with the finance committee and when the meeting broke up they were promised that a report would be given within 30 days. Time went by, however, and no report was heard by either the firemen or policemen. Having exhausted this means, they met with the mayor as president of the board of police commissioners and the members of that board. I attended that meeting at which the discussion lasted from two and a half to three hours, and we were informed that they would take it under advisement."

The method was similar with the board of fire commissioners "who likewise told us that it would be taken under advisement," he said.

"At no time," he declared, "was there any proposal or counter proposal, and at no time was there any proposal from any board, any committee or from the mayor himself. So faced with today's financial conditions, like ourselves, they decided upon an effort for a referendum."

Touching upon the contention that any salary increase would be mandatory and "go on forever," Martocci said that a local law had granted the mayor an increase of over 50 per cent, and of more than 80 per cent for the corporation counsel, and other increases for other city officials including the aldermen.

"If you men felt that these others were entitled to such raises, how can you now say that the policemen and firemen who receive from $2,450 to $2,950, can live on that." The city, he stressed, was probably the second or third lowest in the state in wages for policemen and firemen.

Says They're Desperate

The local firemen and policemen "are desperate," he said "and they are ignored," so they feel "that the only thing available is for them to appeal to the fair-mindedness of the people of the City of Kingston.

The local uniformed men, he said, have spent money in preparation to make the bid for the referendum. This was not done ill-advisedly, he said, but was the result of study and the petition was prepared.

"Maybe you do not like it," he said, because they are dumping the proposal in your lap, but if they are turned down, who can we turn to but the people of Kingston and that is what we intend to do." The mayor and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Thomas Plunket, Democratic county chairman, the corporation counsel, Ray McAndrew, Democratic candidate for mayor, Vincent Connelly and "many sitting here tonight," he said, have signed the petition. He named some of the aldermen.

Those, who signed, he argued, "said in effect that these men are entitled to the money they seek, but now we are told that the petition is illegal because of a plan. I say to you men here tonight, if you are sincere as persons who have signed the petition, there is absolutely nothing to prevent you from acting favorably on this legislation."

Touching upon the question of legality of the firemen's petition for a raise in 1948, he said it was "very interesting to note," that nothing was heard from the corporation counsel at that time.

Contending that the firemen and policemen now had a plan, he said it calls for the council to raise and appropriate the money and it says the money shall be raised by such "lawful means," as the council may deam necessary.

The council, by rejecting the petition, he said, makes it necessary to obtain additional signatures, and also makes it necessary to litigate another petition. They should never be forced to do this, he said, because more than 4,000 people have already signed a petition indicating what they wished done.

Suggests Action

If there should be a question of legality of plan, or any other after favorable council action, he said, let an action then be brought, and let the policemen and firemen be represented by the city's corporation counsel.

The question, he said was not "a political issue," but was one to determine if these men are "morally and basically right. It is up to you to find ways and means to determine this for them." He contended that a referendum would not be necessary if the council saw fit to act on its own in behalf of salary increases.

Martocci closed with a quotation from former President Calvin Coolidge, which said it is a great American duty which a police officer has. Having chosen it he is obliged to live up to duty and a high standard which he must hold at all peril. It is a great and honorable position, he said, but it is a corresponding duty of the state and the people to see that he is well considered.

Short Style Story for Autumn

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—The dinner-to-dancing dress is notably short in most of the Fall collections. Thereare long evening gowns for really fancy occasions but many of these are done in a mood of slinky elegance that's a flashback to the sinuous Thirties.

The taffeta, the satin, the nylon net, the ottoman that make up these short evening frocks are cut, for the most part, with very full skirts and cuffed tops or wide necklines. The skirts sometimes are stiffened by means of a lining; sometimes given crinoline petticoats. The effect is bell-like; the skirts swish and sway as the wearer walks.

Colors are pale for these short gowns. Designer Hannah Troy calls them "water pastels." These are the new pale pinks, ice blues and champagne-color yarn-dye dresses, done in dull satin. Nylon nets, in gay or taupe, appear in this designer's collection. They are given glittering touches in smocking, in skirt or hip decorations, by means of bugle beads, iridescent sequins, rhinestones and pearls.

Gray nylon net, cut by Hannah Troy into a short evening frock (left), has a very full, stiffened skirt. Bodice has the uncollared look with a high neckline that ties in a bow of self-cording. A jeweled effect, worked over the bodice, is done with gray braid embroidered in pearls, rhinestones, bugle beads and sequins. The jeweling is eased off on the skirt by means of a rayed design.

Another after-five dress from this same collection is periwinkle blue taffeta (right) with a crisp cuff framing the face in portrait effect. The cuff, lightly draped about the shoulders, swerves down through the bodice into a full, stiffened wraparound skirt that buttons.

New Law Is Given

April, and every alderman has had ample time to study it.

John Buboltz, Fourth Ward Alderman, said; "What we want to do is to protect the city and also the people of the city." He felt that the proposal needed more study, particularly on the time element involved in the "written notice" provision.

The committee report recommended adoption of the local law, "which requires that the city be given written notice of any alleged and unsafe condition," and that the city be permitted "a reasonable opportunity to correct such a condition."

Notice Is Filed

Prior to the incident or occurrence from which the claim arises, the report said, a written notice shall have been filed, and it must be proved that there was a failure on the part of the city to remedy a condition after the filing of such notice. A claim must be filed within 90 days after such incident.

Final action to make $16,500 available for two sewer projects was taken by the aldermen following reports by the finance and laws and rules committee. A bond anticipation note resolution was adopted pending sale of serial bonds, which were previously authorized. The sum of $15,000 is for a sewer on the Singer-Greene developement on West Chestnut street and the $1,500 is for a sewer on Ponckhockie street from Walnut street to 52 Ponckhockie street.

Forest Fires Rage In Pacific States

(By The Associated Press)

More than 75 fires, many of them major ones, crackled through timber and brush lands of the Pacific coast states today.

California reported 25,000 acres blackened since fires broke out over the weekend. In the Klamath National Forest two fires were burning over 3,200 acres. Forty-five smaller blazes were reported.

To the north in Oregon, some 10,000 acres were charred by a single fire. That was in the Vincent creek area between Eugene and Coos Bay. The flames have been out of control since Friday.

The Federal Forest Service assembled smoke jumpers to be dropped into the inaccessible regions.

Farther north near Seattle, Wash., flames which threatened the little community of Newhalem in Watcom county were halted by 300 firefighters. An estimated 2,000 acres were burned.

South of there in Skagit county a blaze which Washington State Forester L. T. Webster said was the worst in the state, had raced over 1,800 to 2,000 acres. Smoke from it could be seen 100 miles away.

Oregon and Washington have been without appreciable rain for three months. Forests in the western sections are tinder dry and present a constant fire threat.

Humidity fell to 10 per cent in some of the wooded areas yesterday. All logging operations in both states have been halted.

Health for All

ALLERGIES

Traditionally, for some people this season is associated with watery eyes and nose, nostril-tickling sneezes, and congested breathing. The common name for their illness is hay fever, an allergy (unusual sensitivity to substances ordinarily harmless to others) due to the ragweed pollen. However, these same symptoms characterize numerous other allergies that trouble people year around. Allergies not only frequently produce disturbances in the respiratory organs, but also in the digestive system or the skin.

Of the total field of known allergies, the most common are hay fever, asthma, stomach and intestinal disorders, eczema, hives, and other skin irritations. Exhaustive tests are often necessary to discover a person's particular allergy. Specialists do not believe that allergies are hereditary, but that a person can inherit a tendency toward them.

The substances that produce allergies are called alergens. When they enter the body either by swallowing, inhaling, external contact, or by injection (drugs, serum), they produce an irritation in susceptible tissues, causing the blood vessels, to dilate and the tissues, which they supply, to swell. Typical allergens are:

Pollen; house dust; strong fumes; tiny particles of skin; hair or feathers shed by dogs, fowl, or other animals.

Various foods — eggs, milk, wheat, nuts, fish, seafood; drugs; serums; fungi; dyes, perfumes, plastics and numerous other chemicals used in home and industry.

Bacteria in a person's body; insect bites or stings (bees or wasps); heat, cold, or sunlight.

If the allergens can be identified and removed from the patient's diet or surroundings, an immediate cure may follow. Some allergens, however, cannot be avoided. In such instances, it may be possible to build up the patient's resistance by repeated injections. New drugs (including the antihistamines) are often very helpful. Increased rest and relaxation are sometimes needed and the emotions, too, are often a contributory influence.

People with allergic tendencies should observe a few important "don'ts." They should not expose themselves to drafts and cold air. They should avoid dust, strong fumes, and frequent contact with drugs, cosmetics, plants, and similar items. On the positive side, they should consult a physician. Frequently, a doctor can cure an allergy and, in most cases, he can give welcome relief.

To Pick 4-H Boys For State Fair Tractor Contest

Tractor operation contest finals will be run at Accord on Sunday afternoon to select two county 4-H boys to participate in the State Fair at Syracuse in September.

Those eligible for the finals are the winners of the contest held at the Ulster County Fair last Thursday. They are: John Bowman, Walter Ellsworth, Edward Nelson, Roger Roosa, Oliver Mackay, Donald Pratt also qualified during the trial heats, but is not old enough to compete in the State Fair this year.

The finals had to be scheduled for Sunday afternoon because a large number of entries made it impossible to complete the competition during the allotted time during the Ulster County Fair. A total of 31 persons entered the tractor operation contest, which was started on a small scale last year and has already become one of the most popular events at the fair. Jacob DeWitt was in charge of the contest.

The method was similar with the board of fire commissioners "who likewise told us that it would be taken under advisement," he said.

"At no time," he declared, "was there any proposal or counter proposal, and at no time was there any proposal from any board, any committee or from the mayor himself. So faced with today's financial conditions, like ourselves, they decided upon an effort for a referendum."

Touching upon the contention that any salary increase would be mandatory and "go on forever," Martocci said that a local law had granted the mayor an increase of over 50 per cent, and of more than 80 per cent for the corporation counsel, and other increases for other city officials including the aldermen.

"If you men felt that these others were entitled to such raises, how can you now say that the policemen and firemen who receive from $2,450 to $2,950, can live on that." The city, he stressed, was probably the second or third lowest in the state in wages for policemen and firemen.

Says They're Desperate

The local firemen and policemen "are desperate," he said "and they are ignored," so they feel "that the only thing available is for them to appeal to the fair-mindedness of the people of the people of the City of Kingston.

The local uniformed men, he said, have spent money in preparation to make the bid for the referendum. This was not done ill-advisedly, he said, but was the result of study and the petition was prepared.

"Maybe you do not like it," he said, because they are dumping the proposal in your lap, but if they are turned down, who can we turn to but the people of Kingston and that is what we intend to do." The mayor and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Thomas Plunket, Democratic county chairman, the corporation counsel, Ray McAndrew, Democratic candidate for mayor, Vincent Connelly and "many sitting here tonight," he said, have signed the petition. He named some of the aldermen.

Those, who signed, he argued, "said in effect that these men are entitled to the money they seek, but now we are told that the petition is illegal because of a plan. I say to you men here tonight, if you are sincere as persons who have signed the petition, there is absolutely nothing to prevent you from acting favorably on this legislation."

Touching upon the question of legality of the firemen's petition for a raise in 1948, he said it was "very interesting to note," that nothing was heard from the corporation counsel at that time.

Contending that the firemen and policemen now had a plan, he said it calls for the council to raise and appropriate the money and it says the money shall be raised by such "lawful means," as the council may deam necessary.

The council, by rejecting the petition, he said, makes it necessary to obtain additional signatures, and also makes it necessary to litigate another petition. They should never be forced to do this, he said, because more than 4,000 people have already signed a petition indicating what they wished done.

Suggests Action

If there should be a question of legality of plan, or any other after favorable council action, he said, let an action then be brought, and let the policemen and firemen be represented by the city's corporation counsel.

The question, he said was not "a political issue," but was one to determine if these men are "morally and basically right. It is up to you to find ways and means to determine this for them." He contended that a referendum would not be necessary if the council saw fit to act on its own in behalf of salary increases.

Martocci closed with a quotation from former President Calvin Coolidge, which said it is a great American duty which a police officer has. Having chosen it he is obliged to live up to duty and a high standard which he must hold at all peril. It is a great and honorable position, he said, but it is a corresponding duty of the state and the people to see that he is well considered.

Short Style Story for Autumn

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—The dinner-to-dancing dress is notably short in most of the Fall collections. Thereare long evening gowns for really fancy occasions but many of these are done in a mood of slinky elegance that's a flashback to the sinuous Thirties.

The taffeta, the satin, the nylon net, the ottoman that make up these short evening frocks are cut, for the most part, with very full skirts and cuffed tops or wide necklines. The skirts sometimes are stiffened by means of a lining; sometimes given crinoline petticoats. The effect is bell-like; the skirts swish and sway as the wearer walks.

Colors are pale for these short gowns. Designer Hannah Troy calls them "water pastels." These are the new pale pinks, ice blues and champagne-color yarn-dye dresses, done in dull satin. Nylon nets, in gay or taupe, appear in this designer's collection. They are given glittering touches in smocking, in skirt or hip decorations, by means of bugle beads, iridescent sequins, rhinestones and pearls.

Gray nylon net, cut by Hannah Troy into a short evening frock (left), has a very full, stiffened skirt. Bodice has the uncollared look with a high neckline that ties in a bow of self-cording. A jeweled effect, worked over the bodice, is done with gray braid embroidered in pearls, rhinestones, bugle beads and sequins. The jeweling is eased off on the skirt by means of a rayed design.

Another after-five dress from this same collection is periwinkle blue taffeta (right) with a crisp cuff framing the face in portrait effect. The cuff, lightly draped about the shoulders, swerves down through the bodice into a full, stiffened wraparound skirt that buttons.

New Law Is Given

April, and every alderman has had ample time to study it.

John Buboltz, Fourth Ward Alderman, said; "What we want to do is to protect the city and also the people of the city." He felt that the proposal needed more study, particularily on the time element involved in the "written notice" provision.

The committee report recommended adoption of the local law, "which requires that the city be given written notice of any alleged and unsafe condition," and that the city be permitted "a reasonable opportunity to correct such a condition."

Notice Is Filed

Prior to the incident or occurrence from which the claim arises, the report said, a written notice shall have been filed, and it must be proved that there was a failure on the part of the city to remedy a condition after the filing of such notice. A claim must be filed within 90 days after such incident.

Final action to make $16,500 available for two sewer projects was taken by the aldermen following reports by the finance and laws and rules committee. A bond anticipation note resolution was adopted pending sale of serial bonds, which were previously authorized. The sum of $15,000 is for a sewer on the Singer-Greene developement on West Chestnut street and the $1,500 is for a sewer on Ponckhockie street from Walnut street to 52 Ponckhockie street.

Forest Fires Rage In Pacific States

(By The Associated Press)

More than 75 fires, many of them major ones, crackled through timber and brush lands of the Pacific coast states today.

California reported 25,000 acres blackened since fires broke out over the weekend. In the Klamath National Forest two fires were burning over 3,200 acres. Forty-five smaller blazes were reported.

To the north in Oregon, some 10,000 acres were charred by a single fire. That was in the Vincent creek area between Eugene and Coos Bay. The flames have been out of control since Friday.

The Federal Forest Service assembled smoke jumpers to be dropped into the inaccessible regions.

Farther north near Seattle, Wash., flames which threatened the little community of Newhalem in Watcom county were halted by 300 firefighters. An estimated 2,000 acres were burned.

South of there in Skagit county a blaze which Washington State Forester L. T. Webster said was the worst in the state, had raced over 1,800 to 2,000 acres. Smoke from it could be seen 100 miles away.

Oregon and Washington have been without appreciable rain for three months. Forests in the western sections are tinder dry and present a constant fire threat.

Humidity fell to 10 per cent in some of the wooded areas yesterday. All logging operations in both states have been halted.

ALLERGIES

Traditionally, for some people this season is associated with watery eyes and nose, nostril-tickling sneezes, and congested breathing. The common name for their illness is hay fever, an allergy (unusual sensitivity to substances ordinarily harmless to others) due to the ragweed pollen. However, these same symptoms characterize numerous other allergies that trouble people year around. Allergies not only frequently produce disturbances in the respiratory organs, but also in the digestive system or the skin.

Of the total field of known allergies, the most common are hay fever, asthma, stomach and intestinal disorders, eczema, hives, and other skin irritations. Exhaustive tests are often necessary to discover a person's particular allergy. Specialists do not believe that allergies are hereditary, but that a person can inherit a tendency toward them.

The substances that produce allergies are called alergens. When they enter the body either by swallowing, inhaling, external contact, or by injection (drugs, serum), they produce an irritation in susceptible tissues, causing the blood vessels, to dilate and the tissues, which they supply, to swell. Typical allergens are:

Pollen; house dust; strong fumes; tiny particles of skin; hair or feathers shed by dogs, fowl, or other animals.

Various foods — eggs, milk, wheat, nuts, fish, seafood; drugs; serums; fungi; dyes, perfumes, plastics and numerous other chemicals used in home and industry.

Bacteria in a person's body; insect bites or stings (bees or wasps); heat, cold, or sunlight.

If the allergens can be identified and removed from the patient's diet or surroundings, an immediate cure may follow. Some allergens, however, cannot be avoided. In such instances, it may be possible to build up the patient's resistance by repeated injections. New drugs (including the antihistamines) are often very helpful. Increased rest and relaxation are sometimes needed and the emotions, too, are often a contributory influence.

People with allergic tendencies should observe a few important "don'ts." They should not expose themselves to drafts and cold air. They should avoid dust, strong fumes, and frequent contact with drugs, cosmetics, plants, and similar items. On the positive side, they should consult a physician. Frequently, a doctor can cure an allergy and, in most cases, he can give welcome relief.

To Pick 4-H Boys For State Fair Tractor Contest

Tractor operation contest finals will be run at Accord on Sunday afternoon to select two county 4-H boys to participate in the State Fair at Syracuse in September.

Those eligible for the finals are the winners of the contest held at the Ulster County Fair last Thursday. They are: John Bowman, Walter Ellsworth, Edward Nelson, Roger Roosa, Oliver Mackay. Donald Pratt also qualified during the trial heats, but is not old enough to compete in the State Fair this year.

The finals had to be scheduled for Sunday afternoon because a large number of entries made it impossible to complete the competition during the allotted time during the Ulster County Fair. A total of 31 persons entered the tractor operation contest, which was started on a small scale last year and has already become one of the most popular events at the fair. Jacob DeWitt was in charge of the contest.

Kingston Baseball, Inc. Announces Resignation of President Ertel

No Successor Named; Popick Raps Action; Harry Edson Posts $1,000

Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., operators of the local Canadian-American League franchise today announced the resignation of President J. K. Ertel under circumstances that would indicate a tremendous internal upheaval in the Class C organization.

A KBC spokesman said Ertel telephoned his resignation to the club's business manager—Warren Smith—on Sunday, after members of the club's Board of Directors had spent a day of futility trying to contact the club president.

(Ertel was reported at a local golf club, but could not be reached by telephone, the KBC spokesman said).

Popick charged Ertel with "deserting the ship" the club was confronted with its worst financial crisis of the season.

"I speak only for myself as a club director," Popick told a Freeman reporter last night, "but I will fight any move to have Ertel restored to the presidency. He deserted the ship when we needed him most."

Others Critical

Other KBC directors and officials were bitter and outspoken in their criticism of Ertel's abrupt action, but declined to make a statement for publication.

"Our committee gathered in Warren Smith's office for several hours Saturday trying to contact our president, but we could learn nothing beyond the fact that he was at a local golf club," Popick continued. "We finally made contact with him on Sunday and he telephoned his resignation to Warren Smith Sunday afternoon.

Popick admitted that KBC was confronted with a grave financial crisis on Sunday, because the August 15 payroll was overdue and the players were demanding their salaries before the scheduled game with Oneonta that night.

Edson Posts $1,000

An interesting sidelight was furnished to the stormy controversy by the posting of $1,000 in cash by Harry L. Edson to the Colonial account in order that checks could be written for the player salaries.

A Freeman reporter saw a copy of a letter addressed to the club president by Edson, who does most of the paper work for KBC, Inc., in which Edson appealed to Ertel as "a man of wealth compared to my modest means" to make available the necessary cash to keep the ball club going.

In his letter to Ertel, Edson stated that "you were given several opportunities to resign as president in the past, but you refused to do so."

The letter also suggested that Ertel complete his term and see the season through.

Edson wrote Ertel that he had $1,000 set aside in a fund "for such a time as I might need it during an illness," but that he was willing to sacrifice it, if necessary, to save the ball club.

Refused to Write Checks

Edson had earlier refused to write any checks until there were sufficient funds in the Colonial account to cover payment in full.

The letter also pointed out that Edson was willing to put up all the cash he possessed to insure the semi-monthly payment and the completion of the 1951 schedule for the Colonials.

Edson's $1,000 check was transferred to the Colonial account and the players drew their salaries.

To Be Reimbursed

Popick further stated that KBC directors and officials had agreed that Edson would be reimbursed his 1,000 at the earliest possible date. The club has a large promotion scheduled for Saturday at which time a car will be given away.

Although Ertel had submitted his telephone resignation that afternoon, he was seen among the spectators at municipal stadium. Later that night was observed in heated controversy with Addison Jones, general manager of the team. What developed in the Jones-Ertel confab could not be learned and the general manager declined comment later that night.

At the moment, KBC is without a president but club officials said a meeting would be called in the near future to select a successor to Ertel. Meanwhile, general manager Addison Jones will function as the head of the organization.

Lose to Oneonta

Meanwhile, the club dropped its second straight to Oneonta, 9 to 3, last night at the stadium.

A shaky first inning by a patchwork lineup and a streak of wildness by starter Charlie Ayers sent the league leaders ahead, 5 to 2, at the end of three innings and they were never headed.

With Nick Marino in Poughkeepsie for his usual Monday training with the Naval Reserve and Dennis Healey called home because of illness in the family, the Colonials had DiFresco at short; Big Sam Piacentino at first and Gene Zubrinski at third. Rick Ostrander took over in right field.

Johnny Minarcin pounded a single, double and homer for the winners. Gene Zubrinski had three singles for the locals.

The Colonials are scheduled in Amsterdam tonight and Wednesday, returning to the stadium Thursday for an uninterrupted six-night stand. The Rome Colonels will be met in a twi-night doubleheader on Thursday evening. This will be Uptown Business Men's Night.

PUTTER WAS STILL HOT

George Hughes, of Twaalfskill, who went on to win the Father Herdegen Memorial golf tournament with a two-under 208 for 54 holes, had a smoking hot putter in his final round when he equalled the Woodstock Country Club course record for an amateur with a 63. He is shown dropping a birdie-3 on the No. 8 hole the first time around. (Freeman Photo).

White Plains Wins In Legion Tourney

Torrington, Conn., Aug. 21 (AP)—A White Plains, N. Y. team eliminated Bristol, Conn., 5-2, here last night in the American Legion junior baseball tournament for Region 2.

Bristol led 2-0 at the end of the second inning, but White Plains exploded with four runs in the top of the third to cinch the game and send Ed Gaski, Bristol's starting pitcher, to the showers. Four hits, including a triple by Ed Janecek and doubles by Sam Alston and Grover Jones, were coupled with a Bristol error to produce the four runs.

White Plains will meet Pennsauken, N. J. tonight in the double elimination tournament. Pennsauken, undefeated, holds one victory over White Plains, and another would give the New Jersey team the right to represent the region in the sectional tournament at Washington August 27th. If White Plains wins tonight another game will be played to decide the regional representative.

Sure enough, before the season is well underway Mitchell is the regular left fielder.

There was some doubt this year if Mitchell would come through again. He got off to a horrible start after all aspirants for his berth failed, but he finally started to click, and so did the Indians.

Mitchell reached the .300 mark in batting last night as the Indians opened a crucial 18-game home stand by defeating the Washington Senators, 5-3.

The triumph, a 43rd birthday present for Manager Al Lopez, enabled the Tribe to pull one game ahead of the runnerup New York Yankees, who divided a twi-night doubleheader with the Tigers in Detroit. The Tigers won the opener, 6-3, but the Yanks grabbed the second, 12-5.

Mitchell opened the Indians half of the first inning with his ninth homer, only two shy of his output in four previous complete big league seasons. Before the inning ended, Al Rosen boomed his 22nd second homer with a mate on and the Indians never were headed. Home runs by Bob Avila in the third and Harry Simpson in the sixth accounted for the other Cleveland runs.

Garcia Wins 17th

Husky Mike Garcia scattered 12 Washington hits in posting his 17th victory of the year compared to eight losses. Mickey Vernon, with a double and three singles, and Ed Yost, with a home run, featured Washington's attack.

Virgil Trucks, with help from Dizzy Trout, stopped the Yanks in the opener at Detroit. Trucks, leading, 4-0, yeft in the eighth when the Yanks tallied twice. The Tigers came back with two in their half to clinch the decision.

Jerry Priddy and Pat Mullin paced the Tigers' 11-hit attack against Lefty Ed Lopat. Priddy drove in three runs on a triple, double and single. Mullin contributed his 11th homer.

The Yanks tucked the nightcap away with an eight-run explosion in the eighth inning on five hits, three walks, an error and fly ball. Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra drove in three runs apiece. Berra homered in the ninth inning of each game to boost his home run output to 20.

Giants Trounce Red Sox, 12-2; Hoffman Clouts Seventh Homer

The second half of the Little League is developing into a donnybrook with all four teams involved in a knock-down battle for first place.

Red Sox were riding along serenely, with four wins and one defeat until they bumped into the power-laden Giants yesterday. But it wasn't their day, as the Giants proved by socking 14 hits, including Joe Hoffman's seventh of the season, for an easy 12-2 victory.

Meanwhile, Tony Amato, the boy balladeer and Timmie Fisher combined to check the Red Sox with only one safety—an infield single by Ronnie Ferraro in the third inning when the Sox scored twice.

George Norton rapped a double and two singles for the Giants. Pete Blanschan, Hoffman and John Schoonmaker pounded two hits each, Blanschan and Pete Esposito hitting doubles.

Amato in Streak

Amato's hitless stint for five innings yesterday gave him a string of 11 innings in which he had permitted only four safeties. He shut out the Yankees with two hits last week.

In the Giants' big fifth, Don Juhl singled and Pete Esposito was safe on an error by Ferraro. Amato forced Juhl at third base but Pete Blanschan blasted a ground rule double through the fence in center field. Then came successive singles by Hoffman, Schoonmaker and Norton.

Hoffman's second inning homer was described as one of the longest of the season. It came on the heels of Esposito's walk and Pete Blanschan's single and soared well beyond the snow fence in left center field.

Champs Trip Subways In Shaughnessy, 8-4

Beichert's Pound Two Hurlers

The regular season champions—Beichert's Studebakers—drew first blood in the post-season City Softball League Shaughnessy playoff, with an 8 to 4 triumph over Subway Grill, yesterday at Block Park.

Don Weeks scattered eight Subway safeties and was in trouble only in the sixth when Subways scored three times after five scoreless frames.

Led by Bob Graves, Beichert's scored at least one run in five of the seven innings and were ahead 8-0 when the Grills descended on Weeks for three runs. Joe Woods pounded a homer for the winners.

Graves pounded a double and two singles for a lion's share of Beichert's 11-hit total. Danny Basch rapped two singles and everybody except Sonny Woods collected at least one safety.

Tommy Maines had two of the eight Subway safeties—both singles.

Weeks issued two walks and fanned one. The Subways loaded the bases on him and scored one run in the seventh but he tightened up and retired the next two batters without further damage. Tom Spada was the starting and losing hurler for the Grills.

Port Ewen Wins

Port Ewen defeated the All Stars, 9 to 0, behind the two-hit pitching of Don Ferraro. The winners collected 17 hits off A. Spino and J. Fisher, including a homer by Glenn Brown and Van Bramer's three singles. Tyrrel accounted for both All Star safeties.

Mat Show Postponed

The scheduled wrestling return bout between Ivan Gorky and Sailor Bob Riker has been postponed from Saturday, August 25, until September 2, Promoter Bill Johnston announced today.

Kingston Baseball, Inc. Announces Resignation of President Ertel

No Successor Named; Popick Raps Action; Harry Edson Posts $1,000

Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., operators of the local Canadian-American League franchise today announced the resignation of President J. K. Ertel under circumstances that would indicate a tremendous internal upheaval in the Class C organization.

A KBC spokesman said Ertel telephoned his resignation to the club's business manager—Warren Smith—on Sunday, after members of the club's Board of Directors had spent a day of futility trying to contact the club president.

(Ertel was reported at a local golf club, but could not be reached by telephone, the KBC spokesman said).

Ertel's resignation drew a sharp and caustic blast from David Popick, a club director who was chairman of the pre-season finance campaign.

Popick charged Ertel with "deserting the ship" the club was confronted with its worst financial crisis of the season.

"I speak only for myself as a club director," Popick told a Freeman reporter last night, "but I will fight any move to have Ertel restored to the presidency. He deserted the ship when we needed him most."

Others Critical

Other KBC directors and officials were bitter and outspoken in their criticism of Ertel's abrupt action, but declined to make a statement for publication.

"Our committee gathered in Warren Smith's office for several hours Saturday trying to contact our president, but we could learn nothing beyond the fact that he was at a local golf club," Popick continued. "We finally made contact with him on Sunday and he telephoned his resignation to Warren Smith Sunday afternoon.

Popick admitted that KBC was confronted with a grave financial crisis on Sunday, because the August 15 payroll was overdue and the players were demanding their salaries before the scheduled game with Oneonta that night.

Edson Posts $1,000

An interesting sidelight was furnished to the stormy controversy by the posting of $1,000 in cash by Harry L. Edson to the Colonial account in order that checks could be written for the player salaries.

A Freeman reporter saw a copy of a letter addressed to the club president by Edson, who does most of the paper work for KBC, Inc., in which Edson appealed to Ertel as "a man of wealth compared to my modest means" to make available the necessary cash to keep the ball club going.

In his letter to Ertel, Edson stated that "you were given several opportunities to resign as president in the past, but you refused to do so."

The letter also suggested that Ertel complete his term and see the season through.

Edson wrote Ertel that he had $1,000 set aside in a fund "for such a time as I might need it during an illness," but that he was willing to sacrifice it, if necessary, to save the ball club.

Refused to Write Checks

Edson had earlier refused to write any checks until there were sufficient funds in the Colonial account to cover payment in full.

The letter also pointed out that Edson was willing to put up all the cash he possessed to insure the semi-monthly payment and the completion of the 1951 schedule for the Colonials.

Edson's $1,000 check was transferred to the Colonial account and the players drew their salaries.

To Be Reimbursed

Popick further stated that KBC directors and officials had agreed that Edson would be reimbursed his 1,000 at the earliest possible date. The club has a large promotion scheduled for Saturday at which time a car will be given away.

Although Ertel had submitted his telephone resignation that afternoon, he was seen among the spectators at municipal stadium. Later that night was observed in heated controversy with Addison Jones, general manager of the team. What developed in the Jones-Ertel confab could not be learned and the general manager declined comment later that night.

At the moment, KBC is without a president but club officials said a meeting would be called in the near future to select a successor to Ertel. Meanwhile, general manager Addison Jones will function as the head of the organization.

Lose to Oneonta

Meanwhile, the club dropped its second straight to Oneonta, 9 to 3, last night at the stadium.

A shaky first inning by a patchwork lineup and a streak of wildness by starter Charlie Ayers sent the league leaders ahead, 5 to 2, at the end of three innings and they were never headed.

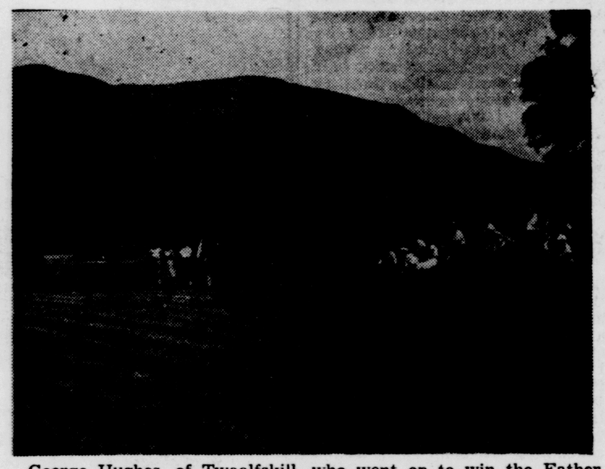

With Nick Marino in Poughkeepsie for his usual Monday training with the Naval Reserve and Dennis Healey called home because of illness in the family, the Colonials had DiFresco at short; Big Sam Piacentino at first and Gene Zubrinski at third. Rick Ostrander took over in right field.

The Colonials had several good chances to break through Charlie Gersten's serves in the first four innings, but the Oneonta right hander settled down to pitch three hit ball in the last six frames.

Johnny Minarcin pounded a single, double and homer for the winners. Gene Zubrinski had three singles for the locals.

The Colonials are scheduled in Amsterdam tonight and Wednesday, returning to the stadium Thursday for an uninterrupted six-night stand. The Rome Colonels will be met in a twi-night doubleheader on Thursday evening. This will be Uptown Business Men's Night.

PUTTER WAS STILL HOT

George Hughes, of Twaalfskill, who went on to win the Father Herdegen Memorial golf tournament with a two-under 208 for 54 holes, had a smoking hot putter in his final round when he equalled the Woodstock Country Club course record for an amateur with a 63. He is shown dropping a birdie-3 on the No. 8 hole the first time around. (Freeman Photo).

White Plains Wins In Legion Tourney

Torrington, Conn., Aug. 21 (AP)—A White Plains, N. Y. team eliminated Bristol, Conn., 5-2, here last night in the American Legion junior baseball tournament for Region 2.

Bristol led 2-0 at the end of the second inning, but White Plains exploded with four runs in the top of the third to cinch the game and send Ed Gaski, Bristol's starting pitcher, to the showers. Four hits, including a triple by Ed Janecek and doubles by Sam Alston and Grover Jones, were coupled with a Bristol error to produce the four runs.

White Plains will meet Pennsauken, N. J. tonight in the double elimination tournament. Pennsauken, undefeated, holds one victory over White Plains, and another would give the New Jersey team the right to represent the region in the sectional tournament at Washington August 27th. If White Plains wins tonight another game will be played to decide the regional representative.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia — Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, 130, New York, stopped Hermie Freeman, 134, Bangor, Me. (Non-title, 5).

THE SCOREBOARD

Dale Mitchell, a bench warmer every spring, is one of the leading lights in Cleveland's stirring drive for the American League pennant.

Mitchell, who has never failed to hit .300 in the big top, sits on the sidelines down south while rookies battle for his left field job. But Mitchell doesn't worry. "I'll be in there before long," is his comment.

Sure enough, before the season is well underway Mitchell is the regular left fielder.

There was some doubt this year if Mitchell would come through again. He got off to a horrible start after all aspirants for his berth failed, but he finally started to click, and so did the Indians.

Mitchell reached the .300 mark in batting last night as the Indians opened a crucial 18-game home stand by defeating the Washington Senators, 5-3.

The triumph, a 43rd birthday present for Manager Al Lopez, enabled the Tribe to pull one game ahead of the runnerup New York Yankees, who divided a twi-night doubleheader with the Tigers in Detroit. The Tigers won the opener, 6-3, but the Yanks grabbed the second, 12-5.

Mitchell opened the Indians half of the first inning with his ninth homer, only two shy of his output in four previous complete big league seasons. Before the inning ended, Al Rosen boomed his 22nd second homer with a mate on and the Indians never were headed. Home runs by Bob Avila in the third and Harry Simpson in the sixth accounted for the other Cleveland runs.

Garcia Wins 17th

Husky Mike Garcia scattered 12 Washington hits in posting his 17th victory of the year compared to eight losses. Mickey Vernon, with a double and three singles, and Ed Yost, with a home run, featured Washington's attack.

Virgil Trucks, with help from Dizzy Trout, stopped the Yanks in the opener at Detroit. Trucks, leading, 4-0, yeft in the eighth when the Yanks tallied twice. The Tigers came back with two in their half to clinch the decision.

Jerry Priddy and Pat Mullin paced the Tigers' 11-hit attack against Lefty Ed Lopat. Priddy drove in three runs on a triple, double and single. Mullin contributed his 11th homer.

The Yanks tucked the nightcap away with an eight-run explosion in the eighth inning on five hits, three walks, an error and fly ball. Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra drove in three runs apiece. Berra homered in the ninth inning of each game to boost his home run output to 20.

Champs Trip Subways In Shaughnessy, 8-4

Beichert's Pound Two Hurlers

The regular season champions—Beichert's Studebakers—drew first blood in the post-season City Softball League Shaughnessy playoff, with an 8 to 4 triumph over Subway Grill, yesterday at Block Park.

Don Weeks scattered eight Subway safeties and was in trouble only in the sixth when Subways scored three times after five scoreless frames.

Led by Bob Graves, Beichert's scored at least one run in five of the seven innings and were ahead 8-0 when the Grills descended on Weeks for three runs. Joe Woods pounded a homer for the winners.

Graves pounded a double and two singles for a lion's share of Beichert's 11-hit total. Danny Basch rapped two singles and everybody except Sonny Woods collected at least one safety.

Tommy Maines had two of the eight Subway safeties—both singles.

Weeks issued two walks and fanned one. The Subways loaded the bases on him and scored one run in the seventh but he tightened up and retired the next two batters without further damage. Tom Spada was the starting and losing hurler for the Grills.

Port Ewen Wins

Port Ewen defeated the All Stars, 9 to 0, behind the two-hit pitching of Don Ferraro. The winners collected 17 hits off A. Spino and J. Fisher, including a homer by Glenn Brown and Van Bramer's three singles. Tyrrel accounted for both All Star safeties.

Mat Show Postponed

The scheduled wrestling return bout between Ivan Gorky and Sailor Bob Riker has been postponed from Saturday, August 25, until September 2, Promoter Bill Johnston announced today.

Giants Trounce Red Sox, 12-2; Hoffman Clouts Seventh Homer

The second half of the Little League is developing into a donnybrook with all four teams involved in a knock-down battle for first place.

Red Sox were riding along serenely, with four wins and one defeat until they bumped into the power-laden Giants yesterday. But it wasn't their day, as the Giants proved by socking 14 hits, including Joe Hoffman's seventh of the season, for an easy 12-2 victory.

Meanwhile, Tony Amato, the boy balladeer and Timmie Fisher combined to check the Red Sox with only one safety—an infield single by Ronnie Ferraro in the third inning when the Sox scored twice.

George Norton rapped a double and two singles for the Giants. Pete Blanschan, Hoffman and John Schoonmaker pounded two hits each, Blanschan and Pete Esposito hitting doubles.

Amato in Streak

Amato's hitless stint for five innings yesterday gave him a string of 11 innings in which he had permitted only four safeties. He shut out the Yankees with two hits last week.

In the Giants' big fifth, Don Juhl singled and Pete Esposito was safe on an error by Ferraro. Amato forced Juhl at third base but Pete Blanschan blasted a ground rule double through the fence in center field. Then came successive singles by Hoffman, Schoonmaker and Norton.

Hoffman's second inning homer was described as one of the longest of the season. It came on the heels of Esposito's walk and Pete Blanschan's single and soared well beyond the snow fence in left center field.

Yanks Recall Mickey Mantle

Detroit, Aug. 21 (AP)—The last time the New York Yankees were in town they shipped Mickey Mantle, boy wonder of the springtime, off to Kansas City for more seasoning.

The Yankees returned here yesterday, and during a twi-night double-header announced they were bringing Mickey back from their American Association farm club because he apparently had regained his batting eye.

Mantle, now undergoing a physical examination for the draft at Fort Sill, Okla., was sent to Kansas City July 15. He was batting .260 and had struck out 52 times in 69 games, after compiling a sensational .403 batting average in spring training.

Through Sunday, Mickey had hit .364 in 40 games for Kansas City, with 60 hits, including 11 homers, and had batted in 50 runs.

Kell Overhauls Minnie Minoso

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP)—For the first time in more than a month, rookie Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox was knocked out of the American League batting lead during the week.

The new leader, in games through Sunday, was George Kell, Detroit's third baseman who won the hitting crown in 1949 with .343.

Kell improved eight percentage points during the week for .339 to jump from third to first, a two-point margin over Minoso with .337.

Ferris Fain of Philadelphia, who spent a spell on the bench with an injury, was out of the official top ten batters for the first time. He is clicking at .334 but has been at bat only 293 times. Official averages were based on 300 or more AB's. Fain, however, is back in action and bound to be bidding for first place this week.

Ted Williams of Boston was third with .325, followed by Gil Coan, Washington, .322; Larry Doby, Cleveland, .313; Bob Avila, Cleveland, .309; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .307; Bill Goodman, Boston, and Hank Majeski, Philadelphia, .304 each; and Nellie Fox, Chicago, .303.

Morgans Execute First Triple Play

Chez Emile, 1951 pennant winners, and Jones Dairy, a perennial champion that has suffered a couple of lean years, clash in the kickoff game of the City League's post-season Shaughnessy playoff at the Athletic Field this evening at 6 o'clock.

A couple of tried and tested veterans — southpaw Warren "Bud" Swarthout of Chez Emile and the Dairymen's Tommy Fisher, greatest pitcher in City League history, will be the opposing pitchers.

Wiltwyck Motors and Boulevard Gulf clash in the "B" series opener on Wednesday.

The season closed out on a farcical note yesterday with Boulevard Gulf nailing down the fourth slot with a 10-2 conquest of the hapless Morgan Merchants.

The Merchants closed out the season with a perfect record of 12 straight defeats; set a new seasonal record of 11 errors in one game and astounded the cash customers by knocking off the lone triple play of the season.

"Bullet Bill" Tierney toyed with the Morgans, yielding six hits while striking out seven. Jerry Bechtold and Vince Clearwater gave up only five hits between them but the 11 Morgan miscues made run scoring a simple matter.

Messinger's Memos:

The triple play pulled Jerry Bechtold out of a big hole in the third inning. With two runs already in and the sacks loaded, Mike Rienzo hit a hard smash at Billy Bahl at third. Bill flagged the drive, stepped on third to double Red Hinkley and then fired to Jack Klosterman at second to cut down Gus Koch. Morgans bettered (?) the former miscue record of eight which they shared with Boulevard Gulf. Manager Pucker Davis had the distinction of being the only Morgan player to escape the "E" column. An all-time home run record was established this season when 32 ice cream and soda drives cleared the fences. Thanks to Johnny Battaglino and Ted Wood, the boys ate and drank more than at any time since the organization of the league.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The $12,000 the New York Yankees paid for "Bonus Baby" Jim Aiello looks like a good investment.

The 18-year-old Herkimer High School product hurled the Amsterdam Rugmakers to an 18-4 triumph over the Rome Colonels in his professional debut last night.

Elsewhere in the Class C Canadian-American circuit, Pittsfield downed visting Gloversville twice, 8-4 and 8-1, and Oneonta whipped Kingston, 9-3.

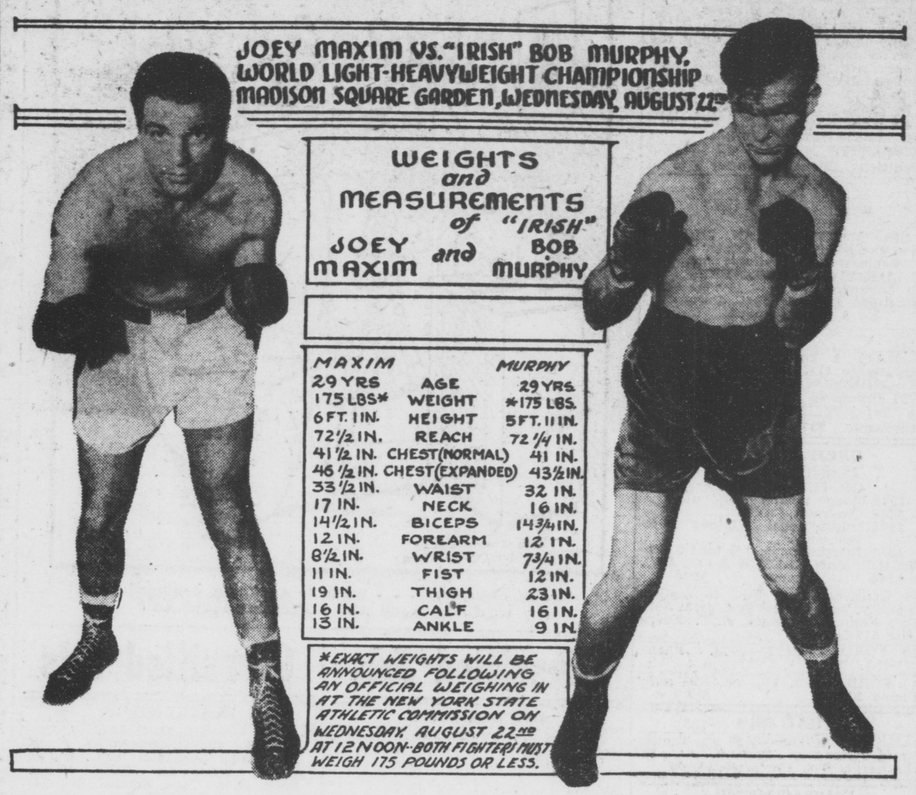

Aiello, a 5-foot-11 righthander signed by the Yankee chain two weeks ago, scattered eight Rome hits, fanned ten and walked seven. He profited from the heavy cannonading of his mates, who lambasted two Colonel servers for 17 hits. Two of the blows went out of the park—first baseman John Paul Jones' 17th circuit smash of the year with one aboard in the fourth, and centerfielder Frank Wehner's 11th with two on in the seventh.

At Pittsfield, righthander George McPhail continued his winning ways by posting his 23rd slab success, a five-hitter in the opener. He fanned seven and did not walk a man. He has lost only seven games.

Outfielder Bill McMillan drove in all the losers' tallies on a pair of homers, a solo sock in the second and a three-run poke in the sixth. Outfielder Bill Pope hit one for Pittsfield in the fourth with one on.

John Minarchin, Oneonta rightfielder, hit a bases-empty homer for the league leaders in the seventh inning of the game at Kingston.

Allentown, Pa.—Johnny Saxton, 143½, New York, stopped Tommy Ciarlo, 146, Waterbury, Conn. (5).

St. Paul, Minn.—Carol Diringer, Tiffin, O., and Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif., each posted scores of 74 to tie the qualifying record in the 51st Women's National Amateur tourney.

Seaside Heights, N. J.—Francis Seavy, Clearwater, Fla., sailing his Gini, won the first race of the National Snipe championships.

Doubt Majors Will Name Chief

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Baseball may be without a commissioner at least until next December despite the earnest efforts of the big league club owners to elect one at their meeting here today.

A poll of the 16 executives showed that a majority believed they would emerge from the session empty-handed for the very solid reason that there isn't anybody among the eligibles with sufficent strength to command the backing of the needed 12 votes.

Some of those among the remaining 11 still being considered —Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, for instance — probably are unavailable.

Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees and chairman of the four-man screening committee, summed it up when he said:

"I don't know whether a commissioner will be named. But I won't let them hurry into it and get the wrong man."

That seemed to be the feeling of almost all the club owners. Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, went a step further.

"It is important that we get the right man for the job," he said, "even if it means waiting until the December meetings—or even longer."

Another owner said: "We're looking for a man to fit certain qualifications. He must have a good knowledge of business; he must have some legal training; he must have public stature and it goes without saying, he must be someone in whom the owners, the players and the public will have implicit faith.

Musial Winging In Senior Loop

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—There appears no stopping St. Louis' Stan Musial in his drive toward his fifth National League batting crown.

The Cardinal outfielder has increased his lead over Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies to 27 points. Musial's average through last Sunday's games is .366 compared with .339 for Ashburn.

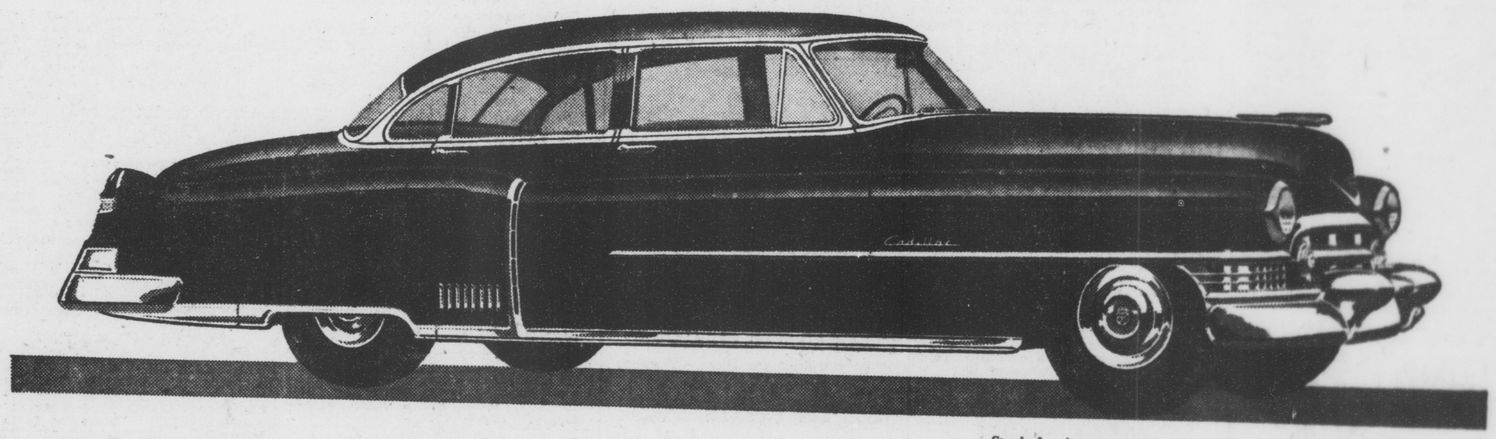

Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn is in third place with .337 and nobody else is close.

Brooklyn's Roy Campanella, who edged into contention a week ago with a .334 average, dropped back to .319 which gave him seventh place.

A Little Wait—or a Big Compromise!

There is, of necessity, some delay in delivery of new Cadillacs. You have to wait a while to get one—the time depending somewhat upon the model you select.

Naturally, you are being urged to purchase other makes of cars—which can be had almost as soon as your signature is on an order blank.

For your own welfare, we hope you will turn a deaf ear to all this—and hold firm.

If your order for a Cadillac is already in—let it stand, and be patient until your car is ready.

If you want a Cadillac, but haven't yet ordered it, do so at once—so the delay may be as short as possible.

It is a simple choice you have to make. You must choose between a little wait—or a big compromise.

You must make this choice because there is no substitute for a Cadillac.

There is, for instance, no substitute for the deep world-wide respect in which it is held—

—there is no substitute for its marvelous over-all performance . . . so smooth, so quiet, so steady that to drive is to relax and to ride is to rest—

—and there is no substitute for the sheer joy of owning and driving it, so great that you will actually think up excuses for taking to the highway!

Yes, if you want a Cadillac—and you know that you do—stand firm until you get it.

There is nothing else like it—nothing in all the wide, wide world that can take its place!

Yanks Recall Mickey Mantle

Detroit, Aug. 21 (AP)—The last time the New York Yankees were in town they shipped Mickey Mantle, boy wonder of the springtime, off to Kansas City for more seasoning.

The Yankees returned here yesterday, and during a twi-night double-header announced they were bringing Mickey back from their American Association farm club because he apparently had regained his batting eye.

Mantle, now undergoing a physical examination for the draft at Fort Sill, Okla., was sent to Kansas City July 15. He was batting .260 and had struck out 52 times in 69 games, after compiling a sensational .403 batting average in spring training.

Through Sunday, Mickey had hit .364 in 40 games for Kansas City, with 60 hits, including 11 homers, and had batted in 50 runs.

Kell Overhauls Minnie Minoso

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP)—For the first time in more than a month, rookie Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox was knocked out of the American League batting lead during the week.

The new leader, in games through Sunday, was George Kell, Detroit's third baseman who won the hitting crown in 1949 with .343.

Kell improved eight percentage points during the week for .339 to jump from third to first, a two-point margin over Minoso with .337.

Ferris Fain of Philadelphia, who spent a spell on the bench with an injury, was out of the official top ten batters for the first time. He is clicking at .334 but has been at bat only 293 times. Official averages were based on 300 or more AB's. Fain, however, is back in action and bound to be bidding for first place this week.

Ted Williams of Boston was third with .325, followed by Gil Coan, Washington, .322; Larry Doby, Cleveland, .313; Bob Avila, Cleveland, .309; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .307; Bill Goodman, Boston, and Hank Majeski, Philadelphia, .304 each; and Nellie Fox, Chicago, .303.

Morgans Execute First Triple Play

Chez Emile, 1951 pennant winners, and Jones Dairy, a perennial champion that has suffered a couple of lean years, clash in the kickoff game of the City League's post-season Shaughnessy playoff at the Athletic Field this evening at 6 o'clock.

A couple of tried and tested veterans — southpaw Warren "Bud" Swarthout of Chez Emile and the Dairymen's Tommy Fisher, greatest pitcher in City League history, will be the opposing pitchers.

Wiltwyck Motors and Boulevard Gulf clash in the "B" series opener on Wednesday.

The season closed out on a farcical note yesterday with Boulevard Gulf nailing down the fourth slot with a 10-2 conquest of the hapless Morgan Merchants.

The Merchants closed out the season with a perfect record of 12 straight defeats; set a new seasonal record of 11 errors in one game and astounded the cash customers by knocking off the lone triple play of the season.

"Bullet Bill" Tierney toyed with the Morgans, yielding six hits while striking out seven. Jerry Bechtold and Vince Clearwater gave up only five hits between them but the 11 Morgan miscues made run scoring a simple matter.

Messinger's Memos:

The triple play pulled Jerry Bechtold out of a big hole in the third inning. With two runs already in and the sacks loaded, Mike Rienzo hit a hard smash at Billy Bahl at third. Bill flagged the drive, stepped on third to double Red Hinkley and then fired to Jack Klosterman at second to cut down Gus Koch. Morgans bettered (?) the former miscue record of eight which they shared with Boulevard Gulf. Manager Pucker Davis had the distinction of being the only Morgan player to escape the "E" column. An all-time home run record was established this season when 32 ice cream and soda drives cleared the fences. Thanks to Johnny Battaglino and Ted Wood, the boys ate and drank more than at any time since the organization of the league.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The $12,000 the New York Yankees paid for "Bonus Baby" Jim Aiello looks like a good investment.

The 18-year-old Herkimer High School product hurled the Amsterdam Rugmakers to an 18-4 triumph over the Rome Colonels in his professional debut last night.

Elsewhere in the Class C Canadian-American circuit, Pittsfield downed visting Gloversville twice, 8-4 and 8-1, and Oneonta whipped Kingston, 9-3.

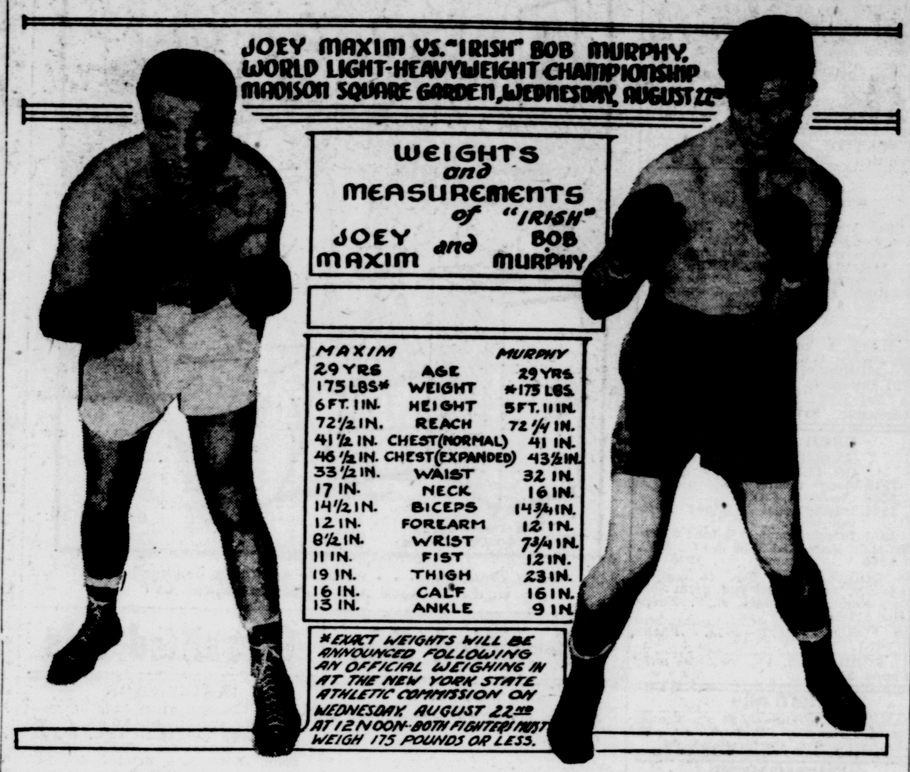

Aiello, a 5-foot-11 righthander signed by the Yankee chain two weeks ago, scattered eight Rome hits, fanned ten and walked seven. He profited from the heavy cannonading of his mates, who lambasted two Colonel servers for 17 hits. Two of the blows went out of the park—first baseman John Paul Jones' 17th circuit smash of the year with one aboard in the fourth, and centerfielder Frank Wehner's 11th with two on in the seventh.

At Pittsfield, righthander George McPhail continued his winning ways by posting his 23rd slab success, a five-hitter in the opener. He fanned seven and did not walk a man. He has lost only seven games.

Outfielder Bill McMillan drove in all the losers' tallies on a pair of homers, a solo sock in the second and a three-run poke in the sixth. Outfielder Bill Pope hit one for Pittsfield in the fourth with one on.

John Minarchin, Oneonta rightfielder, hit a bases-empty homer for the league leaders in the seventh inning of the game at Kingston.

Allentown, Pa.—Johnny Saxton, 143½, New York, stopped Tommy Ciarlo, 146, Waterbury, Conn. (5).

Bowling Roundup

The meeting of the Booster Bowling League scheduled at Morgan's Rest this evening has been transferred to the Bowlodrome because of Primary Day.

The Independent Bowling League, one of the oldest circuits in the KBA, is seeking an 850-average squad to complete its 1951-52 roster. Any team interested is asked to call Roland Post, 2257-R, after 4:30 p. m.

The Independent League rolls at the Bowlatorium on Mondays at 7 p. m., and operates with an 80-percent handicap. Holdover squads are Vogel's Dairy, Beichert's Studebakers, Jump's Market, Martin's Broadway Market, Stone Ridge Firemen, Callanan's, Cole's Market. The schedule opens on Monday, Sept. 10.

A special meeting of the executive board of the Kingston Bowling Association and special committeemen for the 1952 state tournament will be held on Thursday, Aug. 23, at 9:30 p. m., at the Y.M.C.A.

St. Paul, Minn.—Carol Diringer, Tiffin, O., and Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif., each posted scores of 74 to tie the qualifying record in the 51st Women's National Amateur tourney.

Seaside Heights, N. J.—Francis Seavy, Clearwater, Fla., sailing his Gini, won the first race of the National Snipe championships.

You must make this choice because there is no substitute for a Cadillac.

There is, for instance, no substitute for the deep world-wide respect in which it is held—

—there is no substitute for its marvelous over-all performance . . . so smooth, so quiet, so steady that to drive is to relax and to ride is to rest—

—and there is no substitute for the sheer joy of owning and driving it, so great that you will actually think up excuses for taking to the highway!

Yes, if you want a Cadillac—and you know that you do—stand firm until you get it.

There is nothing else like it—nothing in all the wide, wide world that can take its place!

SEC Men Deny Favoring Firm

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—The five members of the Securities and Exchange Commission have termed "literally fantastic" accusations that they gave favored treatment to the United Corporation.

A report prepared by the staff of a House Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) had recommended an investigation of the treatment SEC gave United after the Utility Holding Company hired former SEC officials.

An account of the staff report appeared yesterday in the New York Herald Tribune. The report said William M. Hickey, now president of United, was an SEC official until 1936 and that a number of other United officials are former SEC men. It said United, unlike many other holding companies, had not been forced to dissolve.

In a 1,300-word statement, the SEC commissioners said the "charges and insinuations" were instigated by a minority stockholder of United, and it declared:

"The charge of favoritism to former employes is ridiculous. Most of these employes left the SEC long before any of the present commissioners were appointed to the SEC.

"The charge that the United Corporation is the first holding company that has ever been permitted to become an investment company is untrue—there have been other such cases in the past."

SEC Chairman Harry A. McDonald, after a conference with Walter yesterday, said publication of the report on the preliminary staff study before "inquiry was made of us" was "very unfair."

Walter said he will present the staff report to his subcommittee shortly, possibly tomorrow, for a decision on whether to investigate further. The SEC members said they would welcome an inquiry.

Will Use Helicopters For Some Landings

Boston, Aug. 21 (AP)—Wiggins airways, which operates local air service between Boston and Albany, N. Y., proposes to convert to helicopters to make possible service to downtown Boston and to communities which do not have airports.

Joseph Garside, president of Wiggins, said a statement of intent would be filed tomorrow with the Civil Aeronautics Board at Washington. The line is asking that its certificate be made permanent or renewed for ten years.

Garside said Wiggins anticipates starting helicopter service on a limited scale with single-engine craft, then converting its entire system to multi-engined transport helicopters as soon as they are available, "extending that service to every city and town of the region with enough traffic potential to justify it."

He said the message did not specifically mention an attack on the United States or Pearl Harbor, but that any power would know such a move "would necessitate going to war with America."

He said that Sorge, although a Russian agent and a Communist, also was a member of the Nazi party so fully trusted by German Ambassador Eugene Ott that Ott denounced his arrest. Yoshikawa said Sorge was able to warn Russia before Hitler's invasion of that country June 22, 1941.

Name Crops Up

The witness told the senators the name of the Institute of Pacific Relations—whose affairs are under their scrutiny—cropped up in the investigation. He said he learned some Institute officials were members of the spy band.

Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.) of the subcommittee has charged that Communists used the IPR to influence U. S. foreign policy for the benefit of the Kremlin. The IPR, a private organization, has denied the accusation.

Morris, the subcommittee counsel, said the group plans to shift tomorrow to testimony of "a former Communist" whom he declined to name in advance. The testimony, he said, would deal with "identifying Communists in the IPR."

New Paltz to Hold

Hasbrouck who built Washington's headquarters at Newburgh. The rough stone walls of the Hasbrouck House are topped by a high steep roof of medieval design. The huge stone kitchen was famous for cockfighting in colonial days.

The fort at New Paltz, built in 1705, never saw active military duty but it did serve as a refuge of hospitality for the entire community. Church-going farmers clad in homespun rode in from the countryside on cold winter Sundays, stopping at the Fort to fill their foot-stoves with glowing coals from the fire-place.

Across Huguenot street from the fort stands the Bevier-Elting House built in 1698 by Louis Bevier. Used as a store during Revolutionary days, the house is set off by a window with 28 panes of glass over the front door. Stepping through the door the modern visitor can see unchanged the surroundings of colonial life 250 years ago. Nearby stands the Elting House with its curiously contrived sub-cellar, an inner sanctum where choice liquors were kept safe from pilfering slaves.

Military Personnel May Work on Farms

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Defense Department announced it has authorized local commanders to permit military personnel to take part-time jobs in agriculture and industry if they desire.

Certification by the Public Employment Service office of the area will be required, however. This must assert that there is a local labor shortage emergency and that such employment by military personnel will not interfere with the regular work of civilians.

The department announcement yesterday pointed out that a peak period in the canning industry in many areas is expected soon. Military personnel are authorized to do part time work only while on pass, leave or while off duty.

Will Hold Exam For Engineer Aides

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today announced it will conduct an examination for engineering aides, grade one and two, on Oct. 8.

Three vacancies exist in the grade one classification for which the salary range is $1,900 to $2,200 and one vacancy exists in the grade two classification for which the salary range is $2,300 to $2,600. The positions are under control of the Board of Public Works.

Candidates for the grade one position must have completed a standard senior high school course, or must have had a year's experience as helper in survey parties or engineering projects, or a satisfactory equivalent combination of the two. Good physical condition and knowledge of elementary mathematics are other requirements.

Candidates must have been a resident of the state and the city for at least a year immediately preceding the examination date.

Qualifications for grade two, are virtually the same except two years, instead of one as helper in survey parties or engineering projects is required.

Further information may be obtained from the civil service commission.

Bronx Girl Hurt Here In Traffic Mishap

Diane Fitzgerald, 6, of 407 East 162nd street, Bronx, visiting here with her aunt, Helen Brady, 136 Jansen avenue, was injured in a traffic mishap near that address this morning.

The police report at 11:30 a. m. said that a car operated by Robert Sgroi, 18, of 91 Clifton avenue, owned by his sister, Mildred, of the same address, was headed south on Jansen avenue, when the child "ran off the curb" to cross the street and "collided with the right front of the car." She suffered a bruise of the forehead and her nose was bleeding when she was picked up by Dr. Thomas S. Ingarra and taken to the Benedictine Hospital for X-rays, police said. The doctor was driving over the street at the time.

Will Help Newspapers

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP)—The U. S. high commission disclosed today it is lending 15,000,000 marks $3,570,000, to help "democratic" West German newspapers achieve financial — and thus editorial—independence. The money will be advanced to a German publishers organization called "economic press cooperative" to be used as loans to deserving papers. The plan was revealed in a review of the West German press in the April-June quarterly report to the State Department by Commissioner John J. McCloy.

Sluggish, That's All

Bristol, Eng., Aug. 21 (AP)—The person who found Arthur Coggin's wallet had a conscience. It was just sluggish. The postman delivered the wallet to Coggins yesterday. Still in it were the five one pound notes, it contained when Coggins lost it—on Aug. 20, 1947.

Hurricane Regains

a modern city of almost 100,000 population.

Squalls and heavy seas may extend to the lower Texas coast, the weather bureau said in cautioning small craft to take cover until the fury of the storm has passed.

The weather bureau has advised ships in the southwest Gulf of Mexico to remain in port until all dangers have passed.

The storm developed hurricane force six days ago on moving into the Caribbean from the Atlantic and since has traveled almost 2,300 miles along a west-northwesterly path.

The hurricane—dubbed "Charlie" by the weather bureau—struck the Yucatan peninsula yesterday with 100-mile-an-hour force. But no deaths were reported on the peninsula.

Lightly-built palm thatched huts on Cozumel, an island off the east coast of the peninsula, were blown down.

SEC Men Deny Favoring Firm

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—The five members of the Securities and Exchange Commission have termed "literally fantastic" accusations that they gave favored treatment to the United Corporation.

A report prepared by the staff of a House Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) had recommended an investigation of the treatment SEC gave United after the Utility Holding Company hired former SEC officials.

An account of the staff report appeared yesterday in the New York Herald Tribune. The report said William M. Hickey, now president of United, was an SEC official until 1936 and that a number of other United officials are former SEC men. It said United, unlike many other holding companies, had not been forced to dissolve.

In a 1,300-word statement, the SEC commissioners said the "charges and insinuations" were instigated by a minority stockholder of United, and it declared:

"The charge of favoritism to former employes is ridiculous. Most of these employes left the SEC long before any of the present commissioners were appointed to the SEC.

"The charge that the United Corporation is the first holding company that has ever been permitted to become an investment company is untrue—there have been other such cases in the past."

SEC Chairman Harry A. McDonald, after a conference with Walter yesterday, said publication of the report on the preliminary staff study before "inquiry was made of us" was "very unfair."

Walter said he will present the staff report to his subcommittee shortly, possibly tomorrow, for a decision on whether to investigate further. The SEC members said they would welcome an inquiry.

Will Use Helicopters For Some Landings

Boston, Aug. 21 (AP)—Wiggins airways, which operates local air service between Boston and Albany, N. Y., proposes to convert to helicopters to make possible service to downtown Boston and to communities which do not have airports.

Joseph Garside, president of Wiggins, said a statement of intent would be filed tomorrow with the Civil Aeronautics Board at Washington. The line is asking that its certificate be made permanent or renewed for ten years.

Garside said Wiggins anticipates starting helicopter service on a limited scale with single-engine craft, then converting its entire system to multi-engined transport helicopters as soon as they are available, "extending that service to every city and town of the region with enough traffic potential to justify it."

meant an attack aimed "to the south."

He said the message did not specifically mention an attack on the United States or Pearl Harbor, but that any power would know such a move "would necessitate going to war with America."

He said that Sorge, although a Russian agent and a Communist, also was a member of the Nazi party so fully trusted by German Ambassador Eugene Ott that Ott denounced his arrest. Yoshikawa said Sorge was able to warn Russia before Hitler's invasion of that country June 22, 1941.

Name Crops Up

The witness told the senators the name of the Institute of Pacific Relations—whose affairs are under their scrutiny—cropped up in the investigation. He said he learned some Institute officials were members of the spy band.

Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.) of the subcommittee has charged that Communists used the IPR to influence U. S. foreign policy for the benefit of the Kremlin. The IPR, a private organization, has denied the accusation.

Morris, the subcommittee counsel, said the group plans to shift tomorrow to testimony of "a former Communist" whom he declined to name in advance. The testimony, he said, would deal with "identifying Communists in the IPR."

New Paltz to Hold

Hasbrouck who built Washington's headquarters at Newburgh. The rough stone walls of the Hasbrouck House are topped by a high steep roof of medieval design. The huge stone kitchen was famous for cockfighting in colonial days.

The fort at New Paltz, built in 1705, never saw active military duty but it did serve as a refuge of hospitality for the entire community. Church-going farmers clad in homespun rode in from the countryside on cold winter Sundays, stopping at the Fort to fill their foot-stoves with glowing coals from the fire-place.

Across Huguenot street from the fort stands the Bevier-Elting House built in 1698 by Louis Bevier. Used as a store during Revolutionary days, the house is set off by a window with 28 panes of glass over the front door. Stepping through the door the modern visitor can see unchanged the surroundings of colonial life 250 years ago. Nearby stands the Elting House with its curiously contrived sub-cellar, an inner sanctum where choice liquors were kept safe from pilfering slaves.

Military Personnel May Work on Farms

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Defense Department announced it has authorized local commanders to permit military personnel to take part-time jobs in agriculture and industry if they desire.

Certification by the Public Employment Service office of the area will be required, however. This must assert that there is a local labor shortage emergency and that such employment by military personnel will not interfere with the regular work of civilians.

The department announcement yesterday pointed out that a peak period in the canning industry in many areas is expected soon. Military personnel are authorized to do part time work only while on pass, leave or while off duty.

Will Hold Exam For Engineer Aides

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today announced it will conduct an examination for engineering aides, grade one and two, on Oct. 8.

Three vacancies exist in the grade one classification for which the salary range is $1,900 to $2,200 and one vacancy exists in the grade two classification for which the salary range is $2,300 to $2,600. The positions are under control of the Board of Public Works.

Candidates for the grade one position must have completed a standard senior high school course, or must have had a year's experience as helper in survey parties or engineering projects, or a satisfactory equivalent combination of the two. Good physical condition and knowledge of elementary mathematics are other requirements.

Candidates must have been a resident of the state and the city for at least a year immediately preceding the examination date.

Qualifications for grade two, are virtually the same except two years, instead of one as helper in survey parties or engineering projects is required.

Further information may be obtained from the civil service commission.

Bronx Girl Hurt Here In Traffic Mishap

Diane Fitzgerald, 6, of 407 East 162nd street, Bronx, visiting here with her aunt, Helen Brady, 136 Jansen avenue, was injured in a traffic mishap near that address this morning.

The police report at 11:30 a. m. said that a car operated by Robert Sgroi, 18, of 91 Clifton avenue, owned by his sister, Mildred, of the same address, was headed south on Jansen avenue, when the child "ran off the curb" to cross the street and "collided with the right front of the car." She suffered a bruise of the forehead and her nose was bleeding when she was picked up by Dr. Thomas S. Ingarra and taken to the Benedictine Hospital for X-rays, police said. The doctor was driving over the street at the time.

Judge Reproves Federal Action

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The government has been reproved by a federal judge for refusing to accept a $5,000 bail bond because it was offered by a bondsman belonging to a so-called subversive group.

Federal Judge Edward W. Weinfeld said yesterday the government was guilty of an "abuse of discretion" in refusing to accept the bond offered for Communist leader Alexander Bittelman.

The judge then ordered Bittelman's release in bond.

Bittelman, 61, of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., is facing deportation. He is one of 17 "second string" Red leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government.

Rudolph Politzer had tried to post the $5,000 bail on the deportation matter, but the U. S. Immigration Service rejected the security. Officials said Politzer belonged to an affiliate of the International Workers Order, termed "subversive and Communist" by the U. S. Attorney General.

Bail of $20,000 in the conspiracy case already has been accepted for Bittelman by the government.

Labor Blast Augurs Help for Democrats

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—New blasts at Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and the Taft-Hartley Act indicate some top labor leaders may be getting ready to throw their strength behind a Democratic presidential candidate again in 1952.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor surprised some Republicans by linking an attack on the Taft-Hartley Act with an assertion in an Atlanta speech yesterday that Taft himself is "an organizer of communism in America."

Condemning the labor act as "an insult to the working people of America," Green said the law of which Taft was one of the principal authors "has made people resentful and may turn their faces toward communism."

Dan Tobin, president of the AFL Teamsters, predicted in a union publication that Taft and President Truman will be the nominees of their respective parties. He said Taft is "an honorable man" but holds "antagonism to labor."

LITTLE, BUT DEADLY—Banned from the market in New York and Cleveland is this peanut-sized pistol, made in Japan to sell for about $1.95. The inch-long weapon shoots a 1/16-inch pellet with enough force to penetrate eight pages of heavy bond paper at 15 inches range. It is seen in the hand of a Cleveland, O., detective. Below the pistol are miniature bullets. Burn marks at right show where the pellet entered heavy paper; arrow points to the sharp hole left as it passed through the eighth sheet.

Marine AWOL

Stephen Paul Malik, 22, who gave his home address as Averill Park, Albany, was arrested at Tillson Monday afternoon by sheriff's office men at the request of U. S. Marine Corps authorities, who charged him with desertion. He had been absent without leave from the Marine Corps since about May 26, according to information filed with the sheriff's office. The youth had been employed since that time on a farm on Route 32 near Tillson, the sheriff's office said. He was held at the Ulster county jail to be turned over to Marine Corps authorities.

City Observation Post One of Best In Defense Setup

Kingston's observation post, headed by Mrs. Marguerite Logan of 68 Garden street as post supervisor, is one of the very best in the state.

The local post was examined during the June Ground Observer Corps exercise by a representative of the New York State Civil Defense Commission.

Brig. Gen. Clement H. Wright, (New York National Guard retired) chief of the Aircraft Warning Service section of the Civil Defense Commission expressed himself to Sherwood E. Davis, director of local civil defense, as follows:

"Our representative praised very highly the Kingston Observation post and considers it one of the best he has seen.

"I am particularly impressed with the fact that the post had 200 members at the time of the exercise. That is exceptional."

General Wright said in his letter that he had written his compliments to Mrs. Logan, the post supervisor.

'Selective' Service

New York (AP) — The Marines needed 15 men when 89 draftees were called up for Army Service in New York the other day. Seven men volunteered. The rest were selected by the sergeant in charge of the group. Rudolph J. Spatarella, 21, an office worker, told how it worked: "The sergeant said: 'One of you guys will have to go into the Marines.' Then he looked at me and said: 'You're it'!"

Mossadegh Talks With Anglo Aide

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 21 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh talked for an hour today with Britain's chief negotiator Richard Stokes and America's trouble-shooting W. Averell Harriman about the still deadlocked Iranian oil crisis.

It was the second such meeting in two days as the Anglo-Iranian negotiations over nationalization of the huge British-owned oil installations in Iran were on the verge of a breakdown.

No details of the talks were disclosed, but unconfirmed reports said both Harriman and Stokes were expected to leave Iran this week.

Private talks with the premier apparently were a last-ditch effort to get him to relax Iran's opposition to British proposals for a settlement of the bitter dispute.

Stokes issued a statement designed mainly for Iranian newspapers, declaring the proposed British organization for managing the huge Anglo-Iranian Oil Company refineries at Abadan and the South Iranian oil fields "will be the servant of the National Iranian Oil Company."

The statement defended the British proposal for a 50-50 split in profits as a good business deal. Iran rejected the proposals last week on the grounds that they were not in the spirit of the oil nationalization law by which this country took over ownership of the industry.

"The Persian people must make up their minds whether they want to play politics and ruin themselves or to conduct their affairs on the sound, accepted commercial principles embodied in the "British proposal," Stokes declared.

Painless Fishing

Pueblo, Colo. (AP)—Modern Huck Finns know a good fishing hole when they see one. When a tank truck from the Colorado Game and Fish Department brought 3,000 trout to dump in Mineral Palace Park Lake, nearly 50 boys, poles in hand, met it. Before the men finished dumping the pan-size fish, several lads had caught their day's limit of five and headed home. One boy didn't even use a line for one catch. A fish missed the lake and slid under the truck. The boy came up with the fish firmly clutched in his hand.

Judge Reproves Federal Action

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The government has been reproved by a federal judge for refusing to accept a $5,000 bail bond because it was offered by a bondsman belonging to a so-called subversive group.

Federal Judge Edward W. Weinfeld said yesterday the government was guilty of an "abuse of discretion" in refusing to accept the bond offered for Communist leader Alexander Bittelman.

The judge then ordered Bittelman's release in bond.

Bittelman, 61, of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., is facing deportation. He is one of 17 "second string" Red leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government.

Rudolph Politzer had tried to post the $5,000 bail on the deportation matter, but the U. S. Immigration Service rejected the security. Officials said Politzer belonged to an affiliate of the International Workers Order, termed "subversive and Communist" by the U. S. Attorney General.

Bail of $20,000 in the conspiracy case already has been accepted for Bittelman by the government.

Labor Blast Augurs Help for Democrats

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—New blasts at Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and the Taft-Hartley Act indicate some top labor leaders may be getting ready to throw their strength behind a Democratic presidential candidate again in 1952.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor surprised some Republicans by linking an attack on the Taft-Hartley Act with an assertion in an Atlanta speech yesterday that Taft himself is "an organizer of communism in America."

Condemning the labor act as "an insult to the working people of America," Green said the law of which Taft was one of the principal authors "has made people resentful and may turn their faces toward communism."

Dan Tobin, president of the AFL Teamsters, predicted in a union publication that Taft and President Truman will be the nominees of their respective parties. He said Taft is "an honorable man" but holds "antagonism to labor."
